Magee Again Stops Action In Courtroom

Says Judge Prejudiced, Hits At Angela Lawyer

By MARY LEYDECKER

San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee stopped court hearings again today in his and Angela Davis's case by challenging the latest judge assigned to hear pretrial motions.

At the end of the morning session at the Marin Hall of Justice, which lasted about an hour, Magee also denounced Miss Davis's attorney, Howard Moore Jr., saying he was "just putting on a show."

Judge Richard E. Arnason of Contra Costa County was challenged by Magee about 10 minutes after he had taken the bench. The judge, as he pointed out, had said little more than "good morning" before the challenge.

Magee challenged Arnason for cause as being prejudiced when the judge, as have all past judges, refused to halt proceedings pending Magee's demand that the case be transferred to federal court.

In a now familiar speech, Magee accused Judge Arnason of "driving over my rights," and said he was not "upholding the law you have sworn to uphold."

Miss Davis, who along with Magee is charged with murder, kidnapping, and conspiracy in connection with the August shoot-out at the Civic Center, sat quietly looking off into space while Magee attacked the judge and her attorney.

Judge Arnason, after a recess during which he conferred with the lawyers and Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, presiding judge of Marin Superior Court, said the challenge necessitated a ruling by an outside judge on whether he is prejudiced.

No date was set for the next court appearances.

After the judge had made this statement, Moore asked that charges against Miss Davis be dismissed, saying that she is "locked into a precedure that never gets started."

He called it a "horrendous punishment" that she has been jailed since December and said that the prosecuting attorney (Albert W. Harris Jr.) has no evidence against her. Moore also cited a letter written by Magee in which the convict said Miss Davis was innocent.

Magee responded by saying that if "Mr. Moore was so interested in his client" he would file a writ of habeas corpus on her behalf to get her freed. He told Moore that he has overlooked "this remedy that is over 500 years old" and that he was "toying with the law."

He also said that Moore had not cooperated with him in "finding evidence."

"All I ever get from Mr. Moore is 'we want bail,'" Magee said.

Moore, after court, refused to discuss the possibility of asking that Miss Davis's case be severed from Magee's.

"We want a dismissal," he said firmly.

He also said Magee's demand that the case be transferred to federal court was premature and that no record had yet been made on which it could be shown that the defendants were being denied civil rights.

Still waiting to be heard are nine motions on behalf of Miss Davis, including ones that the case against her be dismissed and that she be released on bail.

Raiders Blow Up Huge Fuel Supply

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist commandos blew up 1.5 million gallons of aviation fuel in a raid on the U.S. base at Cam Ranh Bay Sunday night, then shelled the base with mortars while firemen battled the flames, military spokesmen said today. There were no injuries in the fire or the shelling, but military spokesmen said the fuel loss was believed to be the worst of the Vietnam War.

The fuel blaze at the base 185 miles northeast of Saigon was not brought under control until this morning. Nearly 30 rounds of 82mm mortar shells were fired into the base while the fire was being fought.

In the Central Highlands, a Communist mortar shell destroyed a U.S. Army UH1 Huey helicopter on the ground at Fire Support Base No. 5, killing at least one American and three South Vietnamese field spokesmen said. Another American was wounded. The base was hit by tear gas, as well as high explosive shells, the spokesmen said.

Further north on the southeast end of the A Shau Valley, South Vietnamese infantrymen reported killing 54 Communists in a drive along a narrow ridge. Government casualties were termed light.

Cam Ranh Bay was once considered the safest area in South Vietnam —President Lyndon B. Johnson twice visited there during his presidency —but has been subjected to periodic shelling attacks the past two years. It had not been hit since April 25.

Military spokesmen said the commandos slipped onto the huge base Sunday night and blew up five fuel storage tanks.

The value of the fuel lost was placed at $225,000 by the U.S. command in Saigon and at $285,000 by field sources who said 1.68 million gallons of jet fuel and 210,000 gallons of aviation gasoline were destroyed.

The U.S. command reported four helicopters were shot down in South Vietnam Saturday and Sunday, including an OH6 Cayuse 20 miles east of Saigon. This was the closest to the capital that a helicopter has been shot down in four months.

One crewman was killed and one wounded in the Cayuse shot down near Saigon Sunday. Another Cayuse was downed 145 miles southwest of Saigon Sunday killing two crewmen, spokesmen said.

U.S. Air Force B52s blasted a Communist trail network within a mile of the demilitarized zone and a mile from the Laos border with at least 90 tons of 500 and 750 pound bombs, spokesmen said. Other B52s hit the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos and targets in Cambodia, they said.

The U.S. command announced the American troop strength in South Vietnam declined to 259,300 last week, down 3,200 from the previous week. This was the lowest total since May 1, 1966, when there were 252,000 U.S. soldiers in Vietnam.

Communist gunners kept up their shelling of fire bases near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) Sunday night with a rocket attack on a U.S. artillery position three miles north of Dong Ha, the U.S. command reported.

There were no casualties or damage from the attack, spokesmen said. U.S. and South Vietnamese fire bases along the DMZ have been the target of repeated shelling attacks in the past three days. Thirty GIs were killed in attacks Friday night, most of them in a direct rocket hit on a bunker at Firebase Charlie 2.

At least one American was wounded Sunday night when the Communists fired nearly 20 rounds of 82 mm mortar fire into a U.S. 173rd Airbone Brigade position.

15 More Eagles Discovered Dead

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI)—Fifteen eagles were discovered dead in Wyoming over the weekend, but officials said the birds appeared to have been killed by power lines rather than poisoned.

The latest discovery brought to 40 the number of dead bald and golden eagles, which are protected by federal law, that have been found in the state. Most of the deaths have been blamed on the outlawed poison thallium.

Officials said the 15 latest eagles were found dead near power lines in the Worland area and appeared to have been electrocuted over a long period of time.

Soviet Chief Podgorny To Cairo Talks

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny arrives in Cairo Tuesday for a visit that diplomatic sources in London said reflected deep anxiety over a possible Egyptian shift away from Russia towards the United States.

The semi-official Middle East News Agency said Podgorny will arrive at 5 p.m. Tuesday (10 a.m. EDT) accompanied by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, and will be met at Cairo airport by President Anwar Sadat and other Egyptian leaders. It is Podgorny's second official visit in five months and is to last "several days."

Political sources in Cairo called the visit the most crucial meeting between the two countries since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. Diplomats in London said it reflected Kremlin determination to save its "special relationship" with Egypt through direct barter tactics.

UPI Correspondent Maurice Guindi, quoting political sources in Cairo, said that if Moscow attempted to dictate policy to Egypt on domestic matters it would risk burning its fingers in Egypt and damaging its image as champion of the struggle against collialism and imperialism.

Guindi said both Egypt and the Soviet Union have always viewed their relationship as one of close cooperation on a government - to - government basis and of comradeship in the cause of freedom and independence for all nations.

He said the two have acknowledged all along that these ties were completely different from Moscow's ties with the East European bloc where the Russians have felt free to intervene in the affairs of its Communist allies.

UPI diplomatic correspondent K. C. Thaler, quoting diplomatic sources in London, said the Kremlin cannot allow any significant shift in Egypt's alignment because the Russian investment in Egypt runs into the billions of dollars. But above all Russia's position in the Middle East depends on a clear Cairo commitment to "continue as was."

The Soviet Union already has received repeated pledges from the Sadat regime that the Cairo purges are chiefly domestic and reflect no change in Egypt's foreign relations. But Moscow is neither convinced nor satisfied, the sources said.

National Guard Mobilized In Chattanooga Rioting

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI)—National Guard troops, supplied with live ammunition, moved into Chattanooga today to aid local police, exhausted by three nights of lawlessness by black "marauders."

The sniping, firebombing and looting started Friday night when a musical group failed to put in an appearance at the city's auditorium and youths went on a rampage.

A negro armed with a .22 caliber pistol was wounded during Sunday night's outburst, which caused Gov. Winfield Dunn to order between 1,500 and 2,000 troops into the city of 113,000.

The troops were split up into 20-men "roller teams" which cruised through trouble spots in the city.

Astt. Adjutant Gen. Van Nunally said an officer in each team had been given live ammunition to dispense if necessary. He said the ammunition would be issued only if "troops are in danger or someone else's life" is threatened.

The troop call was the first time the National Guard has been alerted for a racial disorder in Tennessee since 1968, when civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was shot to death by a sniper in Memphis.

Except for some isolated instances of window breaking, police said Chattanooga was quiet today.

Dunn dispatched the troops about midnight at the request of newly installed Mayor Robert K. Walker who said his outmanned police department was unable to cope with increasing lawlessness.

The soldiers, largely from the Chattanooga area, were mobilized during the early morning and moved into the streets around 7 a.m. EDT.

Dunn also sent 80 more state troopers into the troubled city, beefing up the state police force to about 140 men.

Walker, who has been in office only a month, said it was "remarkable" there were no deaths in the extended violence that police said "spilled over" from a disturbance at a soul music show at Municipal Auditorium late Friday night.

Authorities said at least 15 fires were touched off by firebombs Sunday night and early this morning. Firemen fighting the blazes were harassed by snipers, police said.

Walker Sunday had asked Dunn, in Nashville, to "make available" the Guardsmen in case they were needed. He told Dunn about midnight the soldiers were needed because of increasing firebombing, sniping and looting around the city.

Police said a Negro was wounded by gunfire in a predominantly black section of the city Sunday night. The man, Scott Lacy, 32, was listed in fair condition in Ehrlanger Hospital with small caliber bullet wounds. Earlier in the weekend violence, Wayne Cole, a white man, had received minor gunshot wounds in the head while getting into his car.

Walker, in a news conference Sunday, appealed for "reason and order," and said the violence was not "racially motivated." He said the vandalism and hoodlumism was being carried out by bands of "marauders."

High Court Sets Compulsory Education Review Next Term

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court agreed today to rule next term whether state authorities may compel children to attend school up to age 16 in violation of their parents' religious convictions. The test case mainly involves the Amish sect.

Arguments will he heard next fall or winter on a ruling from Wisconsin. It marks the first time the court has agreed to consider a challenge of a state compulsory education law on religious grounds.

At issue is a decion by the Wisconsin Supreme Court which held unconstitutional a state law requiring Amish children under 16 to attend school after completing the eighth grade. The state court held the mandatory law interfered with religious freedom.

The Supreme Court also:

—Upbraided the Justice Department and the 6th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for misrepresenting facts in the case of James Herman Bostic, a convicted bank robber. The Court, which had accepted the case, said it did so on the basis of the "mistaken representation" of the department and appeals court that Bostic had been convicted of conspiracy to commit murder rather than robbery. It dismissed his appeal but only after taking the court and the Justice Department to task.

—Let stand lower court decisions authorizing "alien commuters" to cross U. S. borders from Mexico and Canada to work on farms in this country. The immigration policy had been challenged by the AFL-CIO on grounds incoming workers competed with Americans for the jobs.

-Held in a Georgia case that a state cannot automatically suspend the license of a driver if he fails to post bond to cover liability in an accident.

Two Killed In San Jose Brawl

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Two men were killed Sunday night when a brawl broke out among 300 persons at a park following an afternoon of drinking.

About 80 law enforcement officers were called to quell the disturbance and "several" sniper shots were fired at them.

The coroner's office said A. K. "Willie" Garcia, 24, was shot to death and Ernie Mendoza, 17, was fatally stabbed. Both were from San Jose.

Undersheriff Thomas Rosa said Benjamin Mendoza, 22, the stabbing victim's brother, was wounded by officers when he refused to drop a gun he was holding.

Weekend Fights Hit Travis Base

TRAVIS AFB (UPI)—An Air Force spokesman said today a series of weekend brawls at this huge base near Fairfield "appeared to have had racial overtones."

The spokesman would not elaborate and pointed out the incidents were still under investigation.

Two black airmen were arrested and several persons suffered minor injuries.

Local Action Need Cited In Marin's Open Space

Unless local governments take positive action to preserve open space and environment, regional agencies will take over that role in the next five years, a Marin County planner predicted today.

Albert Solnit, chief of advance planning, made the prediction during a preliminary presentation of the countywide plan for open space before the Marin County Planning commissioners.

The preliminary presentation of the open space plan will be followed up by other public hearings before it is incorporated into a countywide general plan that is being drawn up.

Solnit and planner Sol Silver said that the countywide general plan will divide Marin County into three general corridors:

1. The Eastern urbanized corridor along Highway 101 where the 11 cities are located. Here, bay and marsh edges and lowlands should be kept open, and greenbelts should be provided along the ridges and uplands above Mill Valley, Lucas Valley and Novato. Natural environment should be preserved along creeks and streams that are not already concreted.

2. Coastal recreation corridor from Golden Gate Headlands to Point Reyes Seashore. Much of this will be permanently open in the form of public parks. Resort facilities should be allowed in spots along Tomales Bay, but concentrated building should not be permitted along the San Andreas Fault.

3. The inland rural corridor, from the eastern corridor to Tomales Bay, including Nicasio, Hicks and San Geronimo valleys. There, the rural life style should be salvaged, with a positive effort to preserve agricultural and grazing use.

Solnit said the countywide general plan will be a refinement of the city-centered concept outline in the regional plan drawn up by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Under the city-centered concept, most of the residential growth would be concentrated in the eastern corridor.

Undersheriff Thomas Rosa said Benjamin Mendoza, 22, the stabbing victim's brother, was wounded by officers when he refused to drop a gun he was holding.

High Court Sets Compulsory Education Review Next Term

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court agreed today to rule next term whether state authorities may compel children to attend school up to age 16 in violation of their parents' religious convictions. The test case mainly involves the Amish sect.

Arguments will he heard next fall or winter on a ruling from Wisconsin. It marks the first time the court has agreed to consider a challenge of a state compulsory education law on religious grounds.

At issue is a decion by the Wisconsin Supreme Court which held unconstitutional a state law requiring Amish children under 16 to attend school after completing the eighth grade. The state court held the mandatory law interfered with religious freedom.

The Supreme Court also:

—Upbraided the Justice Department and the 6th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for misrepresenting facts in the case of James Herman Bostic, a convicted bank robber. The Court, which had accepted the case, said it did so on the basis of the "mistaken representation" of the department and appeals court that Bostic had been convicted of conspiracy to commit murder rather than robbery. It dismissed his appeal out only after taking the court and the Justice Department to task.

—Let stand lower court decisions authorizing "alien commuters" to cross U. S. borders from Mexico and Canada to work on farms in this country. The immigration policy had been challenged by the AFL-CIO on grounds incoming workers competed with Americans for the jobs.

-Held in a Georgia case that a state cannot automatically suspend the license of a driver if he fails to post bond to cover liability in an accident.

The spokesman would not elaborate and pointed out the incidents were still under investigation.

Two black airmen were arrested and several persons suffered minor injuries.

Honorary Consul Kidnapped

ROSARIO, Argentina (UPI) — Argentina's security forces appealed for information from citizens today in the search for honorary British Consul Stanley Sylvester, kidnapped yesterday by the left-wing "people's revolutionary army."

Sylvester

Syvester, 58, was the third political hostage taken by Argentine urban guerrila terrorists in 14 months. Three men abducted him at gunpoint as he left his home six miles from the center of Rosario.

A brief communique left in a downtown bar by the left-wing organization four hours after the abduction said the Argentine-born Sylvester — who also holds British citizenship — would "be placed at the disposal of popular justice."

No conditions were set for his release. His identification card was left with the communique "as proof of the operation." In Montevideo, 100 miles east of Buenos Aires across the River Plate, Uruguayan Tupamaro terrorists were holding British Ambassador Geoffrey Jackson and three Uruguayan businessmen.

Going Home

Turning to grin and give the two -fingered peace sign, Wesley, 22, boarded a plane at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport today to take him back to his Yarmouth, Maine, home where he works as a ski instructor.

He was wearing civilian clothes, the Army fatigues he's been wearing for the past four weeks crumpled in a duffel bag to take back with him.

Spec. 4 Glenn Storer, 21, who got his brother to take his place as a GI when he was home on leave after six months as an Americal Division rifleman, was still out in the field in the Northern province of Quang Nam, a spokesman said.

Become Radicals

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Many young Americans who volunteered to work for VISTA, the domestic peace corps, say they were radicalized by their year of working with the poor, a major study reported Sunday.

More than a quarter of 3,000 former VISTA volunteers questioned by a Penn State University sociologist call themselves radicals today, and 60 per cent say they were moved politically to the left by the experience.

All but a handful of the self-described radicals among the former VISTA workers are committed to peaceful change in the system, said the sociologist, David Gottlieb, 40.

Gottlieb, a former associate director of the Office of Economic Opportunity which administers VISTA (Volunteers In Service To America), conducted the study under a grant from the OEO.

Muskie Leads

BOSTON (UPI)—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie leads President Nixon in a poll of potential New Hampshire primary voters reported in a copyrighted story by the Boston Globe.

The poll, conducted for the Globe by Becker Research Corp., showed the Democratic senator from Maine with 49 per cent of the vote and Nixon with 41 per cent.

Results of the poll, published Sunday, showed Muskie to be the top vote-getter among potential Democratic candidates.

Sampled were 1,986 New Hampshire residents who said they would vote next March in that state's primary, either in the Republican or Democratic contests. It included 574 Democrats, 838 Republicans, 288 independents and 254 persons not yet registered who said they would sign up in time to vote.

Nixon beat every other potential Democratic candidate, including Mayor John V. Lindsay, the Republican mayor of New York whom some politicians are encouraging to switch parties.

Lava Flows

TANIA, Sicily (UPI) — Residents of Fornazzo fled down the slopes of Mount Etna today in the red glare of the erupting volcano as a newriver of lava threatened to engulf their village.

The mayor of Catania, a seaport city of 363,000 persons ordered roads up the mountainside cleared of all traffic except that of persons evacuating their homes.

Rocket Ready

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The rocket problems have been fixed and engineers are aiming toward Saturday for the launch of the second and last Mariner television satellite toward Mars.

"We're in good shape," a Space Agency spokesman reported Saturday night after the launch team successfully completed a day-long flight acceptance test on the Atlas-Centaur rocket and its 2,200 pound Mariner spacecraft.

Engineers set Saturday night as the earliest possible launch date for the Mariner, but a definite schedule will not be fixed until mid week, when top Space Agency officials review the overall status of the $77 million mission.

Tornado Kills Man In Texas

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

James Carroll, 47, died when a twister hit his mobile home on the east side of Whitney, Tex. An estimated 30 to 35 other persons were injured and some 50 buildings leveled as the storm roared through the community of 1,500 persons near Waco.

The twister moved from the northwest to the southeast across the city, hitting the downtown area first, then moving across to the trailer house communities on the East Side before finally moving toward Lake Whitney, where scattered damage was done.

The tornado was the second reported from north Texas thunderstorms Sunday afternoon and evening. The first touched down harmlessly in an empty farm field near Iredell, Tex.

One of about 10 Iowa tornadoes caused considerable damage to the Darrell Danewood farm near New Market, Iowa. Mrs. Danewood said the family went to the basement and hid under a stairway when her husband saw the twister approaching. The Iowa twisters also were by products of a spring storm system that brought hail, rain and high winds to the state.

Tornadoes skipped across portions of eastern Nebraska Sunday causing minor damage but no injuries. A storm system deluged the northwest portion of the state. Tornadoes touched near Fremont, Wahoo and Colon, Neb. They caused no major damage and no injuries.

A funnel cloud also was sighted near El Dorado, Kan.

Man Claims To Be 140, A Father

TEHRAN (UPI) — Farmer Baksha Ali Sabzei claims to be 140. He also says he is the father of a month-old daughter. The Tehran newspaper Ettelaat said Bashshali's 30-year-old wife, Mah Soltan Sultan of the Moon, gave birth a month ago in the farming village of Khaveh, south of Tehran. Mah Soltan is the farmer's third wife, it said.

"My first wife died 60 years ago and I was so used to a married life that I just could not live without a wife, so I got married again," the newspaper quoted Bakhshali as saying.

He was 38 when he first married in 1869. His wife bore him three children, the eldest of whom is now 87, he said. He had four children by his second wife, but Soghra was his first child by Mah Soltan, whom he married when she was 18.

He said he hopes they have another soon "as one child alone creates anxiety for a mother."

78 Die On Airliner; Fire Hampers Rescue

BELGRADE (UPI)—Firemen were unable to pierce sheets of flame hundreds of feet high to rescue the British tourists trapped aboard an airliner that crashed at Rijeka airport, witnesses said today. Seventyeight passengers died.

A special commission investigated the cause of the crash on the rocky Adriatic island of Krk today while efforts were made to identify the charred bodies.

The national news agency Tanjug said five persons, four of them crew members, scrambled safely from the burning wreckage of the Soviet-made T134 Sunday night. The plane belonged to Yugoslav Aviogenex Co.

Yugoslav airline officials said 78 were killed, 72 of them British tourists.

Witnesses at the airport told Tanjug the plane struck the runway Sunday, rolled about 300 yards and burst into flames. Then there were a series of explosions that sent flames soaring hundreds of feet into the air and tore the plane apart, they said. Wreckage and baggage were scattered over an area 100 yards wide.

Bank Of America Branch At Airport Is Bombed

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—The 31st bombing of a Bank of America branch in California occurred Sunday when a blast blew out the front of the Oakland airport Branch.

No one was injured in the blast, there was no fire, no witnesses to the bombing and police said they had no suspects.

Officers said a white van truck was stopped near the scene shortly after the 6:06 pmm. blast, but the occupants were released after being cleared by police.

A police spokesman said the blast demolished the plate glass exterior of the two-year-old brick building and damaged the interior. Firemen estimated damage at between $15,000 and $20,000.

The spokesman said the case was turned over to the FBI.

Pepsi Fined $1,400 For Polluting Canal

MIAMI (UPI)—The Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. has been fined $1,400 for polluting a canal that runs behind the soft drink firm's largest bottling plant.

A Dade County jury found the company guilty on seven counts of pollution Saturday and Judge Mattie Belle Davis fined the firm $200 on each charge. The maximum fine on each count is $500.

Ex-Sen. Dodd Dies At 64; Censured By Colleagues

OLD LYME, Conn. (UPI)—Former Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., censured by his colleagues in 1967 for alleged financial misconduct, died today of an apparent heart attack. He was 64.

Dodd suffered a mild heart attack in 1970 at a testimonidal dinner and the seizure interrupted his campaigning as an Independent for a third term. He lost to Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn.

Dodd's censure for allegedly converting $116,000 in testimonial dinner funds to his personal use —a censure that condemned him for conduct "contrary to accepted morals" —did not daunt him.

He referred to himself later "as the only proven honest man in Washington." This was a reference to a letter from Attorney General John N. Mitchell which Dodd said "exonerated him of any wrongdoing."

Dodd leaned on the letter heavily in his unsuccessful campaign to retain his seat in the Senate against two challengers, The Rev. Joseph D. Duffey, former National Chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, and Weicker, heir to the Squibb durg fortune.

THOMAS J. DODD
Heart attack victim

He campaigned on his record and the slogan "when Tom Dodd wins, America wins."

Dodd, a former FBI agent, who was chief American prosecutor at the Nuremburg trials, said two weeks ago he would ask for the release of ailing former Nazi leader Rudolph Hess.

Dodd, who helped convict the 76-year-old aide to Adolph Hitler at the 1946 war crimes trials, said he felt Hess should be placed in a mental institution or a hospital rather than Berlin's Spandau Prison.

Known as the "Crusader from Connecticut" for his staunch advocacy of gun controls, his stance against television violence and his call for prison reform, Dodd's career spanned 40 years after his graduation from Providence, (R.I.) College and Yale Law School.

1,000 Dead In Turkey Earthquake

BINGOL, Turkey (UPI)—The government said today the death toll has reached 1,000 in eastern Turkey's earthquake and reports from isolated villages could drive it higher. Survivors in Bingol called the quake "The wrath of Allah."

The quake that hit Saturday night was the second in 10 days to strike the country. An earthquake May 12 killed 57 persons in southwestern Turkey.

The government officially put the death toll at 1,000 but said reports still had not been received from many outlying villages in this mountainous region 375 miles east of Ankara.

The survivors of Bingol, the provincial capital of about 18,000 persons, called the latest calamity "The wrath of Allah."

Women and children were among the survivors joining army troops brought in by helicopters in the work of recovering bodies. Mule teams making their way up paths on the mountainside brought additional help and relief supplies.

Officials said 80 per cent of Bingol's buildings were damaged and unuseable, including the post office, the hospital and the prison. Officials later were able to install emergency power in some areas.

A steady rain throughout most of Sunday hampered rescue work. Helicopters made trip after trip from the capital to outlying districts dropping food supplies, mostly bread.

Premier Nihat Erim visited the area with several members of his cabinet Sunday. He ordered that everything possible be done to bring relief to the earthquake victims.

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today launched Cosmos 422, an unmanned earth satellite, into a wide elliptical orbit that carried it as far as 633 miles from the earth, the news agency Tass said.

Japanese Bid Told For SST Revival

WASHINGTON (UPI) —William M. Magruder, director of SST development for the Transportation Department, says a Japanese firm has offered $500 million to resurrect the 1,800-mile per hour plane.

Magruder also says a New England firm "with Middle East oil interests" has discussed with him the possibility of putting $750 million into the SST program.

Turkey Arrests 3 In Envoy's Slaying

ISTANBUL (UPI)—Turkish authorities said today they have arrested two girls and a man in connection with the assassination of kidnaped Israeli consul-general Ephraim Elrom.

The authorities identified the man as Omer Erinc and the two girls as Kadriye Nizozgen and Julide Zaim, but gave no other details. Elrom, 59, was found Sunday by police and troops during a massive sweep of the city during a 15-hour curfew. His hands were tied behind his back and he had been shot three times in the head.

The body of the Israeli diplomat, who had joined his nation's foreign service only two years ago in an effort to recover from the death of his son, was flown back to Tel Aviv where it lay in state and was then being buried today.

Elrom was kidnaped a week ago by five gunmen. In later communications a group identifying itself as the left-wing "Turkish Peoples' Liberation Army" said it was responsible for the kidnap and would execute the Israeli diplomat unless their comrades being held in prison were released.

The Turkish government refused to bargain with the group and instead carried out numerous sweeps of the city and arrested a number of persons in connection with the kidnaping. A Thursday deadline for release of the men held in Turkish prisons came and went with no word from the kidnapers.

Saturday evening authorities put a 15-hour curfew on the city to enable them to make a careful search for Elrom. They found his body Sunday morning in an apartment only 500 yards from the Israeli consulate and 750 yards from his home, where he was kidnaped as he left for work.

The landlord of the apartment, the porter for the building and a number of tenants of neighboring apartments were being held and questioned by police.

Ex-Sen. Dodd Dies At 64; Censured By Colleagues

OLD LYME, Conn. (UPI)—Former Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., censured by his colleagues in 1967 for alleged financial misconduct, died today of an apparent heart attack. He was 64.

Dodd suffered a mild heart attack in 1970 at a testimonial dinner and the seizure interrupted his campaigning as an Independent for a third term. He lost to Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn.

Dodd's censure for allegedly converting $116,000 in testimonial dinner funds to his personal use —a censure that condemned him for conduct "contrary to accepted morals" —did not daunt him.

He referred to himself later "as the only proven honest man in Washington." This was a reference to a letter from Attorney General John N. Mitchell which Dodd said "exonerated him of any wrongdoing."

Dodd leaned on the letter heavily in his unsuccessful campaign to retain his seat in the Senate against two challengers, The Rev. Joseph D. Duffey, former National Chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, and Weicker, heir to the Squibb durg fortune.

THOMAS J. DODD
Heart attack victim

He campaigned on his record and the slogan "when Tom Dodd wins, America wins."

Dodd, a former FBI agent, who was chief American prosecutor at the Nuremburg trials, said two weeks ago he would ask for the release of ailing former Nazi leader Rudolph Hess.

Dodd, who helped convict the 76-year-old aide to Adolph Hitler at the 1946 war crimes trials, said he felt Hess should be placed in a mental institution or a hospital rather than Berlin's Spandau Prison.

Known as the "Crusader from Connecticut" for his staunch advocacy of gun controls, his stance against television violence and his call for prison reform, Dodd's career spanned 40 years after his graduation from Providence, (R.I.) College and Yale Law School.

1,000 Dead In Turkey Earthquake

BINGOL, Turkey (UPI)—The government said today the death toll has reached 1,000 in eastern Turkey's earthquake and reports from isolated villages could drive it higher. Survivors in Bingol called the quake "The wrath of Allah."

The quake that hit Saturday night was the second in 10 days to strike the country. An earthquake May 12 killed 57 persons in southwestern Turkey.

The government officially put the death toll at 1,000 but said reports still had not been received from many outlying villages in this mountainous region 375 miles east of Ankara.

The survivors of Bingol, the provincial capital of about 18,000 persons, called the latest calamity "The wrath of Allah."

Women and children were among the survivors joining army troops brought in by helicopters in the work of recovering bodies. Mule teams making their way up paths on the mountainside brought additional help and relief supplies.

Officials said 80 per cent of Bingol's buildings were damaged and unuseable, including the post office, the hospital and the prison. Officials later were able to install emergency power in some areas.

A steady rain throughout most of Sunday hampered rescue work. Helicopters made trip after trip from the capital to outlying districts dropping food supplies, mostly bread.

Premier Nihat Erim visited the area with several members of his cabinet Sunday. He ordered that everything possible be done to bring relief to the earthquake victims.

Cosmos In Orbit

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today launched Cosmos 422, an unmanned earth satellite, into a wide elliptical orbit that carried it as far as 633 miles from the earth, the news agency Tass said.

Turkey Arrests 3 In Envoy's Slaying

ISTANBUL (UPI)—Turkish authorities said today they have arrested two girls and a man in connection with the assassination of kidnaped Israeli consul-general Ephraim Elrom.

The authorities identified the man as Omer Erinc and the two girls as Kadriye Nizozgen and Julide Zaim, but gave no other details. Elrom, 59, was found Sunday by police and troops during a massive sweep of the city during a 15-hour curfew. His hands were tied behind his back and he had been shot three times in the head.

The body of the Israeli diplomat, who had joined his nation's foreign service only two years ago in an effort to recover from the death of his son, was flown back to Tel Aviv where it lay in state and was then being buried today.

Elrom was kidnaped a week ago by five gunmen. In later communications a group identifying itself as the left-wing "Turkish Peoples' Liberation Army" said it was responsible for the kidnap and would execute the Israeli diplomat unless their comrades being held in prison were released.

The Turkish government refused to bargain with the group and instead carried out numerous sweeps of the city and arrested a number of persons in connection with the kidnaping. A Thursday deadline for release of the men held in Turkish prisons came and went with no word from the kidnapers.

Saturday evening authorities put a 15-hour curfew on the city to enable them to make a careful search for Elrom. They found his body Sunday morning in an apartment only 500 yards from the Israeli consulate and 750 yards from his home, where he was kidnaped as he left for work.

The landlord of the apartment, the porter for the building and a number of tenants of neighboring apartments were being held and questioned by police.

Japanese Bid Told For SST Revival

WASHINGTON (UPI) —William M. Magruder, director of SST development for the Transportation Department, says a Japanese firm has offered $500 million to resurrect the 1,800-mile per hour plane.

Magruder also says a New England firm "with Middle East oil interests" has discussed with him the possibility of putting $750 million into the SST program.

Survives Red Capture, Tells Her Own Story

Reds Told Her: Tell The Truth

By KATE WEBB
U.P. International

Editor's Note: Following is the first in a series of personal impressions written by UPI's 28-year-old Phnom Penh bureau chief about her capture and release 23 days later by North Vietnamese troops in Cambodia.

Had it not been for Toshiichi Suzuki of Nihon Denpa News, one of my co-captives, this story would be like a silent movie. "Suza-Kee," as the Vietnamese pronounced his name, had spent two and one-half years in Hanoi as a correspondent and speaks Vietnamese well. For his courage, diplomacy and untiring translation efforts, I am forever in debt. There will remain a bond between us, more real than the ropes that at times bound us together.

We stood in the dusk, an odd little group of six, turning to wave goodbye to the soldiers who had come to watch us leave on our walk back to freedom. "Tell the truth about us," they said.

"If we make it back," I thought, "If we make it back."

We were lucky. We made it. Twenty-three days after those first shots rang out on Highway 4.

KATE WEBB
Back from dead

April 7 was a quiet, hot day. The only photographs I had gotten were of Cambodian paratroopers swarming over a water truck. The road was so hot the drops of water sizzled as they splashed on the asphalt.

"To heck with this," I thought as Chhim Sarath, the UPI driver, and I plodded down Highway 4. "The story's in Pakistan today anyway."

I knotted my handkerchief around my neck as a sweat-catcher. Sweat was running into my eyes, down my arms and onto my camera. It was about 1 p.m. at Kilometer 93.5.

Then without warning the world exploded into the crack and whistle of small arms fire, the crash of mortars, hammer of automatic weapons — and the sudden screams of wounded.

We were in a ditch, scrambling. A paratrooper in front of me trailed his leg, the green and brown of his camouflage uniform drenched red. He moved forward down the ditch and stained the grass. Crack! Blood blossomed from the paratrooper's shoulder.

"The other way! The other way! Back to the C.P. (command post)," I gasped at Sarath. My foot was cut. I stumbled, slipped on the blood and my sandal came off. Sarath threw it forward to me.

"Radio, no radio here, we must move to radio," Sarath said.

Then we realized what had happened. They were hitting the rear C.P. and the forward C.P. We were in the middle and the road was a shooting gallery. The twice-wounded paratrooper stood up and moved like a ghastly sleepwalker, dazed. Crack! His other leg. He fell beside us, his face still blank. Thea Kim Heang, the freelance photographer, put a cigarette in the soldier's hand. He smoked, slowly, automatically.

Another young paratrooper came running, doubled up, from the direction of the rear C.P., the zing of bullets in the air around him. I saw Toschiichi Suzuki, the correspondent from Nihon Denpa news, the Japanese Newsfilm agency, and his interpreter huddled between some bushes behind us.

I lit a cigarette. "This is it," I thought.

The young paratrooper doubled and ran again. We heard a volley of shots. Another paratrooper followed him, more shots. We looked at one another, our eyes hollow with realization, and started scrambling back into the jungle, into Viet Cong lines, 56 miles from the safety of Phnom Penh.

Daring Death Is Her Business

By U.P. International

It was typical of Catherine M. "Kate" Webb to turn up safe and sound two weeks after she was given up for dead.

Once a couple of years ago she was freed from her news duties in Saigon to take one of the periodic "rest and recuperation" leaves UPI reporters are given. Instead of taking the customary trip to Hong Kong or Bangkok, Miss Webb traveled to Quant Tri province in the northern part of South Vietnam where she spent 10 days with South Vietnamese troops to see how they performed in action.

Another time during the Tet offensive in Saigon in early 1968 she was caught in a Communist barrage on a schoolhouse where South Vietnamese colonels were holding a strategy meeting. Several officers were killed but Miss Webb survived, brushing off debris to write one of the more dramatic stories of the day.

Kate Webb — she dislikes being called Catherine — is soft-spoken, friendly and gentle but underneath she is a tough news competitor who believes that the way to write a story is to be there to see firsthand what happens.

A colleague, in writing what he thought was Miss Webb's obituary, in April, said, "She appeared as a waif, plodding the Saigon streets in a striped dress and sandals, her feet almost as dirty as the sidewalks. The waif manner never disappeared even when she donned green fatigues and awkward combat boots for trips to the field. Her helmet usually slipped off at inopportune moments and in a heavy flak jacket, she was almost hidden from view.

"She was not fearless but she was brave. She went through mortar and rocket attacks, landings in disabled helicopters and the common battlefield dangers of bullets and shrapnel and would emerge shaken but determined."

Miss Webb was born in Christchurch, New Zealand, in 1943 and educated in Australia where she won a degree in philosophy at Melbourne University. She worked for the Sydney Sunday Mirror and the Sydney Daily Mirror before joining UPI in Saigon in 1967.

She interrupted her Indochina career for a stint as a member of the UPI staff in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1969, and returned to Asia late in 1970. She became manager of the UPI bureau in Phnom Penh, capital of Cambodia, following the death of Frank Frosch, who was slain with UPI photographer Kyoichi Sawada in October, 1970.

On April 7 she disappeared while covering a drive by Cambodian troops on Highway 4 and two weeks later a body identified at the time as hers was found in the vicinity. On May 1, however, she telephoned the UPI bureau in Phnom Penh from an outlying town to announce that she was free after having been released by the Communists.

Santa Rosa Man Booked In Credit Card Theft

A 21-year-old Santa Rosa man has been booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of purchasing shoes and boots in Corte Madera with a stolen credit card.

Arrested Saturday by Corte Madera police was Richard Dennis Reed, said to have bought $81 worth of footwear at Kramar's Shoes at Corte Madera Shopping Center and forged a San Francisco man's name to pay for them.

The credit card is believed to have been stolen from a San Francisco post office. How Reed obtained possession of it is not known, officers said today.

Reed remained in jail in lieu of $1,250 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Newspapers Sued On Wire Services

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department has charged in a civil suit the New York Times and the Chicago Daily News and Sun-times violated antitrust laws by sharing a single supplemental wire service.

The two firms also were accused Friday of violating the Sherman Antitrust Law by sharing a single sales force in operating their news service. The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn.

Last Whitewater Log Drive Finished

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI)—The last of the whitewater sawlog drives in the United States was completed Friday, 91 miles from its beginning on the North Fork of the Clearwater River May 3.

It was the 40th year of the drive. In that period, 1.74 billion board feet of freshly cut timber has been pushed, pulled and mostly floated downstream to the Potlatch Forests, Inc., millpond.

Kate Webb — she dislikes being called Catherine — is soft-spoken, friendly and gentle but underneath she is a tough news competitor who believes that the way to write a story is to be there to see firsthand what happens.

A colleague, in writing what he thought was Miss Webb's obituary, in April, said, "She appeared as a waif, plodding the Saigon streets in a striped dress and sandals, her feet almost as dirty as the sidewalks. The waif manner never disappeared even when she donned green fatigues and awkward combat boots for trips to the field. Her helmet usually slipped off at inopportune moments and in a heavy flak jacket, she was almost hidden from view.

"She was not fearless but she was brave. She went through mortar and rocket attacks, landings in disabled helicopters and the common battlefield dangers of bullets and shrapnel and would emerge shaken but determined."

Miss Webb was born in Christchurch, New Zealand, in 1943 and educated in Australia where she won a degree in philosophy at Melbourne University. She worked for the Sydney Sunday Mirror and the Sydney Daily Mirror before joining UPI in Saigon in 1967.

She interrupted her Indochina career for a stint as a member of the UPI staff in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1969, and returned to Asia late in 1970. She became manager of the UPI bureau in Phnom Penh, capital of Cambodia, following the death of Frank Frosch, who was slain with UPI photographer Kyoichi Sawada in October, 1970.

On April 7 she disappeared while covering a drive by Cambodian troops on Highway 4 and two weeks later a body identified at the time as hers was found in the vicinity. On May 1, however, she telephoned the UPI bureau in Phnom Penh from an outlying town to announce that she was free after having been released by the Communists.

The credit card is believed to have been stolen from a San Francisco post office. How Reed obtained possession of it is not known, officers said today.

Reed remained in jail in lieu of $1,250 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Circus Atmosphere At Scout-O-Rama

It was a carnival, a circus and an education as some three thousand Marin County scouts did their thing Saturday afternoon at the annual Scout-O-Rama at Forest Meadows in San Rafael.

Fun was the order of the day. Laughter filled the air; there was something for everyone.

San Rafael police controlled the massive traffic jam on the Dominican College campus as a crowd estimated at 20,000 persons struggled to find parking places.

It was like a carnival with balloons and games and hot dogs. Brightly-colored posters described the action at each display booth and the name of the pack or troop was posted nearby.

There was a circus atmosphere as children dressed as clowns, spacemen and even a miniature Smokey-the-Bear wandered about. Strains of different kinds of music could be heard, depending on which end of the grounds the observer was walking, from bagpipes (Troop 24) to brass band (Sixth Army Band from the Presidio of San Francisco and the 12th Naval District Band from Alameda Air Station).

And what an education was available! Exhibits displayed artificial respiration methods, silk screen printing, fingerprinting, kayak construction, camping, bicycle repair, back packing, mountain climbing, survival training and cooking with dehydrated food outdoors.

Many of the displays included participation from observers, such as rope making, a physical fitness course and lots of games for children: apple bobbing, jumping into hay, painting Indian rattles, masks, lassoing (saw) horses, knocking boys into the water, making puppets and turtles.

Most of the activities were physical and involved climbing ladders and ropes into aerial swings and trees.

But the real stars of the day were the many cub, boy and explorer scouts who turned on the charm.

Troop 39, Santa Venetia, offered tiny pine plants with conservation information to observers. Nine-year-old Bob Moore knowledgeably warned everyone not to plant the sprouts until November "when the rain comes." The plants should be kept in a cool place until then, he advised.

One polite youngster, Larry Pebbles of Troop 75 in Novato, asked a passerby if she would like to learn more about back packing. When the young woman hesitated, the dark-haired 13-year-old piped up, "It's okay if you don't want to."

San Rafael Scout Troop 87 was busy cooking chicken and pancakes during the day. Darwin Nimer, 13, yelled to spectators, "Free chicken. Over here. Free pancakes."

He kept a close eye on the plate, however, and when one hungry youth came back too often, he told him quietly, "Why don't you leave some for somebody else?"

The sun-splashed meadows were filled with dogs to be petted and police cars that could be climbed into and touched. Free lemonade of uncertain flavor was passed out by a Loma Verde Cub Scout Troop.

"The cub scouts have a lot of fun; the boy scouts get involved in the physical side of it — racing, climbing and so on. And the explorers get into one specialty or another, like mountain climbing or printing."

Prison Officer Stabbed

A San Quentin correctional officer was reported in good condition today after having been stabbed about eight times by an inmate in the prison's B Section segregation unit.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said today the instrument used to attack Kincade was a bolt that holds prison bunks to the walls. It had been stripped and sharpened, Park said.

Kincade's assailant was an inmate block attendant who takes care of housekeeping chores in the prison housing unit. He was held for investigation; his name was not released.

Park said he has no idea why Kincade was stabbed.

"It looks like an unprovoked attack," he said.

Kincade who lives at 1044 Crinella Drive has worked at the prison since September. Park said the wounds he received were so superficial that at first Kincade was unaware that he had been stabbed.

Mill Valley Council Due Density Issue

A new method of computing the density of housing developments, based on the size of the units and a variety of other factors, including access to the property, slope and open space, will be considered by the Mill Valley City Council today.

Also on the agenda of the adjourned meeting, set for 8 p.m. at the city library, is a proposal to increase fines for overtime parking and expired meters.

Woman Dies From Gun Wound

Sylvia M. Hirschberg, 57, was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital at 12:28 a.m.

The Sonoma County coroner's office said Mrs. Hirschberg had gone to the Petaluma Shopping Plaza to meet her estranged husband, James, manager of the Foly and Burke carnival appearing at the Plaza.

Mrs. Hirschberg reportedly told her husband she would take her life if divorce proceedings were not dropped. Police said after an argument in the carnival office-trailer, she shot herself in the chest with a .22-caliber Derringer pistol.

Funeral will be held in York, S.C.

Arson Hits Col. Sanders Restaurant

A fire at the former C's Drive-In Restaurant, purchased last month by Col. Sanders Kentucky Fried Chicken, is under investigation by Tamalpais Valley firemen who said today the fire was "a definite case of arson."

Lt. Carl Carlson said the fire, which caused about $6,000 damage to the building and contents of the restaurant Friday night, was started when a large amount of gasoline was ignited.

Firemen found the restaurant, located just east of Mill Valley, engulfed in flames when they arrived at 11:48 p.m. The drive-in, which has been closed for several months, was gutted, according to firemen.

The fire melted stainless steel fixtures and caused heavy damage to a walk-in refrigerator, firemen said.

The proposed Col. Sanders retaurant was a center of controversy earlier this year when the city of Mill Valley and numerous citizens opposed a use permit for the takeout food shop adjacent to city limits. The city was overruled by the county board of supervisors.

Woman, 29, Held On Theft, Burglary

Sally Jean Taylor, 29, of 227 Marin Street, San Rafael, is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Wednesday on suspicion of burglary and grand theft.

She was arrested at 1:30 p.m. Friday outside the Emporium, at the Northgate Shopping Center after taking clothing valued at $395 from the store, San Rafael police reported. She was booked into the Marin County Jail and later released on her own recognizance.

Family Left Homeless By House Fire

A Terra Linda family whose home was gutted by fire Saturday is staying at the Wiltshire Towers motel in San Rafael until they can find another home, Red Cross officials said today.

Five children were rescued from the burning house at 724 Del Ganado by a neighbor. They are Lynn Knox, 10, and Rickey Knox, 14, both children of Patricia Knox, 35. Mrs. Knox's sister, Tracy Sherwood, 13, and her brother, Mickey Sherwood, 15, who also live with the Knoxes, were sleeping inside at the time of the fire. A neighbor, Christina Reese, 12, was visiting.

Mrs. Knox said today she and some friends had left the house about 2:25 a.m. to get a hamburger. When they returned about 45 minutes later, the house was engulfed in flames, she said.

Terra Linda Fire Chief George Walser said the fire was caused by an electrical short in a bedroom wall.

Mrs. Knox who is separated from her husband said she is not employed, adding, "I don't know what I'm going to do."

Firemen said damage to the contents was about $15,000 and left only the garage standing.

"Not one solitary thing was left," Mrs. Knox said. "Everything burned up."

Committed To Drug Center

A 22-year-old Tamalpais Valley man has been committed to the Rehabilitation Center in Southern California for treatment as a narcotics addict.

Michael Scott Kelly of 353 Pine Hill Road was sentenced by Judge Jack L. Hammerberg in Madera County Superior Court after pleading guilty to possession of marijuana.

Kelly was arrested along with Michael R. Perrine, 25, of Castro Valley, Alameda County last September at Bass Lake in the Sierra Nevada with a $50,000 load of marijuana from Mexico.

Perrine will be sentenced Thursday for suspicion of possession of marijuana for sale.

It was a carnival, a circus and an education as some three thousand Marin County scouts did their thing Saturday afternoon at the annual Scout-O-Rama at Forest Meadows in San Rafael.

Fun was the order of the day. Laughter filled the air; there was something for everyone.

San Rafael police controlled the massive traffic jam on the Dominican College campus as a crowd estimated at 20,000 persons struggled to find parking places.

It was like a carnival with balloons and games and hot dogs. Brightly-colored posters described the action at each display booth and the name of the pack or troop was posted nearby.

There was a circus atmosphere as children dressed as clowns, spacemen and even a miniature Smokey-the-Bear wandered about. Strains of different kinds of music could be heard, depending on which end of the grounds the observer was walking, from bagpipes (Troop 24) to brass band (Sixth Army Band from the Presidio of San Francisco and the 12th Naval District Band from Alameda Air Station).

And what an education was available! Exhibits displayed artificial respiration methods, silk screen printing, fingerprinting, kayak construction, camping, bicycle repair, back packing, mountain climbing, survival training and cooking with dehydrated food outdoors.

Many of the displays included participation from observers, such as rope making, a physical fitness course and lots of games for children: apple bobbing, jumping into hay, painting Indian rattles, masks, lassoing (saw) horses, knocking boys into the water, making puppets and turtles.

Most of the activities were physical and involved climbing ladders and ropes into aerial swings and trees.

But the real stars of the day were the many cub, boy and explorer scouts who turned on the charm.

Troop 39, Santa Venetia, offered tiny pine plants with conservation information to observers. Nine-year-old Bob Moore knowledgeably warned everyone not to plant the sprouts until November "when the rain comes." The plants should be kept in a cool place until then, he advised.

One polite youngster, Larry Pebbles of Troop 75 in Novato, asked a passerby if she would like to learn more about back packing. When the young woman hesitated, the dark-haired 13-year-old piped up, "It's okay if you don't want to."

San Rafael Scout Troop 87 was busy cooking chicken and pancakes during the day. Darwin Nimer, 13, yelled to spectators, "Free chicken. Over here. Free pancakes."

He kept a close eye on the plate, however, and when one hungry youth came back too often, he told him quietly, "Why don't you leave some for somebody else?"

The sun-splashed meadows were filled with dogs to be petted and police cars that could be climbed into and touched. Free lemonade of uncertain flavor was passed out by a Loma Verde Cub Scout Troop.

"The cub scouts have a lot of fun; the boy scouts get involved in the physical side of it — racing, climbing and so on. And the explorers get into one specialty or another, like mountain climbing or printing."

Prison Officer Stabbed

A San Quentin correctional officer was reported in good condition today after having been stabbed about eight times by an inmate in the prison's B Section segregation unit.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said today the instrument used to attack Kincade was a bolt that holds prison bunks to the walls. It had been stripped and sharpened, Park said.

Kincade's assailant was an inmate block attendant who takes care of housekeeping chores in the prison housing unit. He was held for investigation; his name was not released.

Park said he has no idea why Kincade was stabbed.

"It looks like an unprovoked attack," he said.

Kincade who lives at 1044 Crinella Drive has worked at the prison since September. Park said the wounds he received were so superficial that at first Kincade was unaware that he had been stabbed.

Mill Valley Council Due Density Issue

A new method of computing the density of housing developments, based on the size of the units and a variety of other factors, including access to the property, slope and open space, will be considered by the Mill Valley City Council today.

Also on the agenda of the adjourned meeting, set for 8 p.m. at the city library, is a proposal to increase fines for overtime parking and expired meters.

Woman Dies From Gun Wound

Sylvia M. Hirschberg, 57, was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital at 12:28 a.m.

The Sonoma County coroner's office said Mrs. Hirschberg had gone to the Petaluma Shopping Plaza to meet her estranged husband, James, manager of the Foly and Burke carnival appearing at the Plaza.

Mrs. Hirschberg reportedly told her husband she would take her life if divorce proceedings were not dropped. Police said after an argument in the carnival office-trailer, she shot herself in the chest with a .22-caliber Derringer pistol.

Funeral will be held in York, S.C.

Arson Hits Col. Sanders Restaurant

A fire at the former C's Drive-In Restaurant, purchased last month by Col. Sanders Kentucky Fried Chicken, is under investigation by Tamalpais Valley firemen who said today the fire was "a definite case of arson."

Lt. Carl Carlson said the fire, which caused about $6,000 damage to the building and contents of the restaurant Friday night, was started when a large amount of gasoline was ignited.

Firemen found the restaurant, located just east of Mill Valley, engulfed in flames when they arrived at 11:48 p.m. The drive-in, which has been closed for several months, was gutted, according to firemen.

The fire melted stainless steel fixtures and caused heavy damage to a walk-in refrigerator, firemen said.

The proposed Col. Sanders retaurant was a center of controversy earlier this year when the city of Mill Valley and numerous citizens opposed a use permit for the takeout food shop adjacent to city limits. The city was overruled by the county board of supervisors.

Woman, 29, Held On Theft, Burglary

Sally Jean Taylor, 29, of 227 Marin Street, San Rafael, is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Wednesday on suspicion of burglary and grand theft.

She was arrested at 1:30 p.m. Friday outside the Emporium, at the Northgate Shopping Center after taking clothing valued at $395 from the store, San Rafael police reported. She was booked into the Marin County Jail and later released on her own recognizance.

Five children were rescued from the burning house at 724 Del Ganado by a neighbor. They are Lynn Knox, 10, and Rickey Knox, 14, both children of Patricia Knox, 35. Mrs. Knox's sister, Tracy Sherwood, 13, and her brother, Mickey Sherwood, 15, who also live with the Knoxes, were sleeping inside at the time of the fire. A neighbor, Christina Reese, 12, was visiting.

Mrs. Knox said today she and some friends had left the house about 2:25 a.m. to get a hamburger. When they returned about 45 minutes later, the house was engulfed in flames, she said.

Terra Linda Fire Chief George Walser said the fire was caused by an electrical short in a bedroom wall.

Mrs. Knox who is separated from her husband said she is not employed, adding, "I don't know what I'm going to do."

Turnaround In Juvenile Crime Rate

The steady rise in juvenile crime made a turnaround in California last year, and volunteers assisting juvenile officers deserve a share of the credit, according to Allen F. Breed, California Youth Authority director.

For the first time in many years, the number of arrests of persons under 21 declined slightly last year, Breed told the annual meeting of the Marin County Juvenile Court Auxiliary Friday night at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Drug arrests of under-21s declined in every category except marijuana, which increased 21 per cent, he said.

The Youth Authority director gave principal credit for the turnaround to the fact that in 1969, the legislature for the first time appropriated money for a crime prevention program, which was expanded with a larger appropriation last year.

Previously, he said, "we all talked about crime prevention, but nothing was done about it."

Volunteers are playing a larger role, said Breed, because courts and probation officers are learning their value. "Too many of us had the idea that no one could do anything in this field unless he has an MSW (master of social work) degree," he remarked.

The auxiliary paid special honor to Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court, who during his six years as juvenile court judge insisted on expanding the role of volunteers in juvenile probation. Breed called Gardiner a pioneer in this approach.

Actress Sued By Oil Company

FORT WORTH (UPI) — The Shenandoah Oil Corp. Friday sued Ann-Margaret, the movie star, for $79,434 as a result of her actions while investing in the company in 1969. Lawyer Ira Butler Jr. filed the suit in 48th District Court for Shenandoah Oil and said Ann-Margaret Olsson failed to "live up to certain participation agreements."

One subject of dispute was 7,738 shares of stock which Ann-Margaret was said to have owned at the time.

DRAMA REVIEW

Thoreau's Protest Still Timely Today

By KAY KSANDA

"If you ask me to pay for a rifle, it's the same as my firing one ... you say I can't run amok against the law, I say the government is running amok ... what if a thousand men would not pay their tax bills this year? You cast your ballot with your right hand, but has your left hand killed?"

That is the fiery protest from a man opposed to war more than 100 years ago.

"The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail," which opened at the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts last weekend, is an exciting and intriguing dialogue and drama about civil disobedience. The timely play, written by Jerome Lawrence and Robert Lee, centers on a night that Henry Thoreau spent in jail, with flashbacks on his reasoning for not paying his tax in 1846.

The United States was fighting an undeclared war (undeclared by Congress) against Mexico, a war becoming very unpopular with such notables as Ralph Waldo Emerson and Congressman Abe Lincoln.

Thoreau protested by going to jail.

If the politics are displeasing to some, the outstanding craftmanship of the director should fascinate any persistent playgoer. With short resources, open casting, and an ungainly stage, director Philip Larson weaves a formidable, polished production.

Laurence Braude, of "The Committee" and San Francisco State College, is outstanding in his portrayal of Henry David Thoreau. He's silly, sincere, intense, sardonic, then spiritual all in one short sequence, and all on a virtually empty stage. He rows an invisible boat with all the peculiarities of the act, and talks romance to the beautiful Miss Ellen Sewell as he leans on invisible oars.

"THE NIGHT THOREAU SPENT IN JAIL", a play in two acts by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee. Directed by Philip Larson, Produced by Sali Lieberman, with set by Mimi Gramatky, and lighting by Ellen Ernest. Technical Director, Ivan Root II; Director's assistant, Dianne Vaugeois; Costumes, Arleen Littlefield; Sound, Charles Cherry.

"Mother, Henry's in love!"
"Oh my, John, who with?"
"A girl!"
"Thank God! (It could have been a caterpillar, a huckleberry, or the 301 blades of grass at Haywood Meadow.)

The supporting characters are all very good. Against the bare violet background, each personality is a jewel in itself.

There are intense moments, and much subtle humor. Thoreau's jail companion, Bailey (Pat Vaughan) has been in jail three months without ever seeing a judge. Accused of burning a barn, Bailey is more of a boozer than a burner. In a few moments, he learns to write his name. With great respect, he realizes he is in the presence of a teacher.

Thoreau ruefully counters, "Being a teacher is like being in jail. Once it's on your record you can never get rid of it ... All that a school needs is a mind that sends, and a mind that receives."

"Shore a marvel the way words roll out of your mouth," says Bailey.

Mill Valley's production staff is another marvel the way they consistently produce meaningful plays with vitality and interest.

Additional performances of the play will be Friday and Saturday and June 5, 11, 12, 18, 19, 25 and 26 at 8:30 p.m.

Jail Terms In Burglary Case

Gary F. Gunn, 21, and Ronald P. Blasingame, 20, both of Kentfield, have each been sentenced to five days in Marin County Jail for a misdemeanor burglary conviction.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Municipal Court also placed the two men on probation for one year and ordered them to make restitution in the amount of $1,124.

The pair was originally charged with felony burglary and grand theft in connection with the theft of $1,124 from a safe at the Rain Tunnel Car Wash in San Rafael Feb. 20, but they pleaded guilty last month when the burglary charge was reduced and the grand theft charge dismissed.

The Tiburon City Council will try for the third time tonight to elect a mayor.

Two other attempts at previous meetings have been unsuccessful because two councilmen, Anne L. Ellinwood and Albert H. Sennett, each received two votes and the fifth, Branwell D. Fanning, was absent.

Also before the council at the meeting, set for 7:30 p.m. at city hall, will be a staff recommendation on hiring a consultant to study combining police services in Belvedere and Tiburon.

Councilmen will set criteria for design of the Richardson Bay pathway, which will carry bicycle and pedestrian traffic from downtown Tiburon to the Blackie's Pasture area.

In other business, Councilman Ellinwood will call for an open-air town meeting to discuss community problems and goals.

In many cases Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itching and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients showed this to be true in many cases. In fact, many doctors, themselves, use Preparation H® or recommend it for their families. Preparation H ointment or suppositories.

Turnaround In Juvenile Crime Rate

The steady rise in juvenile crime made a turnaround in California last year, and volunteers assisting juvenile officers deserve a share of the credit, according to Allen F. Breed, California Youth Authority director.

For the first time in many years, the number of arrests of persons under 21 declined slightly last year, Breed told the annual meeting of the Marin County Juvenile Court Auxiliary Friday night at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Drug arrests of under-21s declined in every category except marijuana, which increased 21 per cent, he said.

The Youth Authority director gave principal credit for the turnaround to the fact that in 1969, the legislature for the first time appropriated money for a crime prevention program, which was expanded with a larger appropriation last year.

Previously, he said, "we all talked about crime prevention, but nothing was done about it."

Volunteers are playing a larger role, said Breed, because courts and probation officers are learning their value. "Too many of us had the idea that no one could do anything in this field unless he has an MSW (master of social work) degree," he remarked.

The auxiliary paid special honor to Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court, who during his six years as juvenile court judge insisted on expanding the role of volunteers in juvenile probation. Breed called Gardiner a pioneer in this approach.

Actress Sued By Oil Company

FORT WORTH (UPI) — The Shenandoah Oil Corp. Friday sued Ann-Margaret, the movie star, for $79,434 as a result of her actions while investing in the company in 1969. Lawyer Ira Butler Jr. filed the suit in 48th District Court for Shenandoah Oil and said Ann-Margaret Olsson failed to "live up to certain participation agreements."

One subject of dispute was 7,738 shares of stock which Ann-Margaret was said to have owned at the time.

DRAMA REVIEW

By KAY KSANDA

"If you ask me to pay for a rifle, it's the same as my firing one ... you say I can't run amok against the law, I say the government is running amok ... what if a thousand men would not pay their tax bills this year? You cast your ballot with your right hand, but has your left hand killed?"

That is the fiery protest from a man opposed to war more than 100 years ago.

"The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail," which opened at the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts last weekend, is an exciting and intriguing dialogue and drama about civil disobedience. The timely play, written by Jerome Lawrence and Robert Lee, centers on a night that Henry Thoreau spent in jail, with flashbacks on his reasoning for not paying his tax in 1846.

The United States was fighting an undeclared war (undeclared by Congress) against Mexico, a war becoming very unpopular with such notables as Ralph Waldo Emerson and Congressman Abe Lincoln.

Thoreau protested by going to jail.

If the politics are displeasing to some, the outstanding craftmanship of the director should fascinate any persistent playgoer. With short resources, open casting, and an ungainly stage, director Philip Larson weaves a formidable, polished production.

Laurence Braude, of "The Committee" and San Francisco State College, is outstanding in his portrayal of Henry David Thoreau. He's silly, sincere, intense, sardonic, then spiritual all in one short sequence, and all on a virtually empty stage. He rows an invisible boat with all the peculiarities of the act, and talks romance to the beautiful Miss Ellen Sewell as he leans on invisible oars.

"THE NIGHT THOREAU SPENT IN JAIL", a play in two acts by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee. Directed by Philip Larson, Produced by Sali Lieberman, with set by Mimi Gramatky, and lighting by Ellen Ernest. Technical Director, Ivan Root II; Director's assistant, Dianne Vaugeois; Costumes, Arleen Littlefield; Sound, Charles Cherry. Cast: Waldo, Tom Littlefield; Lydia, Sandra Silberman; Mother, Judy Heneman; Henry, Laurence Braude; John, John McDill; Bailey, Pat Vaughan; Deacon Ball, Don Hobson; Ellen, Elsie Ritchie; Sam Staples, Joseph Riley; Edward, Jay Morris; Farmer, Joey Schub; Woman, Ann Madden; Williams, William Gray; Townspeople and Soldiers, Robert Hansen, Cris Hammond, Bill Teed, and Joe Schub.

"Oh my, John, who with?"
"A girl!"
"Thank God! (It could have been a caterpillar, a huckleberry, or the 301 blades of grass at Haywood Meadow.)

The supporting characters are all very good. Against the bare violet background, each personality is a jewel in itself.

There are intense moments, and much subtle humor. Thoreau's jail companion, Bailey (Pat Vaughan) has been in jail three months without ever seeing a judge. Accused of burning a barn, Bailey is more of a boozer than a burner. In a few moments, he learns to write his name. With great respect, he realizes he is in the presence of a teacher.

Thoreau ruefully counters, "Being a teacher is like being in jail. Once it's on your record you can never get rid of it ... All that a school needs is a mind that sends, and a mind that receives."

"Shore a marvel the way words roll out of your mouth," says Bailey.

Mill Valley's production staff is another marvel the way they consistently produce meaningful plays with vitality and interest.

Additional performances of the play will be Friday and Saturday and June 5, 11, 12, 18, 19, 25 and 26 at 8:30 p.m.

Jail Terms In Burglary Case

Gary F. Gunn, 21, and Ronald P. Blasingame, 20, both of Kentfield, have each been sentenced to five days in Marin County Jail for a misdemeanor burglary conviction.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Municipal Court also placed the two men on probation for one year and ordered them to make restitution in the amount of $1,124.

The pair was originally charged with felony burglary and grand theft in connection with the theft of $1,124 from a safe at the Rain Tunnel Car Wash in San Rafael Feb. 20, but they pleaded guilty last month when the burglary charge was reduced and the grand theft charge dismissed.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Promptly Relieved

In many cases Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itching and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients showed this to be true in many cases. In fact, many doctors, themselves, use Preparation H® or recommend it for their families. Preparation H ointment or suppositories.

Wife Beating Suspect Booked After Chase

A Fairfield man, wanted on suspicion of wife beating, led traffic officers on a wild chase Saturday night at speeds up to 125 miles per hour through four counties before being nailed north of Petaluma.

The pursuit of Ernest Frederick Staeps, 40, was lent urgency by a report, later proven unfounded, that he had a gun.

The chase began at 6:40 p.m. near Staeps's Fairfield home as police responded to a report of a family quarrel, and ended 70 miles and 35 minutes later at the Penngrove offramp of Highway 101 in Southern Sonoma.

Involved in the pursuit were Fairfield, Novato and Petaluma police and units of the California Highway Patrol from Vallejo, Marin County and Sonoma County.

Staeps led units of patrolmen through back roads and highways in Solano, Napa, Marin and Sonoma counties. At Novato, he ran a red light at Lamont Avenue, at a speed estimated at 105 miles per hour, passing the stopped cars on the shoulder of the highway, patrolmen reported.

Staeps was booked into Solano County jail on suspicion of felony wife beating and 11 traffic citations. He was released on $2,000 bail.

The rainbow trout is sometimes called the steelhead.

FABRIC SECRETS — JOAN CROSSLEY

Butter, lard, vaseline, linseed oil, salad oil, and lubricating oil produce ugly stains on light-colored leather. These spots can often be removed by coating them with a thick solution of rubber in a solvent that evaporates quickly, and then peeling off the rubber coating when it is almost dry, repeating the operation several times if necessary. All oil or grease spots should be removed as quickly as possible particularly those made by paint oils since these oxidize quickly and are soon only slightly soluble.

The Awahnee was sailing from Auckland to Whagarei in New Zealand when she ran into a thunderstorm, according to a letter to the Independent-Journal from Mrs. Griffith.

The 52-foot ferro-cement yacht pulled into New Zealand last month after a 111-day journey which traced the 12,800 mile Antarctic circumnavigation of Capt. James Cook, who began his journey in 1772.

Mrs. Griffin wrote the I-J that the Awahnee will sail from New Zealand to reach Tomales Bay in time for her 16-year-old son Reid to get back to his high school classes in the fall.

Wife Beating Suspect Booked After Chase

A Fairfield man, wanted on suspicion of felony wife beating, led traffic officers on a wild chase Saturday night at speeds up to 125 miles per hour through four counties before being nailed north of Petaluma.

The pursuit of Ernest Frederick Staeps, 40, was lent urgency by a report, later proven unfounded, that he had a gun.

The chase began at 6:40 p.m. near Staeps's Fairfield home as police responded to a report of a family quarrel, and ended 70 miles and 35 minutes later at the Penngrove offramp of Highway 101 in Southern Sonoma.

Involved in the pursuit were Fairfield, Novato and Petaluma police and units of the California Highway Patrol from Vallejo, Marin County and Sonoma County.

Staeps led units of patrolmen through back roads and highways in Solano, Napa, Marin and Sonoma counties. At Novato, he ran a red light at Lamont Avenue, at a speed estimated at 105 miles per hour, passing the stopped cars on the shoulder of the highway, patrolmen reported.

Staeps was booked into Solano County jail on suspicion of felony wife beating and 11 traffic citations. He was released on $2,000 bail.

Reasons For Caution On Health Revamping

The Marin County Board of Supervisors heard some words of caution last week about rushing into a new organizational setup which would bunch all health and medical services under one department head.

The cautions came from representatives of the Marin Medical Society and of several volunteer organizations involved in the health field, as well as from Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer whose organization would be most affected.

We would like to add our own words of caution.

THE REORGANIZATION plan, urged by Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella, would put Dr. Donovan O. Cooke at the head of a medical-health department with two assistants, Dr. Albrecht as public health chief and Dr. John Guerrant as mental health chief.

It would also create a new department — a department of inspections, which would take over sanitation (euphemistically called "environmental health") along with building inspection (now under public works) and zoning administration (now under planning).

DR. ALBRECHT OBJECTED strenuously to removing sanitation from the public health field. She did so on excellent grounds. Since public health is concerned chiefly with communicable disease, to divorce sanitation inspection from it makes very little sense. That's what sanitation is all about: control of communicable disease.

The proposed reorganization also would fracture the planning department by removing the zoning administrator from its jurisdiction. If his job is not part of planning, we cannot imagine what it is.

A case might be made for putting building inspection also under planning, rather than public works. But to group it with zoning administration and sanitation inspection in a new department would be to create a hash of three dissimilar functions.

THERE IS ANOTHER reason to be leery of the proposed reorganization, which nobody seems to have mentioned.

Dr. Cooke is an elected official, as county coroner. The voters chose him to run the coroner's office. The board of supervisors already has given him other hats, as medical director with over-all responsibility also for the mental health program.

There are recognitions of Dr. Cooke's administrative ability. But, he was elected to be coroner. If he is given so many other duties that he cannot devote the attention he should to the office to which he was elected, is that playing fair with the voters who put him in that office? We think not.

THE REORGANIZATION plan did not, of course, originate with Campanella. It is a revise of part of a "super-agency" plan for reorganizing county government that was proposed in April, 1966, by Campanella's boss, Alan Bruce. That was rejected by the board of supervisors after some study convinced board members that it would not improve efficiency.

The current proposal appears to have the same flaw.

Bay Pollution Claims May Have Impurities

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Is San Francisco Bay getting cleaner or dirtier?

It depends on who you listen to, what he is trying to sell, and whether he leaves something out.

According to the chairman of the State Water Resources Control Board, Kerry W. Mulligan, the bay "continues to suffer marked deterioration in quality."

According to the Regional Water Quality Control Board, however, considerable evidence has been seen in the past few years that the bay's health has improved.

THE FIRST comprehensive measurements of the bay's quality were taken from 1965 to 1970 in a state study, so there are no reliable earlier measurements with which to compare the new figures.

Mulligan, whose description of the bay this month got wide publicity, offered it at a press conference to promote his board's plea for a new agency to plan, finance and operate water pollution programs in the Bay Area. It would be separate from the existing regional board, which polices and enforces pollution regulations.

You don't sell strong medicine by assuring a patient he is healthy, so Mulligan may have laid it on a bit heavy when he described the bay in such dark terms.

Mulligan conceded that Bay Area sewerage agencies, under the regional board's prodding, "have taken important immediate steps, and there have been improvements made, some far-sighted. But in some parts quality has deteriorated," he said in a retreat from his earlier pronouncement.

He said that this deterioration was limited to shallow extremities of the bay, and that deeper water areas apparently still were healthy.

THIS WOULD FIT the regional board's informal evidence — fish and wildlife are returning to bay waters they vanished from more than 20 years ago. These include sturgeon, anchovies and shrimp, all of which indicate a return of the bay's food chain.

The return of sturgeon in the southern reaches of the bay was particularly encouraging. They feed on the bottom, where sewage solids would settle, and the sturgeon could not survive if conditions were as bad as suggested by Mulligan.

Half of the cities around the bay dumped raw sewage 20 yearsago, the other half giving it only primary treatment. Today, all give at least primary treatment, and half give secondary treatment.

The future, however, is not so rosy. Someday, the bay's capacity to assimilate wastewater will be exceeded. No one knows when that will happen or what the capacity is, but all experts agree it will come.

Unless strong steps are taken, Mulligan's description of "deterioration" will be an obsolete reminder of the good old days. Formation of the regional agency proposed by the state board is needed to clean up the bay — fiercely independent sewerage agencies have proved they cannot do the job on their own.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Hitchhike Problem Still Not Solved

My thanks for publishing the bit on the need for a place for people to get rides . . . However, this does not solve the problem . . .

The local police are now prohibiting the soliciting of rides on the north freeway approach.

You probably noticed that the anti-hitchhiking bill was killed yesterday (May 18) in Sacramento on the grounds that it would hurt the people who could not afford formal transportation . . .

Action On Tax Reform Needed

Residents of Mill Valley have just received staggering increases in the estimated cash value of their homes, and other localities are similarly affected, that will increase tax payments about 50 per cent.

I have used your "Where to Write" information to inform Sacramento of the urgent need for tax relief for homeowners.

I think that the I-J could be of great service to the taxpayers in providing information that would guide them at election time, with the object of removing those from public office who jeopardize our homes for political reasons.

Mr. William D. Fusselman could help in this matter.

At last I have come to realize the importance of the press in protecting my interests in many ways, and any action you take on tax reform will be greatly appreciated.

No-Fault Insurance 'Overkill' Solution

In my capacity as both a member of the Governor's Automobile Accident Study Commission and a concerned citizen, I feel that the automobile problem needs clarification. Auto insurance is on the firing line of the consumerist movement right now, with the very real danger that, instead of helping auto-accident victims, we will deprive them of their legal rights.

Advocates of so-called "no fault" schemes propose to replace the present legal system of negligence in auto cases with a system of limited benefits for victims. Instead of tackling the real problems head on and improving the system, "no fault" proponents favor radical changes at the expense of the accident victim.

After three years of study and thousands of pages of testimony, we on the governor's commission recommended against adoption of a "no fault" plan because it was clearly not in the best interests of the citizens of California. We proposed, instead, numerous reforms to improve the existing system while preserving the state and federal constitutional rights of the individual, which "no fault" fails to do.

The Governor's Commission found many obstacles to "no fault" including, among others, reduced coverage and benefits, increased administrative expense, possible unfortunate effects on insurance-rating techniques, and the clear lack of evidence that premiums would come down. Further, "no fault" offers no inherent deterrent to fraud and, I believe, might well encourage fraudulent claims . . .

The contignet-fee system has been attacked by critics who argue that it is sometimes abused. But there is no other system available whereby the poor man can buy rich man's justice . . . Without a contingent-fee arrangement, only the rich man would be able to afford a lawyer in a civil case . . .

Those who propose to improve the system by destroying the rights of victims to recover a full measure of damages under the misnomer of "no fault" have created a great deal of confusion, and the basic weaknesses of their approach should be stressed to the public. The side effects of "no fault" make it an overkill solution. They indeed may prove to be more aggravating to the consumer than the weaknesses of the present system.

Amtrak Schedules And Trains Good

I am writing in regard to your "Editor's Notebook" of May 8 concerning Amtrak and it's trains. Many of your observations are true but you also have some misconceptions about the service. The Oakland depot is indeed less than hospitable, although in very good repair for its years and the neglect Southern Pacific has shown it. The ticket agents at both Oakland and San Francisco are inexperienced in handling Amtrak tickets at this point. I frankly had a difficult time getting one. Also, the NWP San Rafael agency has been closed.

This is in marked contrast, however, to the quality of the trains themselves. I had the pleasure to take train 18, formerly the City of San Francisco, from Oakland to Ogden on May 6. While Amtrak has left many areas unserved by the large number of trains eliminated, this move has allowed them to use only the best equipment of what is left. In addition to four coaches and three Pullmans on our train, we had a coffee-shop car, a diner, and a dome-lounge. All of the equipment was in excellent condition and very clean and comfortable. The diner had full linen and silver from the Union Pacific, and was run by a crew from that railroad, which has quite a reputation for service . . . The dinners were moderately priced (about $3.50 to $5.50) and were excellent. Lunches were about $1.50 to $2.50. I would recommend this trip highly to your readers, and the scheduling allows for a very convenient week-end trip . . .

I cannot conceive how you could so horribly misconstrue the Amtrak schedule in regard to north-south service on the Pacific coast. Please correct your comments, for I fear no one from Marin County will ride Amtrak with the impression that you've given them. First, there is daily service each way between Oakland and Los Angeles. Second, there is twice daily service from Los Angeles to San Diego and back, with three trains on those days that the Seattle-San Diego through train is running. Similarly, there is twice daily service each way between Portland and Seattle, with three trains on those days that the Seattle-San Diego through train is running.

My schedule says quite plainly that the Seattle-San Diego through trains have coaches, sleepers, a lounge, and a diner, while the Oakland-Los Angeles trains have coaches, a lounge, and "food service", which means a vending machine car. There is no confusion in Amtrak timetables, which of course is quite a break from railroad tradtion . . .

Congress Bungles When It Tries To Intervene In Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON — Congress is unwittingly warning the American people not to allow it to grasp too large a role in the conduct of foreign policy.

But the reckless way it is going about the business of trying to do so can hardly fail to create a massive public demand on Congress to stop, look and listen.

In recent months there has hardly been a single aspect of foreign policy which Congress, when it has acted to intervene, hasn't bungled.

THE LATEST INSTANCE was the Mansfield amendment to slash in half the U.S. forces assigned to NATO. This would have been perilous folly. Only after great effort was it deflected by a face-saving compromise which does no immediate harm.

If this is the way Congress proposes to seize the conduct of foreign affairs from the president, there will have to be a massive public crusade to save the country from Congress.

Congress should play a significant role in foreign policy but it will throw away its opportunity to do so if it continues to show such ineptness.

TAKE THE MANSFIELD amendment.

The NATO nations have long been urging the Soviet Union to negotiate a mutual reduction of Warsaw Pact and NATO forces in Europe. At times, Moscow has appeared interested but has held back until very recently. Now at the very moment when party leader Leonid Brezhnev announced that the Russians are ready to move for a mutual cutback, Mansfield and other like-minded senators proposed to give to the Russians 50 per cent cut in U.S. NATO forces without getting anything in return.

Defeated, yes — but the very initiative was ill-timed, ill-conceived and harmful.

Is this the way Congress proposes to conduct foreign policy?

THE NATO GOVERNMENTS had already worked out an agreed policy for the prospective talks with Moscow. The Mansfield amendment would have torn up that agreement. And to legislate a unilateral cut in U.S. forces in Europe would undermine NATO and destroy the confidence of the NATO countries in the steadfastness of American support. It would also have destroyed all prospects of reaching a workable solution for West Berlin, and the failure to get such a solution would nullify the worthy efforts of West Germany to improve relations with Russia and Poland.

Is this the way Congress proposes to conduct foreign policy?

Have no doubt about it, the Russians want to destroy NATO. They have tried to make the dissolution of NATO a precondition of nearly every international negotiation they have participated in with the United States in recent years. They have even tried to make it a condition of the limited nuclear test ban.

The Russians want to get the United States out of Europe, and the Senate maneuvers to slash U.S. NATO forces without any counterbalancing reduction of Russian forces was about to begin that process before wiser counsel prevailed at the last minute.

IT CAN FAIRLY be argued that the United States is bearing too one-sided a burden in the cost of keeping up NATO's defenses and that the NATO nations should be doing more. But for Congress to propose a one-sided action breaching agreed NATO policy is simply irresponsible.

Is this the way Congress proposes to conduct foreign policy?

Is this the way the Senate expects to win public confidence in its efforts to strengthen its voice in foreign affairs?

If so, the nation will suffer.

There is a right balance in the role of the president and the role of the Congress in these matters and it can only be achieved with great care and responsibility.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

The 'Other' Lyndon Johnson Who Won Rights For Negro

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

AUSTIN, Tex. — Long before the dedication of the L.B.J. library here, they were calling it "Lyndon's mausoleum," and referring to the event itself as his resurrection. Then the scale of the ceremonies and the accompanying barbecue encouraged just that many more wisecracks about the man who has replaced Herbert Hoover as the favorite butt of American political disparagement.

That began because of his 10-gallon personality, of course, but it grew and continues because so many widely quoted wits place him in one context only — that of the man who escalated the Vietnamese war. It is time, now that he has been quietly retired at the ranch for more than two years, to recover from the monomania that equated him with the war and nothing else —time to consider his record in early perspective.

WHEN JOHN KENNEDY was killed, I was stationed in Moscow. Not only the American community there, but many other foreigners and Russians too, knew Kennedy better than they had any other American president, and they were crushed and fearful. They knew virtually nothing about his successor, except that he was from Texas and that was where Kennedy had been slain. The conspiracy theories of the assassination found uncommon receptivity there.

Because I was the only person there who had covered Johnson in the Senate and as a vice presidential candidate, who knew him, friend after friend came to me to ask what kind of president he would be, what we could expect now.

I knew him in the Senate as the man who got things done, but most often by compromise. I knew him as a candidate who spoke out on the issues, but whose main function was to hold the South behind the Democratic ticket. I also knew that as of his death, Kennedy had asked Congress for broad civil rights legislation but had been reluctant to press too hard for its passage lest he jeopardize action on his other "New Frontier" bills.

MY FEELING was that the first test of whether Lyndon Johnson as President intended to play politics or lead the nation would be whether he committed himself to passage of that civil rights package or contented himself with a congressionally watered down alternative. I told my friends in Moscow they might judge him the same way.

He exceeded all my expectations, and perhaps even his own.

He threw his full weight behind the civil rights bill of 1964, and it turned out even stronger than Kennedy had proposed it the year before. In one swoop, it was the most far-reaching civil rights legislation since Reconstruction. It covered voting, public accommodations, education, federal projects, employment, and many other areas. It could not have been passed without the total commitment of the man in the White House.

INSPIRED BY THAT success and the election results of 1964, he involved himself even more emotionally in the effort to guarantee voting rights. Standing in the House chamber in 1965 before a special joint session of Congress, he used the words of the anthem of the civil rights movement, "We shall overcome," to summon the legislators to act. Five months later, he was at the Capitol again to sign the milestone bill beside a statue of Abraham Lincoln in the rotunda.

Many years earlier, the black historian, W. E. B. DuBois, had written that "despite everything, the 15th Amendment and that alone struck the death knell of slavery." But the 15th Amendment did not begin taking nationwide effect until it was put into specific law in August, 1965, with a stroke of Lyndon Johnson's pen on the voting rights bill.

Since then, the number of black Americans registered to vote has multiplied manifold, especially in the South. The number holding elected office has climbed even faster. Someday those figures will be in proportion to the black percentage of our population, and the 15th Amendment will be a reality instead of a promise.

WHEN IT IS, one of the Americans most responsible will be a Texan, a man who grew up in a latitude south of every state capital in Dixie and who dragged through Congress the greatest flood of social legislation in our history. Antipoverty war, Medicare, aid to education, the Great Society — the list of accomplishments in the Johnson years runs on. Walter Lippmann, who could never be accused of a bias toward Johnson, wrote that "he's done what President Kennedy could not have done had he lived."

And the single field in which his impress was greatest was civil rights, wherein he proved that it is a great mistake to judge a man by his accent.

Butter, lard, vaseline, linseed oil, salad oil, and lubricating oil produce ugly stains on light-colored leather. These spots can often be removed by coating them with a thick solution of rubber in a solvent that evaporates quickly, and then peeling off the rubber coating when it is almost dry, repeating the operation several times if necessary. All oil or grease spots should be removed as quickly as possible particularly those made by paint oils since these oxidize quickly and are soon only slightly soluble.

The Hicksian Theory: Don't Fill Job Until It's Necessary

A Sausalito city councilman has fired a shot which conceivably could ricochet from here to Washington, D.C., and send fatcat bureaucrats and politicians scurrying in all directions.

Councilman Wyman Hicks's modest proposal is as simple as it is startling: He believes the City of Sausalito should cut its proposed $1.8 million budget by one-third.

He does not propose massive dismissals of city employees, but thinks positions which become vacant through attrition should not be refilled unless they are absolutely essential. As Hicks put it at a recent council meeting: "For a city of 6,000 persons, we have too many employees, too many vehicles, too much of everything."

A professor at Sonoma State College, Hicks is no rabid reactionary. He simply thinks the city budget has bounded higher and higher and farther away from reality in recent years.

His views may be unique in political circles which seem to be populated with empire builders and those who benefit from the empires. If you want to cut taxes, according to Hicks, will, then you have to cut expenditures.

IT ALL SOUNDS rediculously simple: To really give the taxpayer a break, you don't reduce property taxes and then raise sales and income taxes, despite what our state and federal officials keep saying. If you don't spend so much, you don't need to scrounge around for more and more income.

To see that Hicks has a point, one need only look around at what's been happening:

The population of Sausalito has increased about 15 per cent in the last 10 years, from 5,331 to 6,159. But during the same period the city's budget has grown 300 per cent, from $391,740 in 1960 to $1,504,628 in 1970.

Ten years ago Marin County had 146,046 persons; today the county's population is 204,046, about a 39 per cent jump. Yet the county's budget has risen about 230 per cent, from 11.6 to $37 million.

The state's population grew about 25 per cent in the last decade, while the budget soared from 2.3 to 6.7 billion, just less than 300 per cent.

IF WE LISTEN to the politicans who seem so eager to talk about "the real problem." we know that welfare is to blame for strangling taxes. But is it really? Admittedly welfare costs are high, but that is far from the complete story.

Too often, I think, politicians have turned welfare into an inflammatory issue in order to camouflage their own rampant spending. The politicans figure, I suppose, that if taxpayers are angry at those welfare recipients, they will be less likely to seek out the real culprits.

If Councilman Hicks actually achieves success with his proposal, there could be repercussions all over the place. And Sausalito doesn't spend a cent for welfare in its budget.

Of course the cutting would have to be done by an auditor who was also a lobbyist for the general public. Otherwise, the first mention of a reduction in expenditures would have officials claiming that such necessities as police protection and social security would have to be the first to go. They wouldn't talk much about their myriad councils, consultants, junkets, vehicles, and committees.

It could be that people might even come to realize that taxes will continue to go up unless the taxpayers get together and really put their feet down. They could even decide to see what's up — besides welfare costs — in San Rafael, Sacramento and Washington.

MacLeish Miffed By Wrong Lady

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UPI)—Poet and playwright Archibald Macleish, here to accept an award, said he didn't mind at all being photographed with a portrait of his late mother, a former principal of Rockford College.

Officials tried twice, failed twice and Macleish left.

The first portrait, complete with a nameplate identifying it as Mrs. Martha Hillard MacLeish, was dug out of storage when officials got word MacLeish would be in town.

"That's not mother," MacLeish said. "Right name, wrong picture."

Another portrait was hung, MacLeish was summoned and posed and the photographers began to focus again.

"That's not mother, either," MacLeish announced.

"Are you sure?" his wife asked.

"Very sure," the playwright replied. "Mother had a round face and brown eyes."

And he left. Rockford College tried to figure out who the two "mystery ladies" might be.

By MICHAEL L. POSNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The flag, a far as is known, still is safe. But Congress is changing its mind about motherhood.

As radical as the idea may sound, lawmakers will vote shortly to repeal the old maxim that a mother's place is in the home.

They'll also be voting against the time honored idea that proper work for women is rearing children.

Without many objections, the House is expected to approve a bill to force mothers out of the home for gainful employment or for job training if they haven't any working skills.

NOT ALL MOTHERS will be forced into work though. Only those who want to keep their welfare payments.

The work requirement is a cornerstone of the new "Family Assistance Program" proposed by President Nixon and modified by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The work-or-lose-money philosophy was written into the bill by those who believe welfare rolls are rising too fast, that it should be harder to get on welfare and easier to get off, and that the present $10 billion federal cost of welfare is too high.

Ways and Means Committee chairman Wilbur P. Mills, D-Ark., is a leading advocate of that philosophy.

Most affected by the work requirement will be up to two million women who are now heading families with young children and getting welfare payments in their belief. There are about three million families on welfare in all now, and the figures are expected to rise rapidly.

In all there are about 15 million persons on welfare. Of this group, some three million are blind, disabled and aged. Another 12 million are in some three million families.

Of the 12 million, nearly all are children. Of the three million families, two million are headed by womenwithout husbands.

SO THE WORK requirement is not an easy solution. The requirement is going to be costly, and there is no guarantee of success.

where the jobs will be found. Next is the question of whether the welfare mothers can hold the jobs. Another question is the type of jobs — whether the work will be cleaning someone else's home or other menial work.

every five welfare mothers has a high school education. More than 30 per cent have never gone past the eighth grade. Many can't read.

Welfare mothers who now want jobs often can't get them because they don't have any skills at all.

THE LATEST COST estimate for putting welfare mothers and the few male adults in welfare families to work is $3.4 billion in just the first full year, starting July 1, 1972.

In the first year it will cost $900 million to set up day care centers across the country to take care of the children while their mothers are away from the home, $500 million to give others training; $800 million to pay for 200,000 new public service jobs in hospitals, schools, sanitation departments, and city halls; $100 million for various other support services and a whopping $1.1 billion just to administer the program.

Man Hides After Making Wife Confess, Resign

RECIFE, BRAZIL (UPI)— Drayton Nejaim went into hiding Friday after his wife accused him kidnaping and torturing her to force her to resign from the state Legislature and admit she was the mistress of 40 men. He told police he would turn himself in next week when things calmed down.

The police Friday set up roadblocks around Recife, Capital of Bahia States to capture Nejaim after his wife was taken to a hospital with broken bones in her arms and burns and bruises all over her body.

Araci Nejaim, 40, told a state assembly investigating committee her husband had kept her on a remote farm and tortured her until she resigned from the state legislature, signed a confession that she was the mistress of 40 important government figures, and signed over all her estate to his name.

Drayton, formerly a rich land owner and mayor or Caruaru is in hiding. He told his lawyer he would turn himself in when public opinion was less violent.

Japan Forges Lead In Steel

CLEVELAND (UPI) —Japan now far outranks the United States in productivity in raw steelmaking, Industry Week magazine said in its edition published today.

Japan made raw steel in 1970 with only 5.70 man hours per net ton, 22 per cent less than the 7.31 man hours required in the United States that year, the business magazine reported.

Japan first moved ahead of the United States in productivity in 1969, when it overall used 3.6 per cent less man hours per net ton.

In finished steel products, the United States retains a slim edge in productivity, 11.9 man hours per ton of finished steel products, compared with 12.4 man hours per ton in Japan, Industry Week reported.

Locals of the 500,000-member union were balloting on the strike-authorization today. The ballots will be tabulated June 11 and results announced June 14 at the CWA's annual convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Reasons For Caution On Health Revamping

The Marin County Board of Supervisors heard some words of caution last week about rushing into a new organizational setup which would bunch all health and medical services under one department head.

The cautions came from representatives of the Marin Medical Society and of several volunteer organizations involved in the health field, as well as from Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer whose organization would be most affected.

We would like to add our own words of caution.

THE REORGANIZATION plan, urged by Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella, would put Dr. Donovan O. Cooke at the head of a medical-health department with two assistants, Dr. Albrecht as public health chief and Dr. John Guerrant as mental health chief.

It would also create a new department — a department of inspections, which would take over sanitation (euphemistically called "environmental health") along with building inspection (now under public works) and zoning administration (now under planning).

DR. ALBRECHT OBJECTED strenuously to removing sanitation from the public health field. She did so on excellent grounds. Since public health is concerned chiefly with communicable disease, to divorce sanitation inspection from it makes very little sense. That's what sanitation is all about: control of communicable disease.

The proposed reorganization also would fracture the planning department by removing the zoning administrator from its jurisdiction. If his job is not part of planning, we cannot imagine what it is.

A case might be made for putting building inspection also under planning, rather than public works. But to group it with zoning administration and sanitation inspection in a new department would be to create a hash of three dissimilar functions.

THERE IS ANOTHER reason to be leery of the proposed reorganization, which nobody seems to have mentioned.

Dr. Cooke is an elected official, as county coroner. The voters chose him to run the coroner's office. The board of supervisors already has given him other hats, as medical director with over-all responsibility also for the mental health program.

There are recognitions of Dr. Cooke's administrative ability. But, he was elected to be coroner. If he is given so many other duties that he cannot devote the attention he should to the office to which he was elected, is that playing fair with the voters who put him in that office? We think not.

THE REORGANIZATION plan did not, of course, originate with Campanella. It is a revise of part of a "super-agency" plan for reorganizing county government that was proposed in April, 1966, by Campanella's boss, Alan Bruce. That was rejected by the board of supervisors after some study convinced board members that it would not improve efficiency.

The current proposal appears to have the same flaw.

Bay Pollution Claims May Have Impurities

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Is San Francisco Bay getting cleaner or dirtier?

It depends on who you listen to, what he is trying to sell, and whether he leaves something out.

According to the chairman of the State Water Resources Control Board, Kerry W. Mulligan, the bay "continues to suffer marked deterioration in quality."

According to the Regional Water Quality Control Board, however, considerable evidence has been seen in the past few years that the bay's health has improved.

THE FIRST comprehensive measurements of the bay's quality were taken from 1965 to 1970 in a state study, so there are no reliable earlier measurements with which to compare the new figures.

Mulligan, whose description of the bay this month got wide publicity, offered it at a press conference to promote his board's plea for a new agency to plan, finance and operate water pollution programs in the Bay Area. It would be separate from the existing regional board, which polices and enforces pollution regulations.

You don't sell strong medicine by assuring a patient he is healthy, so Mulligan may have laid it on a bit heavy when he described the bay in such dark terms.

Mulligan conceded that Bay Area sewerage agencies, under the regional board's prodding, "have taken important immediate steps, and there have been improvements made, some far-sighted. But in some parts quality has deteriorated," he said in a retreat from his earlier pronouncement.

He said that this deterioration was limited to shallow extremities of the bay, and that deeper water areas apparently still were healthy.

THIS WOULD FIT the regional board's informal evidence — fish and wildlife are returning to bay waters they vanished from more than 20 years ago. These include sturgeon, anchovies and shrimp, all of which indicate a return of the bay's food chain.

The return of sturgeon in the southern reaches of the bay was particularly encouraging. They feed on the bottom, where sewage solids would settle, and the sturgeon could not survive if conditions were as bad as suggested by Mulligan.

Half of the cities around the bay dumped raw sewage 20 yearsago, the other half giving it only primary treatment. Today, all give at least primary treatment, and half give secondary treatment.

The future, however, is not so rosy. Someday, the bay's capacity to assimilate wastewater will be exceeded. No one knows when that will happen or what the capacity is, but all experts agree it will come.

Unless strong steps are taken, Mulligan's description of "deterioration" will be an obsolete reminder of the good old days. Formation of the regional agency proposed by the state board is needed to clean up the bay — fiercely independent sewerage agencies have proved they cannot do the job on their own.

Hitchhike Problem Still Not Solved

My thanks for publishing the bit on the need for a place for people to get rides . . . However, this does not solve the problem . . .

Action On Tax Reform Needed

Residents of Mill Valley have just received staggering increases in the estimated cash value of their homes, and other localities are similarly affected, that will increase tax payments about 50 per cent.

I have used your "Where to Write" information to inform Sacramento of the urgent need for tax relief for homeowners.

I think that the I-J could be of great service to the taxpayers in providing information that would guide them at election time, with the object of removing those from public office who jeopardize our homes for political reasons.

Mr. William D. Fusselman could help in this matter.

At last I have come to realize the importance of the press in protecting my interests in many ways, and any action you take on tax reform will be greatly appreciated.

No-Fault Insurance 'Overkill' Solution

In my capacity as both a member of the Governor's Automobile Accident Study Commission and a concerned citizen, I feel that the automobile problem needs clarification. Auto insurance is on the firing line of the consumerist movement right now, with the very real danger that, instead of helping auto-accident victims, we will deprive them of their legal rights.

Advocates of so-called "no fault" schemes propose to replace the present legal system of negligence in auto cases with a system of limited benefits for victims. Instead of tackling the real problems head on and improving the system, "no fault" proponents favor radical changes at the expense of the accident victim.

After three years of study and thousands of pages of testimony, we on the governor's commission recommended against adoption of a "no fault" plan because it was clearly not in the best interests of the citizens of California. We proposed, instead, numerous reforms to improve the existing system while preserving the state and federal constitutional rights of the individual, which "no fault" fails to do.

The Governor's Commission found many obstacles to "no fault" including, among others, reduced coverage and benefits, increased administrative expense, possible unfortunate effects on insurance-rating techniques, and the clear lack of evidence that premiums would come down. Further, "no fault" offers no inherent deterrent to fraud and, I believe, might well encourage fraudulent claims . . .

The contignet-fee system has been attacked by critics who argue that it is sometimes abused. But there is no other system available whereby the poor man can buy rich man's justice . . . Without a contingent-fee arrangement, only the rich man would be able to afford a lawyer in a civil case . . .

Those who propose to improve the system by destroying the rights of victims to recover a full measure of damages under the misnomer of "no fault" have created a great deal of confusion, and the basic weaknesses of their approach should be stressed to the public. The side effects of "no fault" make it an overkill solution. They indeed may prove to be more aggravating to the consumer than the weaknesses of the present system.

Amtrak Schedules And Trains Good

I am writing in regard to your "Editor's Notebook" of May 8 concerning Amtrak and it's trains. Many of your observations are true but you also have some misconceptions about the service. The Oakland depot is indeed less than hospitable, although in very good repair for its years and the neglect Southern Pacific has shown it. The ticket agents at both Oakland and San Francisco are inexperienced in handling Amtrak tickets at this point. I frankly had a difficult time getting one. Also, the NWP San Rafael agency has been closed.

This is in marked contrast, however, to the quality of the trains themselves. I had the pleasure to take train 18, formerly the City of San Francisco, from Oakland to Ogden on May 6. While Amtrak has left many areas unserved by the large number of trains eliminated, this move has allowed them to use only the best equipment of what is left. In addition to four coaches and three Pullmans on our train, we had a coffee-shop car, a diner, and a dome-lounge. All of the equipment was in excellent condition and very clean and comfortable. The diner had full linen and silver from the Union Pacific, and was run by a crew from that railroad, which has quite a reputation for service . . . The dinners were moderately priced (about $3.50 to $5.50) and were excellent. Lunches were about $1.50 to $2.50. I would recommend this trip highly to your readers, and the scheduling allows for a very convenient week-end trip . . .

I cannot conceive how you could so horribly misconstrue the Amtrak schedule in regard to north-south service on the Pacific coast. Please correct your comments, for I fear no one from Marin County will ride Amtrak with the impression that you've given them. First, there is daily service each way between Oakland and Los Angeles. Second, there is twice daily service from Los Angeles to San Diego and back, with three trains on those days that the Seattle-San Diego through train is running. Similarly, there is twice daily service each way between Portland and Seattle, with three trains on those days that the Seattle-San Diego through train is running.

My schedule says quite plainly that the Seattle-San Diego through trains have coaches, sleepers, a lounge, and a diner, while the Oakland-Los Angeles trains have coaches, a lounge, and "food service", which means a vending machine car. There is no confusion in Amtrak timetables, which of course is quite a break from railroad tradtion . . .

Congress Bungles When It Tries To Intervene In Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON — Congress is unwittingly warning the American people not to allow it to grasp too large a role in the conduct of foreign policy.

But the reckless way it is going about the business of trying to do so can hardly fail to create a massive public demand on Congress to stop, look and listen.

In recent months there has hardly been a single aspect of foreign policy which Congress, when it has acted to intervene, hasn't bungled.

THE LATEST INSTANCE was the Mansfield amendment to slash in half the U.S. forces assigned to NATO. This would have been perilous folly. Only after great effort was it deflected by a face-saving compromise which does no immediate harm.

If this is the way Congress proposes to seize the conduct of foreign affairs from the president, there will have to be a massive public crusade to save the country from Congress.

Congress should play a significant role in foreign policy but it will throw away its opportunity to do so if it continues to show such ineptness.

TAKE THE MANSFIELD amendment.

The NATO nations have long been urging the Soviet Union to negotiate a mutual reduction of Warsaw Pact and NATO forces in Europe. At times, Moscow has appeared interested but has held back until very recently. Now at the very moment when party leader Leonid Brezhnev announced that the Russians are ready to move for a mutual cutback, Mansfield and other like-minded senators proposed to give to the Russians 50 per cent cut in U.S. NATO forces without getting anything in return.

Defeated, yes — but the very initiative was ill-timed, ill-conceived and harmful.

Is this the way Congress proposes to conduct foreign policy?

THE NATO GOVERNMENTS had already worked out an agreed policy for the prospective talks with Moscow. The Mansfield amendment would have torn up that agreement. And to legislate a unilateral cut in U.S. forces in Europe would undermine NATO and destroy the confidence of the NATO countries in the steadfastness of American support. It would also have destroyed all prospects of reaching a workable solution for West Berlin, and the failure to get such a solution would nullify the worthy efforts of West Germany to improve relations with Russia and Poland.

Is this the way Congress proposes to conduct foreign policy?

Have no doubt about it, the Russians want to destroy NATO. They have tried to make the dissolution of NATO a precondition of nearly every international negotiation they have participated in with the United States in recent years. They have even tried to make it a condition of the limited nuclear test ban.

The Russians want to get the United States out of Europe, and the Senate maneuvers to slash U.S. NATO forces without any counterbalancing reduction of Russian forces was about to begin that process before wiser counsel prevailed at the last minute.

IT CAN FAIRLY be argued that the United States is bearing too one-sided a burden in the cost of keeping up NATO's defenses and that the NATO nations should be doing more. But for Congress to propose a one-sided action breaching agreed NATO policy is simply irresponsible.

Is this the way Congress proposes to conduct foreign policy?

Is this the way the Senate expects to win public confidence in its efforts to strengthen its voice in foreign affairs?

If so, the nation will suffer.

There is a right balance in the role of the president and the role of the Congress in these matters and it can only be achieved with great care and responsibility.

The 'Other' Lyndon Johnson Who Won Rights For Negro

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

AUSTIN, Tex. — Long before the dedication of the L.B.J. library here, they were calling it "Lyndon's mausoleum," and referring to the event itself as his resurrection. Then the scale of the ceremonies and the accompanying barbecue encouraged just that many more wisecracks about the man who has replaced Herbert Hoover as the favorite butt of American political disparagement.

That began because of his 10-gallon personality, of course, but it grew and continues because so many widely quoted wits place him in one context only — that of the man who escalated the Vietnamese war. It is time, now that he has been quietly retired at the ranch for more than two years, to recover from the monomania that equated him with the war and nothing else —time to consider his record in early perspective.

WHEN JOHN KENNEDY was killed, I was stationed in Moscow. Not only the American community there, but many other foreigners and Russians too, knew Kennedy better than they had any other American president, and they were crushed and fearful. They knew virtually nothing about his successor, except that he was from Texas and that was where Kennedy had been slain. The conspiracy theories of the assassination found uncommon receptivity there.

Because I was the only person there who had covered Johnson in the Senate and as a vice presidential candidate, who knew him, friend after friend came to me to ask what kind of president he would be, what we could expect now.

I knew him in the Senate as the man who got things done, but most often by compromise. I knew him as a candidate who spoke out on the issues, but whose main function was to hold the South behind the Democratic ticket. I also knew that as of his death, Kennedy had asked Congress for broad civil rights legislation but had been reluctant to press too hard for its passage lest he jeopardize action on his other "New Frontier" bills.

MY FEELING was that the first test of whether Lyndon Johnson as President intended to play politics or lead the nation would be whether he committed himself to passage of that civil rights package or contented himself with a congressionally watered down alternative. I told my friends in Moscow they might judge him the same way.

He exceeded all my expectations, and perhaps even his own.

He threw his full weight behind the civil rights bill of 1964, and it turned out even stronger than Kennedy had proposed it the year before. In one swoop, it was the most far-reaching civil rights legislation since Reconstruction. It covered voting, public accommodations, education, federal projects, employment, and many other areas. It could not have been passed without the total commitment of the man in the White House.

INSPIRED BY THAT success and the election results of 1964, he involved himself even more emotionally in the effort to guarantee voting rights. Standing in the House chamber in 1965 before a special joint session of Congress, he used the words of the anthem of the civil rights movement, "We shall overcome," to summon the legislators to act. Five months later, he was at the Capitol again to sign the milestone bill beside a statue of Abraham Lincoln in the rotunda.

Many years earlier, the black historian, W. E. B. DuBois, had written that "despite everything, the 15th Amendment and that alone struck the death knell of slavery." But the 15th Amendment did not begin taking nationwide effect until it was put into specific law in August, 1965, with a stroke of Lyndon Johnson's pen on the voting rights bill.

Since then, the number of black Americans registered to vote has multiplied manifold, especially in the South. The number holding elected office has climbed even faster. Someday those figures will be in proportion to the black percentage of our population, and the 15th Amendment will be a reality instead of a promise.

WHEN IT IS, one of the Americans most responsible will be a Texan, a man who grew up in a latitude south of every state capital in Dixie and who dragged through Congress the greatest flood of social legislation in our history. Antipoverty war, Medicare, aid to education, the Great Society — the list of accomplishments in the Johnson years runs on. Walter Lippmann, who could never be accused of a bias toward Johnson, wrote that "he's done what President Kennedy could not have done had he lived."

And the single field in which his impress was greatest was civil rights, wherein he proved that it is a great mistake to judge a man by his accent.

The Hicksian Theory: Don't Fill Job Until It's Necessary

A Sausalito city councilman has fired a shot which conceivably could ricochet from here to Washington, D.C., and send fatcat bureaucrats and politicians scurrying in all directions.

Councilman Wyman Hicks's modest proposal is as simple as it is startling: He believes the City of Sausalito should cut its proposed $1.8 million budget by one-third.

He does not propose massive dismissals of city employees, but thinks positions which become vacant through attrition should not be refilled unless they are absolutely essential. As Hicks put it at a recent council meeting: "For a city of 6,000 persons, we have too many employees, too many vehicles, too much of everything."

A professor at Sonoma State College, Hicks is no rabid reactionary. He simply thinks the city budget has bounded higher and higher and farther away from reality in recent years.

His views may be unique in political circles which seem to be populated with empire builders and those who benefit from the empires. If you want to cut taxes, according to Hicks, will, then you have to cut expenditures.

IT ALL SOUNDS rediculously simple: To really give the taxpayer a break, you don't reduce property taxes and then raise sales and income taxes, despite what our state and federal officials keep saying. If you don't spend so much, you don't need to scrounge around for more and more income.

To see that Hicks has a point, one need only look around at what's been happening:

The population of Sausalito has increased about 15 per cent in the last 10 years, from 5,331 to 6,159. But during the same period the city's budget has grown 300 per cent, from $391,740 in 1960 to $1,504,628 in 1970.

Ten years ago Marin County had 146,046 persons; today the county's population is 204,046, about a 39 per cent jump. Yet the county's budget has risen about 230 per cent, from 11.6 to $37 million.

The state's population grew about 25 per cent in the last decade, while the budget soared from 2.3 to 6.7 billion, just less than 300 per cent.

IF WE LISTEN to the politicans who seem so eager to talk about "the real problem." we know that welfare is to blame for strangling taxes. But is it really? Admittedly welfare costs are high, but that is far from the complete story.

Too often, I think, politicians have turned welfare into an inflammatory issue in order to camouflage their own rampant spending. The politicans figure, I suppose, that if taxpayers are angry at those welfare recipients, they will be less likely to seek out the real culprits.

If Councilman Hicks actually achieves success with his proposal, there could be repercussions all over the place. And Sausalito doesn't spend a cent for welfare in its budget.

Of course the cutting would have to be done by an auditor who was also a lobbyist for the general public. Otherwise, the first mention of a reduction in expenditures would have officials claiming that such necessities as police protection and social security would have to be the first to go. They wouldn't talk much about their myriad councils, consultants, junkets, vehicles, and committees.

It could be that people might even come to realize that taxes will continue to go up unless the taxpayers get together and really put their feet down. They could even decide to see what's up — besides welfare costs — in San Rafael, Sacramento and Washington.

MacLeish Miffed By Wrong Lady

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UPI)—Poet and playwright Archibald Macleish, here to accept an award, said he didn't mind at all being photographed with a portrait of his late mother, a former principal of Rockford College.

Officials tried twice, failed twice and Macleish left.

The first portrait, complete with a nameplate identifying it as Mrs. Martha Hillard MacLeish, was dug out of storage when officials got word MacLeish would be in town.

"That's not mother," MacLeish said. "Right name, wrong picture."

Another portrait was hung, MacLeish was summoned and posed and the photographers began to focus again.

"That's not mother, either," MacLeish announced.

"Are you sure?" his wife asked.

"Very sure," the playwright replied. "Mother had a round face and brown eyes."

And he left. Rockford College tried to figure out who the two "mystery ladies" might be.

By MICHAEL L. POSNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The flag, a far as is known, still is safe. But Congress is changing its mind about motherhood.

As radical as the idea may sound, lawmakers will vote shortly to repeal the old maxim that a mother's place is in the home.

They'll also be voting against the time honored idea that proper work for women is rearing children.

Without many objections, the House is expected to approve a bill to force mothers out of the home for gainful employment or for job training if they haven't any working skills.

NOT ALL MOTHERS will be forced into work though. Only those who want to keep their welfare payments.

The work requirement is a cornerstone of the new "Family Assistance Program" proposed by President Nixon and modified by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The work-or-lose-money philosophy was written into the bill by those who believe welfare rolls are rising too fast, that it should be harder to get on welfare and easier to get off, and that the present $10 billion federal cost of welfare is too high.

Ways and Means Committee chairman Wilbur P. Mills, D-Ark., is a leading advocate of that philosophy.

Most affected by the work requirement will be up to two million women who are now heading families with young children and getting welfare payments in their belief. There are about three million families on welfare in all now, and the figures are expected to rise rapidly.

In all there are about 15 million persons on welfare. Of this group, some three million are blind, disabled and aged. Another 12 million are in some three million families.

Of the 12 million, nearly all are children. Of the three million families, two million are headed by womenwithout husbands.

SO THE WORK requirement is not an easy solution. The requirement is going to be costly, and there is no guarantee of success.

where the jobs will be found. Next is the question of whether the welfare mothers can hold the jobs. Another question is the type of jobs — whether the work will be cleaning someone else's home or other menial work.

every five welfare mothers has a high school education. More than 30 per cent have never gone past the eighth grade. Many can't read.

Welfare mothers who now want jobs often can't get them because they don't have any skills at all.

THE LATEST COST estimate for putting welfare mothers and the few male adults in welfare families to work is $3.4 billion in just the first full year, starting July 1, 1972.

In the first year it will cost $900 million to set up day care centers across the country to take care of the children while their mothers are away from the home, $500 million to give others training; $800 million to pay for 200,000 new public service jobs in hospitals, schools, sanitation departments, and city halls; $100 million for various other support services and a whopping $1.1 billion just to administer the program.

Man Hides After Making Wife Confess, Resign

RECIFE, BRAZIL (UPI)— Drayton Nejaim went into hiding Friday after his wife accused him kidnaping and torturing her to force her to resign from the state Legislature and admit she was the mistress of 40 men. He told police he would turn himself in next week when things calmed down.

The police Friday set up roadblocks around Recife, Capital of Bahia States to capture Nejaim after his wife was taken to a hospital with broken bones in her arms and burns and bruises all over her body.

Araci Nejaim, 40, told a state assembly investigating committee her husband had kept her on a remote farm and tortured her until she resigned from the state legislature, signed a confession that she was the mistress of 40 important government figures, and signed over all her estate to his name.

Drayton, formerly a rich land owner and mayor or Caruaru is in hiding. He told his lawyer he would turn himself in when public opinion was less violent.

Japan Forges Lead In Steel

CLEVELAND (UPI) —Japan now far outranks the United States in productivity in raw steelmaking, Industry Week magazine said in its edition published today.

Japan made raw steel in 1970 with only 5.70 man hours per net ton, 22 per cent less than the 7.31 man hours required in the United States that year, the business magazine reported.

Japan first moved ahead of the United States in productivity in 1969, when it overall used 3.6 per cent less man hours per net ton.

In finished steel products, the United States retains a slim edge in productivity, 11.9 man hours per ton of finished steel products, compared with 12.4 man hours per ton in Japan, Industry Week reported.

Art Is Keyed To The Entire Family

By PAT BALMES

"I wish more parents would take the time and patience to explain to their kids how to do things and then take up an interest as a family," says Mary Ellen Wehrli.

The 27-year-old Lucas Valley resident adds that by the time her youngsters are her age, there will be lots more leisure and "the hardest thing to do is nothing at all."

MARY ELLEN'S husband, a department store buyer, frames her paintings. (A frame can "make or break" a good painting, according to the artist.) In his neat workshop Carl Wehrli teaches his three-year-old son, Jon, the names, locations and uses of his tools, and the boy spends hours in Mary Ellen's studio nailing and gluing together wood scraps from his father's frames and painting the results.

"My husband takes an interest in my art. We go to art exhibits together, otherwise I don't think I'd go. That's why I can do what I do, because he gets right in there and helps me," she says, adding that while he makes frames in the evening, she makes the coffee and keeps him company.

"Some artists sit up all night working, but I could not do that. I have an old-fashioned hang-up that evenings are for my husband."

Although a mother may know nothing of art, she can take her child to art classes and shows. Sometimes artists do their paintings at shows. Artists love to talk about their work, so have the children ask them questions, Mary Ellen suggests.

Drawing for her children started during a visit to their grandmother's house, when Mary Ellen gave them each a pencil and paper and said,

"Draw what's on the table."

On some Saturdays Diane invites friends to paint in her mother's studio. At a birthday party, Diane's guests were invited to "a paint-in," where butcher paper was hung on the backyard fence for them to decorate.

When you encourage children to be artistic, there is going to be a mess, says Mary Ellen, She advises sectioning off a part of your house and saying,

"Okay, this is where you do it and then we clean up."

ALTHOUGH HER children wear smocks, paint spots are unavoidable. Mary Ellen works mostly with washable acrylics now because, when Diane was two, she squeezed a tube of red oil paint all over. And, when Jon was smaller, he festooned the backyard and the swing-set with masking tape.

"A housewife can organize herself to work at home, but I don't think everybody can paint and manage small children, too. It can get to you, if you let it," say Mary Ellen.

At 9 a.m., after Diane goes to school, Mary Ellen dresses in paint-spattered shorts and shirt, her hair tied back with a bandana, to begin her art work with Jon. When the boy wanders away later, she follows him with her "very good ears," knowing where he is all the time she is working, until 3 or 4 p.m. daily.

"SOMETIMES WHEN I am very caught up in a painting, Diane will come home at noon and make a sandwich for Jon and one for Mommie, too," says the serious artist who does not shop for bargains or do volunteer work, but keeps her time for painting.

Mary Ellen has been surprised by the demand for her paintings. She studied art at San Jose State and College of San Mateo, but was not encouraged. Finding the work repetious of her high school art classes, she quit. Not until her new home needed paintings five years ago, did she return to painting. An artist-neighbor, Maggie Leitner, suggested she show her work at Terra Linda Artists Association's auction, and she sold a small pen and ink drawing for $30.

HER HUSBAND'S amazement and comments of other artists encouraged her to exhibit at the Sausalito Art Festival, other shows and galleries, and doctors' offices and stores.

"An artist can teach herself at home," says Mary Ellen, who says she plans to go back to school some day.

Her love for the country is reflected in landscapes. Other subjects are children "doing natural things," meticulously detailed animals and bold abstracts with a three-dimensional effect created by glue relief. These were inspired by cross-sections from histology medical books, she says. This attention to detail and interest in biology illustrate Mary Ellen's interest in a future career as a biological illustrator, which requires a pre-medical degree and five years post graduate study at University of California.

"But right now, because of my small children, I'm concentrating on the fine arts," she remarks.

Artist Mary Ellen Wehrli will be a special guest at the silent art auction Wednesday titled "Artists and Models" held at the Elks Club in San Rafael. The fashion show, auction and luncheon is sponsored by the Marin County Chapter of National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

Prepare Youngsters For Medicine Taking

When you give medicine or any treatment to a sick child, briefly explain what you are going to do so he will be prepared and may even be more cooperative.

Never leave any medication at a bedside table; bring it into the room only when you are going to administer it.

Fad Hangs On

Gemstones Used For Adornment

Gemstones are those materials possessing beauty, rarity and durability that are used for personal adornment.

Approximately 2,000 of these have been identified. Of these, perhaps 200 are important and today's fashion is concerned with just 20 - the diamond, and 19 colored stones. The same 20 have been top favorites since Biblical days.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Sweet 60 And Seldom Ever Gets A Kind Word From Her Spouse

DEAR HELEN:

I'm married to two men — the public one and the private one. When we visit my children or his (all grown) he's all love and kisses. They think I couldn't be luckier, having such an attentive man.

But at home, I'm not only unkissed, but un-talked-to. He eats at a TV tray the minute he gets home, then falls asleep on the couch. He made love to me twice in 1968, once in 1969, (if you could call it "love") and he hasn't even put his arm around me for over a year — except when we're with other people. Then he's Old Lovebug and, if I don't play up, it looks like I'm the cold one.

At 60, I don't expect flaming romance, but at least he could be kind. Instead, he's cruel and sarcastic, and has even slapped me around. I'm expected to wait on him, then leave him alone — and if I left him everyone would think I was crazy. — MARRIED TO AN ACTOR

DEAR MTAA:

Here's a suggestion that might work: Invite one of the grown children to spend a vacation with you. When your husband goes into his act — react in kind. Make it the biggest compatibility team since Lunt and Fontanne.

This could have two effects: Hopefully, several weeks of put-on affection might produce more of the real thing (when you both discover how much happier you are). Or, after a couple of days, your man will revert to type, which would at least show the family you have grounds for leaving him. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

It did help! General Mills has given us until Dec. 31, 1971 (rather than May) to complete our Betty Crocker/Kidney Machine Project.

Helen, we've been overwhelmed by the response of your readers to this project. Thousands of coupons (well over 150,000) have poured in from all over the country, and we want to thank everyone. Also, many HHU readers wrote to General Mills asking that we be permitted to continue past the first deadline.

We still need some 300,000 coupons before we can get a kidney machine for our new Regional Hemodialysis Center and, now that we have until December 31, the goal is within reach. We hope your great fans will continue to send along their coupons. — Program Chairman for Kidney Machine Project, Saddle River Reformed Church, 500 East Saddle River Road, Upper Saddle River, New Jersey, 07458.

DEAR READERS:

To those of you who are collecting for similar projects in your own areas: General mills, Inc. recently announced it has changed the completion date for ALL Kidney Machine and other lifesaving equipment from May 31 to Dec. 31, 1971. Keep saving and sending those Betty Crocker coupons! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

This another letter to "Murderer at 16": A number of years ago, when abortion was the scandal of the town and meant disgrace for the family, I had one. I lost long-time friends and couldn't walk down the street without those awful stares.

It was a bad job and I nearly died. I was forced to testify against the doctor and he lost his license to practice medicine.

Like you, Miss 16, I felt regret and guilt, not for the destroyed fetus, but for my family and the doctor's life I had ruined, and for myself.

At 16, you should put "shame, guilt and regret" in a box and label them "experience." As you go through life, each achievement should be stacked on top till eventually the first box will sink out of sight. — WIFE AND MOTHER NOW

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Never Too Late To Shape Up

The American Heart Association advises that it is never too late to begin to improve your physical condition. However, it is important to have a thorough physical examination first to learn what you can safely do.

A brisk walk of about two miles helps to tone up muscles, calm nerves and help get rid of fat. Begin slowly, the association suggests, build up gradually and continue daily, if possible.

Kurt Holhausers Fete Their Golden Wedding

When they were married on May 14, 1921, at Wieda in Thuringia, Holhauser was a painter and decorater, and he continued these trades on coming to San Francisco in 1925 until he retired in 1961.

In San Francisco he specialized in very fine decorating in hotels, theaters, luxurious homes and churches. A specialist in the practically lost art of using gold leaf, he recalls putting 9,000 pieces of pure gold on the cross on the roof of Grace Cathedral in San Francisco.

Decorated on the outside like a Bavarian Chalet, the Holhausers' home is filled with his oil paintings and many kinds of decorative detail including wood carvings. They have lived there since 1945.

Hiking and gardening are the Holhausers' hobbies. Their extensive travels include three trips to Europe, but now they say they are just enjoying "staying home and taking it easy."

Ida Holhauser's advice to those hoping to celebrate golden wedding anniversaries is "it has to be a 50-50 proposition, and, never go to bed without saying a nice good night."

Mr. Holhauser credits his wife's fabulous cooking as part of the reason for the success of their marriage, but he laments that there are many things he shouldn't eat now.

SMART SHOPPER

Juice Standards Brew Confusion

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

Few shoppers apparently are aware of the substantial differences in products bearing such terms as "juice," "juice drink," "breakfast drink," "fruit drink," "juice ade," "juice cocktail" and "juice nectar."

And few people are aware of how little fruit juice is contained in all of these products except "juice." Federal regulations require that anything labeled simply as "juice" must consist entirely of the natural juice of the fruit in question.

But there are no Federal standards specifying the proportion of natural juice in the other products that are often labeled, advertised and promoted to look like the real thing.

THE RESULT is a jungle of terms for blends containing as little as 6 per cent juice in orange "drink" and as much as 50 per cent juice in what is called orange "juice-drink." Percentages vary considerably from these, however, from brand to brand.

Even Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser, is confused. In a recent speech to the National Juice Products Association, she confessed her "naivete" in thinking that the orange "juice-drink" delivered by her milk man was all juice when it was only half juice.

"I was amazed," she said, "and I am sure most homemakers would be similarly surprised to know" what she learned.

She proceeded to scold the manufacturers for not agreeing on some sort of standards for the various terms and labeling the proportion of juice in them.

SHE POINTED out that the Food and Drug Administration has been trying for nearly seven years to set standards. Lack of agreement among major producers and natural differences between Florida and California oranges have blocked acceptance of any standards.

The proposed standards would require at least 50 per cent juice in anything labeled "juice-drink," at least 25 per cent juice in anything called "ade" and at least 10 per cent juice in products called fruit "drinks."

As it is, fruit drink products are required to list their ingredients in descending order of importance, but few buyers stop to read the list. If they did, they would find that water and sugar usually top the list.

But the list does not show proportions. And few producers are ready to start revealing percentages. For they would show that the amount of added water in fruit drinks may exceed 90 per cent.

THE "NATURAL" flavoring mentioned on some labels is not full natural juice but concentrations of juice or parts of the fruit, such as the highly flavored rind of oranges.

Vitamin C is added to many orange concoctions to make them more like real juice, but the amounts added are sometimes far less than labels imply. The Federal Trade Commission has issued several complaints against such products in recent months.

If all this leaves you confused over how to get your money's worth in fruit beverages, you can be sure of at least one term: the word "juice."

Products such as apple juice, orange juice, pineapple juice and pear juice not only are natural juices but they are invariably more nutritious than any imitations.

Unwanted Noise May Be Harmful

A Wisconsin psychiatrist has observed that unwanted noise inside the home may be contributing to marriage difficulties and the generation gap.

The physician, Dr. Jack C. Westman, discussing the results of a study on the subject, said that planning of homes "does not recognize that adults require areas in which reduced activity and reduced sound promote relaxation, and in sharp contrast, that children require areas where increased activity and increased sound production promote relaxation."

By PAT BALMES

"I wish more parents would take the time and patience to explain to their kids how to do things and then take up an interest as a family," says Mary Ellen Wehrli.

The 27-year-old Lucas Valley resident adds that by the time her youngsters are her age, there will be lots more leisure and "the hardest thing to do is nothing at all."

MARY ELLEN'S husband, a department store buyer, frames her paintings. (A frame can "make or break" a good painting, according to the artist.) In his neat workshop Carl Wehrli teaches his three-year-old son, Jon, the names, locations and uses of his tools, and the boy spends hours in Mary Ellen's studio nailing and gluing together wood scraps from his father's frames and painting the results.

"My husband takes an interest in my art. We go to art exhibits together, otherwise I don't think I'd go. That's why I can do what I do, because he gets right in there and helps me," she says, adding that while he makes frames in the evening, she makes the coffee and keeps him company.

"Some artists sit up all night working, but I could not do that. I have an old-fashioned hang-up that evenings are for my husband."

Although a mother may know nothing of art, she can take her child to art classes and shows. Sometimes artists do their paintings at shows. Artists love to talk about their work, so have the children ask them questions, Mary Ellen suggests.

Drawing for her children started during a visit to their grandmother's house, when Mary Ellen gave them each a pencil and paper and said,

"Draw what's on the table."

On some Saturdays Diane invites friends to paint in her mother's studio. At a birthday party, Diane's guests were invited to "a paint-in," where butcher paper was hung on the backyard fence for them to decorate.

When you encourage children to be artistic, there is going to be a mess, says Mary Ellen, She advises sectioning off a part of your house and saying,

"Okay, this is where you do it and then we clean up."

ALTHOUGH HER children wear smocks, paint spots are unavoidable. Mary Ellen works mostly with washable acrylics now because, when Diane was two, she squeezed a tube of red oil paint all over. And, when Jon was smaller, he festooned the backyard and the swing-set with masking tape.

"A housewife can organize herself to work at home, but I don't think everybody can paint and manage small children, too. It can get to you, if you let it," say Mary Ellen.

At 9 a.m., after Diane goes to school, Mary Ellen dresses in paint-spattered shorts and shirt, her hair tied back with a bandana, to begin her art work with Jon. When the boy wanders away later, she follows him with her "very good ears," knowing where he is all the time she is working, until 3 or 4 p.m. daily.

"SOMETIMES WHEN I am very caught up in a painting, Diane will come home at noon and make a sandwich for Jon and one for Mommie, too," says the serious artist who does not shop for bargains or do volunteer work, but keeps her time for painting.

Mary Ellen has been surprised by the demand for her paintings. She studied art at San Jose State and College of San Mateo, but was not encouraged. Finding the work repetious of her high school art classes, she quit. Not until her new home needed paintings five years ago, did she return to painting. An artist-neighbor, Maggie Leitner, suggested she show her work at Terra Linda Artists Association's auction, and she sold a small pen and ink drawing for $30.

HER HUSBAND'S amazament and comments of other artists encouraged her to exhibit at the Sausalito Art Festival, other shows and galleries, and doctors' offices and stores.

"An artist can teach herself at home," says Mary Ellen, who says she plans to go back to school some day.

Her love for the country is reflected in landscapes. Other subjects are children "doing natural things," meticulously detailed animals and bold abstracts with a three-dimensional effect created by glue relief. These were inspired by cross-sections from histology medical books, she says. This attention to detail and interest in biology illustrate Mary Ellen's interest in a future career as a biological illustrator, which requires a pre-medical degree and five years post graduate study at University of California.

"But right now, because of my small children, I'm concentrating on the fine arts," she remarks.

Artist Mary Ellen Wehrli will be a special guest at the silent art auction Wednesday titled "Artists and Models" held at the Elks Club in San Rafael. The fashion show, auction and luncheon is sponsored by the Marin County Chapter of National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

Prepare Youngsters For Medicine Taking

When you give medicine or any treatment to a sick child, briefly explain what you are going to do so he will be prepared and may even be more cooperative.

Never leave any medication at a bedside table; bring it into the room only when you are going to administer it.

Fad Hangs On

Gemstones Used For Adornment

Gemstones are those materials possessing beauty, rarity and durability that are used for personal adornment.

Approximately 2,000 of these have been identified. Of these, perhaps 200 are important and today's fashion is concerned with just 20 - the diamond, and 19 colored stones. The same 20 have been top favorites since Biblical days.

Hospital Volunteers Elect Mrs. Kramer

Experienced in sales know-how as a full-time licensed real estate saleswoman, Mrs. Stephen Kramer of San Rafael has been elected president of the Gift Shop Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers.

Gloria Kramer has previously been vice president and treasurer of the branch and served as representative to the public relations and scholarship committees of the volunteers during her two-and-a-half years of membership.

She explains that the gift shop at the hospital is run by the volunteers to raise money for hospital equipment and for scholarships in health career training.

Currently the branch is planning to enlarge the gift shop into a "walk-in" shop with greater earning capacity, she says. The shop volunteers work a four-hour shift once a week or oftener, Mrs. Kramer says.

A native of New York City and a graduate of the University of Maryland, Gloria Kramer has lived in Marin for four years. She works full-time for her husband's real estate firm in Marin.

Bottle Brush

A bottle brush is a handy tool in cleaning wrought-iron furniture. Wrap a dusting cloth around the brush and slide through hard-to-reach or decorative areas where dust and grime collect - chair and table legs, sconces, magazine racks. For a more thorough cleaning periodically wring a cloth of soap or detergergent suds and use it in place of the dusting cloth. Then wash the brush thoroughly.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm married to two men — the public one and the private one. When we visit my children or his (all grown) he's all love and kisses. They think I couldn't be luckier, having such an attentive man.

But at home, I'm not only unkissed, but un-talked-to. He eats at a TV tray the minute he gets home, then falls asleep on the couch. He made love to me twice in 1968, once in 1969, (if you could call it "love") and he hasn't even put his arm around me for over a year — except when we're with other people. Then he's Old Lovebug and, if I don't play up, it looks like I'm the cold one.

At 60, I don't expect flaming romance, but at least he could be kind. Instead, he's cruel and sarcastic, and has even slapped me around. I'm expected to wait on him, then leave him alone — and if I left him everyone would think I was crazy. — MARRIED TO AN ACTOR

DEAR MTAA:

Here's a suggestion that might work: Invite one of the grown children to spend a vacation with you. When your husband goes into his act — react in kind. Make it the biggest compatibility team since Lunt and Fontanne.

This could have two effects: Hopefully, several weeks of put-on affection might produce more of the real thing (when you both discover how much happier you are). Or, after a couple of days, your man will revert to type, which would at least show the family you have grounds for leaving him. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

It did help! General Mills has given us until Dec. 31, 1971 (rather than May) to complete our Betty Crocker/Kidney Machine Project.

Helen, we've been overwhelmed by the response of your readers to this project. Thousands of coupons (well over 150,000) have poured in from all over the country, and we want to thank everyone. Also, many HHU readers wrote to General Mills asking that we be permitted to continue past the first deadline.

We still need some 300,000 coupons before we can get a kidney machine for our new Regional Hemodialysis Center and, now that we have until December 31, the goal is within reach. We hope your great fans will continue to send along their coupons. — Program Chairman for Kidney Machine Project, Saddle River Reformed Church, 500 East Saddle River Road, Upper Saddle River, New Jersey, 07458.

DEAR READERS:

To those of you who are collecting for similar projects in your own areas: General mills, Inc. recently announced it has changed the completion date for ALL Kidney Machine and other lifesaving equipment from May 31 to Dec. 31, 1971. Keep saving and sending those Betty Crocker coupons! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

This another letter to "Murderer at 16": Anumber of years ago, when abortion was the scandal of the town and meant disgrace for the family, I had one. I lost long-time friends and couldn't walk down the street without those awful stares.

It was a bad job and I nearly died. I was forced to testify against the doctor and he lost his license to practice medicine.

Like you, Miss 16, I felt regret and guilt, not for the destroyed fetus, but for my family and the doctor's life I had ruined, and for myself.

At 16, you should put "shame, guilt and regret" in a box and label them "experience." As you go through life, each achievement should be stacked on top till eventually the first box will sink out of sight. — WIFE AND MOTHER NOW

Never Too Late To Shape Up

The American Heart Association advises that it is never too late to begin to improve your physical condition. However, it is important to have a thorough physical examination first to learn what you can safely do.

A brisk walk of about two miles helps to tone up muscles, calm nerves and help get rid of fat. Begin slowly, the association suggests, build up gradually and continue daily, if possible.

The locally-filmed color and sound production presents ideas of ecological importance. "It deals 100 per cent with San Francisco Bay and to a large extent with the Sausalito waterfront," says Mrs. Raymond G. Gergus, club conservation chairman who is in charge of the program.

Stage One Productions of Sausalito, producer of the one-hour film, hopes that previews will criticize "Time of Decision" and offer consructive suggestions for change prior to its commercial release.

Coffee will be served after the showing. Mrs. Charles Weckler and Mrs. Clayton D. Mote will be hostesses.

CLAUDIA GOLDTHWAITE, first woman to head the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce and a longtime member of the club, will be honored by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Marin County at a dinner tomorrow. THEIR GARDEN is the pride of the Kurt Holhausers of Mill Valley who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary May 14. Mr. Holhauser cuts one of her favorite roses for his wife Ida, who is wearing a Bavarian costume. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Kurt Holhausers Fete Their Golden Wedding

When they were married on May 14, 1921, at Wieda in Thuringia, Holhauser was a painter and decorater, and he continued these trades on coming to San Francisco in 1925 until he retired in 1961.

In San Francisco he specialized in very fine decorating in hotels, theaters, luxurious homes and churches. A specialist in the practically lost art of using gold leaf, he recalls putting 9,000 pieces of pure gold on the cross on the roof of Grace Cathedral in San Francisco.

Decorated on the outside like a Bavarian Chalet, the Holhausers' home is filled with his oil paintings and many kinds of decorative detail including wood carvings. They have lived there since 1945.

Hiking and gardening are the Holhausers' hobbies. Their extensive travels include three trips to Europe, but now they say they are just enjoying "staying home and taking it easy."

Ida Holhauser's advice to those hoping to celebrate golden wedding anniversaries is "it has to be a 50-50 proposition, and, never go to bed without saying a nice good night.

Mr. Holhauser credits his wife's fabulous cooking as part of the reason for the success of their marriage, but he laments that there are many things he shouldn't eat now.

SMART SHOPPER

Juice Standards Brew Confusion

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

Few shoppers apparently are aware of the substantial differences in products bearing such terms as "juice," "juice drink," "breakfast drink," "fruit drink," "juice ade," "juice cocktail" and "juice nectar."

And few people are aware of how little fruit juice is contained in all of these products except "juice." Federal regulations require that anything labeled simply as "juice" must consist entirely of the natural juice of the fruit in question.

But there are no Federal standards specifying the proportion of natural juice in the other products that are often labeled, advertised and promoted to look like the real thing.

THE RESULT is a jungle of terms for blends containing as little as 6 per cent juice in orange "drink" and as much as 50 per cent juice in what is called orange "juice-drink." Percentages vary considerably from these, however, from brand to brand.

Even Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser, is confused. In a recent speech to the National Juice Products Association, she confessed her "naivete" in thinking that the orange "juice-drink" delivered by her milk man was all juice when it was only half juice.

"I was amazed," she said, "and I am sure most homemakers would be similarly surprised to know" what she learned.

She proceeded to scold the manufacturers for not agreeing on some sort of standards for the various terms and labeling the proportion of juice in them.

SHE POINTED out that the Food and Drug Administration has been trying for nearly seven years to set standards. Lack of agreement among major producers and natural differences between Florida and California oranges have blocked acceptance of any standards.

The proposed standards would require at least 50 per cent juice in anything labeled "juice-drink," at least 25 per cent juice in anything called "ade" and at least 10 per cent juice in products called fruit "drinks."

As it is, fruit drink products are required to list their ingredients in descending order of importance, but few buyers stop to read the list. If they did, they would find that water and sugar usually top the list.

But the list does not show proportions. And few producers are ready to start revealing percentages. For they would show that the amount of added water in fruit drinks may exceed 90 per cent.

THE "NATURAL" flavoring mentioned on some labels is not full natural juice but concentrations of juice or parts of the fruit, such as the highly flavored rind of oranges.

Vitamin C is added to many orange concoctions to make them more like real juice, but the amounts added are sometimes far less than labels imply. The Federal Trade Commission has issued several complaints against such products in recent months.

If all this leaves you confused over how to get your money's worth in fruit beverages, you can be sure of at least one term: the word "juice."

Products such as apple juice, orange juice, pineapple juice and pear juice not only are natural juices but they are invariably more nutritious than any imitations.

Unwanted Noise May Be Harmful

A Wisconsin psychiatrist has observed that unwanted noise inside the home may be contributing to marriage difficulties and the generation gap.

The physician, Dr. Jack C. Westman, discussing the results of a study on the subject, said that planning of homes "does not recognize that adults require areas in which reduced activity and reduced sound promote relaxation, and in sharp contrast, that children require areas where increased activity and increased sound production promote relaxation."

MUSIC REVIEW

'Romeo and Juliet' A Brilliant Show

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

It was one of Seiji Ozawa's most brilliant "shows" when he closed the San Francisco Symphony's second annual Marin series Saturday night at Terra Linda High School gymnasium with "Four Views of Romeo and Juliet."

Seemingly possessed with some special musical demon, he conducted with fiery intensity and a graphic clarity of baton technique that made watching him as important for the eye as the sensuous and dynamic music was for the ear.

The first two musical views of the Shakespearean tragedy strongly emphasized lyricism — the opening love music from Berlioz's symphony "Romeo and Juliet" and Tchaikovsky's fantasy-overture of the same name. The last two views were modern dynamic and rhythmic realizations of the theme in dance. These were selections from suites 1 and 2 of Prokofiev's ballet "Romeo and Juliet" and the symphonic dances from Bernstein's "West Side Story," a contemporary version of the theme in a set in a New York ghetto.

Apparently audience reaction and perhaps performance was quite different in Marin from those at the regular San Francisco series in the opera house, for the opening Berlioz love music, though exquisite in every detail, was low key, while the Tchaikovsky fantasy-overture was a smash hit. Part of the reason for this popularity may have been the familiarity of the famed love melody.

Playing this music as though inspired, the orchestra achieved a rhapsodic ecstasy reminiscent of the love-death music in Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde."

In the Berlioz love music I had never heard the cellos play with more glowing warmth, and the woodwinds and violins shone too. What Ozawa has done with the low strings is amazing.

Brasses and percussion took over the spotlight in the Prokofiev and Bernstein works. Both works were literally spine-tingling as sonority ricocheted from the walls and was magnified by the hollow stage.

Ozawa brought out all the driving rhythms of the Prokofiev so clearly that it was difficult to understand how the Bolshoi Ballet found it in 1935 impossible as a dance vehicle. It sounds almost conservative now as a result of avant garde dance developments.

The Bernstein symphonic dances were notable for Ozawa's affinity for artistic expression of the contemporary scene. The composition itself is a masterpiece reflecting present day racial and other tensions and violence.

Saturday night was "goodbye forever" to "gymnatoriums" for symphonic music in Marin. See you on Sept. 25 with the Marin Symphony and Dorothy Kirsten at the new Veterans Memorial Auditorium at the Civic Center, which I recently previewed. You will be stunned!

DANCE REVIEW

Gaia Company Gives Youthful, Exciting Evening Of Ballet

By MARIE RAMEAU

A new current of balletic creativity is making itself felt in Marin; witness Saturday evening's performance by the youthful and exciting Gaia Company Dance Theater at Tamalpais High School.

"We Just Dropped Here from There" was a philosophic-poetic collage of dance, light show and poetry set to blues, rock, jazz and folk music. This stylish and original presentation added up to a sort of existential odyssey, making use of diverse dance forms. Although based more or less on conventional ballet technique (these dancers are all ballet-trained), the action flowed imperceptibly from ballet to jazz to modern and back in one smooth, harmonious whole.

The program notes, written by the 17-year-old directress-choreographer-dancer, Sheri Gaia of San Rafael, set the episodic tone of this choreographic tryptych. Her poetry was at time cryptic with numerous word-salads, at times transparent with a childlike simplicity. To quote a particularly lovely passage:

"The third try to Get by . . . We —each different and the same . . . Here different from there . . . I think I care . . . Smile . . . Fly . . . And frolic . . . We love."

The Gaia troupe is a well-trained and meticulously rehearsed group of very individual dancers who nevertheless work well together. Miss Gaia, with her striking stage presence, small stature and excellent phrasing, conveys the impression that she never stops moving. Yet, by way of contrast, she possesses a rare ability to instantly strike a line without ever letting you know how she got there.

Remarkably, though Miss Gaia is still in her teens, as a choreographer she already demonstrates a sophisticated comprehension of both classical and contemporary forms, plus a well-developed application of eurythmics in her spoken-word sequences — not to mention a superb sense of humor. It would, indeed, be difficult to name another young dancer in the Bay Area capable of holding together a performing group which produces a coherent and professional-caliber program under even the most informal of circumstances.

Miss Gaia, a student of Pepper Smith of San Francisco, was recently awarded a full advanced-level scholarship to the school of the San Francisco Ballet. It is to be hoped, however, that she will not lose sight of what her own group has yet to achieve. The Gaia Company and its talented young directress could go a long way in the contemporary dance scene.

The company will perform again next Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Tamalpais High School Dance Building. Admission is free but donations are welcome and needed.

Diablo Triangle Zone On Agenda

The Novato City Council will consider rezoning of the Diablo Triangle, a key parcel in the downtown area, at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The planning commission has recommended the area be zoned planned residential in keeping with the city's downtown plan.

It now contains limited agricultural, multiple family and retail commercial zoning, and owners of commercial land have opposed rezoning.

The council also will consider adopting an emergency interim ordinance to prevent development along Novato Creek which might interfere with flood control work.

Marin County supervisors passed a similar ordinance Tuesday covering the portion of the creek that runs through the unincorporated area to San Pablo Bay.

Unexpected Delay For Flight 859

PRESTWICK, Scotland (UPI) —An Air Canada DC8 jetliner bound from London to Canada flew into a flock of seagulls during a scheduled landing at Prestwick airport Sunday and was taken out of service with a crippled engine.

One seagull was sucked into one of the four engines seconds before flight 859 touched the runway, badly damaging the engine. The pilot made a smooth landing.

District Sued

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—A class action suit has been filed against the Gallup McKinley County School District charging it misused more than $2 million in federal funds meant for the education of Indian children.

Novato Junior Women's Club members have elected Mrs. Thomas Bjornson of Novato president for the 1971-72 year. She also has served as recording secretary and has been a member three years.

The organization participates in civic and philanthropic work and members plan a summer barbecue, a muscular dystrophy benefit, a "Night in Monte Carlo," and a rummage sale. Each month members also make tray favors for Novato's convalescent hospitals.

The new president and her husband, a personnel representative at Pacific Gas and Electric Co., have been Marin residents 10 years. They have three daughters. Patti Menjou, a foster daughter is 17 years old, Kristy is 4 and Laura, 16 months. Sharon Bjornson was born in Los Angeles and has a bachelor's degree from San Jose State college in family life. Hospital Volunteers Elect Mrs. Kramer

Experienced in sales know-how as a full-time licensed real estate saleswoman, Mrs. Stephen Kramer of San Rafael has been elected president of the Gift Shop Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers.

Gloria Kramer has previously been vice president and treasurer of the branch and served as representative to the public relations and scholarship committees of the volunteers during her two-and-a-half years of membership.

She explains that the gift shop at the hospital is run by the volunteers to raise money for hospital equipment and for scholarships in health career training.

Currently the branch is planning to enlarge the gift shop into a "walk-in" shop with greater earning capacity, she says. The shop volunteers work a four-hour shift once a week or oftener, Mrs. Kramer says.

A native of New York City and a graduate of the University of Maryland, Gloria Kramer has lived in Marin for four years. She works full-time for her husband's real estate firm in Marin.

Mrs. Kramer and the other branch officers will be installed at a luncheon June 16 at Sabella's restaurant in Mill Valley. Serving with her will be Mmes. Gordon Noble, vice president; Everett Witzel, secretary; Robert England, treasurer; and Melville Newman, placement director.

Bottle Brush

A bottle brush is a handy tool in cleaning wrought-iron furniture. Wrap a dusting cloth around the brush and slide through hard-to-reach or decorative areas where dust and grime collect - chair and table legs, sconces, magazine racks. For a more thorough cleaning periodically wring a cloth of soap or detergergent suds and use it in place of the dusting cloth. Then wash the brush thoroughly.

MOUNTAIN PLAY — The set was as big as all outdoors yesterday and the weather fine for the 54th annual Mountain Play atop Mount Tamalpais. MUSIC REVIEW

New St. Mary's Outshines Music

SAN FRANCISCO — Attending the Winifred Baker-conducted Bach B Minor Mass yesterday in the new St. Mary's Cathedral was an awe-inspiring experience.

Packed with more than 2,500 persons, with many standing and even seated on the floor, the cathedral itself was the major source of wonder because of its breathtaking beauty.

A picture of inexpressible grandeur was presented by the 175-voice combined Winifred Baker Chorale from Marin and San Francisco Civic Chorale, four solists and a 23-piece orchestra positioned under the 196-foot spotlighted apex of the soaring roof, from which hung an enormous pyramid of glittering crystal rods. Said to represent the mercy of God descending, it had the effect of an extraordinary halo.

Another visual wonder rising some distance to the right was the great 89-rank pipe organ looking like a gigantic piece of modern sculpture. Marin organist Wilbur Russell was at the console.

The music was not quite up to the potential of the cathedral, and this was not the fault of conductor or performers.

How the music was heard depended upon where one sat, since seating is in the round with no seat further than 75 feet from the sanctuary.

Walking around the perimeter I found those seated behind the singers, especially to the right, heard little, while those facing them or to the left received the full benefit of the acclaimed acoustics. There the great climaxes and singing of the four excellent soloists were impressive, but without amplification and with a sound-absorbing capacity audience, it would take a chorus twice the size of yesterday's to achieve sonority to match the magnitude of the cathedral.

Of the four soloists Marin soprano Gwen Curatilo's voice of bell-like clarity carried best as it floated with ease and agility through the difficulties of the florid music. The other soloists were mezzo soprano Donna Petersen, tenor Dan Parkerson and bass James Tippey.

Oddly enough the orchestral instruments were heard with great clarity even at the right, and some of the individual work on oboe, violin, horn, trumpet and flute added luster to the performance.

The position of the organ at some distance from the singers caused some difficulties because of time lag, and neither the artistry of Russell nor the potentialities of the great organ could be heard to advantage because he was forced to play it mostly as a continuo or background rather than solo instrument.

Everything considered, it was a memorable day for Marin musicians, since the 75 singers in the Winifred Baker Chorale and many of the instrumentalists were from this county.

Two Women Found Dead —Drownings

The bodies of two Tiburon doctors were found yesterday by the Coast Guard after an all-night search for the two women who had sailed into the Bay in an eight-foot sailboat.

Identified were Dr. Judith A. Dynoske, 27, of 34 Old Landing Road, and Dr. Margaret A. Downey, 46, of 36 Barbaree Way. Both women were podiatrists.

When the two women did not return, the Coast Guard began the search with a helicopter, two 40-foot patrol boats, a hover craft and the 82-foot cutter Point Winslow.

Dr. Dynoske's body was found at 6:44 a.m. near Fort Baker; Dr. Downey's body was located at 12:37 p.m. near Angel Island, according to Coast Guard officials.

Brent Schultz, deputy coroner in San Francisco, termed the deaths accidental due to drowning.

Dr. Dynoske's offices were at 911 Mission Avenue in San Rafael; Dr. Downey was a radiology instructor at the California College of Podiatry in San Francisco.

Both funerals will be held out of state. Services for Dr. Dynoske will be held in West Miflin, Pa. and, for Dr. Downey, in Oregon.

Half Of Inmates' Art Works Are Sold

More than half the 1,200 works of art by San Quentin inmates were sold in the art show and sale Saturday at the College of Marin, prison officials reported today.

According to Associate Warden James W. L. Park, inmates received approximately $14,000 for the works sold. This is double the amount of the first spring art show held last year at the Civic Center, he said.

The show opened 15 minutes ahead of the scheduled 8:30 a.m. opening time because of the large crowd of visitors already in line. Approximately 4,000 attended the spring show last year and the crowd was several thousand larger this year, Park said.

The exact number of items sold and exact amount of money taken in will not be known until a full inventory is taken today, Park said.

Too Slow Car Halted, 2 Arrested

Two 25-year-old Illinois men were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of a variety of drug charges after their auto was stopped on Highway 101 for going too slow in a fast traffic lane, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Jon A. Steiner and Michael Stuart Schuller were booked for investigation of possessing marijuana, dangerous drugs and paraphernalia and being in a place where drugs are used. An officer who stopped the men southbound on the freeway near the Marin County Civic Center about 9:35 p.m. said he noticed a smell of burning marijuana in the car and what appeared to be a marijuana cigarette on the floorboard.

After the pair was arrested, a search of the vehicle revealed three plastic bags containing suspected marijuana, a hypodermic syringe and a brass pipe.

Both men were held to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Variance Bid Before Planners In Mill Valley

A variance to allow an old furniture store at 38 Miller Avenue to be converted into a cluster of shops will go before the Mill Valley Planning Commission at 8 p.m. today at city hall.

Developer W. W. Kirsch is requesting the variance to allow him to supply only 30 parking spaces, while the city's zoning ordinance requires 118.

A previous proposal to turn the store into a restaurant-bar was rejected by the city council, partly on the grounds of insufficient parking.

Also on the agenda is discussion of several variances which have been granted by planners and overturned by the city council on appeal.

Radio Taken

Synge Classic Only Part Of Show At 54th Mountain Play

By ALLAN LIVERS

Take equal parts of Fourth-of-July picnic, Sunday-at-the-beach, evening-of-community-theatre, hike-in-the-Sierras. Blend with plenty of people-watching, fresh air and sunshine. Season to taste with lots of good humor and you have a fine afternoon at the 54th annual Mountain Play.

Those who missed the Tamalpais Mountain Play Association's show yesterday in the open-air Sidney B. Cushing Memorial Theatre will get a second chance next Sunday at 2 p.m.

To some extent, it's a kind of happening, to large extent a community experience as basket lunches, babies, octogenarians, long-hairs and straights gather for the enjoyment of seeing a good theatrical classic, wonderful views of natural scenery and each other.

Hours before show time people were picking their spots in the amphitheater, spreading blankets and other padding on those hard stone seats, digging into hampers, stripping off heavier outer garments to add to that tan and generally getting in the mood that lasted until the final stragglers in a crowds of about 3,500 persons trailed out at the end of the afternoon.

Stage manager Dave Munro gave some last minute instructions to the "Villagers." Some touchup was applied to make-up. Marian Hayes Cain, the association's production coordinator, chatted in a relaxed mood as she double-checked to see everyone had been fed.

Much of his assurance is justified. It's an Herculean task to take Synge's classic mixture of the comic, the sardonic and the tender, written originally for the intimacy of the Abby Theatre where it first hit the boards in 1906 (causing riots incidently,) and adapt it to the open air 5000 seat, cloud and mountain backdrop against which it was presented.

Somehow set-designer William Carson, and the cast, aided and abbetted by a couple of ducks, some chickens, a horse and a goat — the latter paraded through the "house" during intermission to the delight of everyone — managed to hack it and the result, while not quite what Synge had in mind 63 years ago, certainly had its merits.

One can't really fool around with alterations on Synges lines, whether a purist or an experimenter, and Jackson wisely left them untouched. He did throw in a couple of excellent pipers, Ken Briggs and Reuben Santos, who opened the show atop Pohli Rock and paraded through the crowd during intermissions.

Of course no review's complete without some sort of criticism. Sooooooo, to dig really deeply: Old Mahon's original entrance from the audience — while a device which sometimes breeds intimacy and empathy — in this case made portions of the audience curious as to whether he was one of the freaks one sees these days., made others feel sympathetic for an outsider who was ill or drunk, and still others somewhat anxious as to whether he was going to upset the show. At any rate few in his vicinity paid the slightest attention to the goings-on of the cast until it became apparent he was one of them.

As the play neared its climax Pegeen began blowing on the hearth with a bellows and "real smoke" started coming from the chimney top. Play again forgotten, most of the audience was saying "Gee, look at the real smoke. Isn't that great!"

Those are minor items but they'll give the cast an opportunity to beef about how the viewers just don't understand true artistry!

The cast is well balanced — no small achievement in itself — and comes from Novato to Daly City, plus points in between. They've been working without pay since February and have a group accomplishment of which they justly may be proud.

Charges On Tam Special Program Due Hearing

What appears to be a showdown between parents of mentally retarded students and Tamalpais High School District officials charged with operating a "special education program" will come before the district board tonight. It will meet at 8 p.m. at the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

According to some parents, who have grouped themselves under the banner of Citizens Association for Special Education (CASE), the controversy is two-pronged.

It arises, they say, from the district's reluctance to upgrade a badly out-of-state program and deficiencies in the teaching staff itself.

On the other hand, officials directly responsible for the program say parents have refused to work with teachers in making program changes but that teachers nevertheless have "worked diligently" to improve the program in areas of parent concern.

"It is the opinion of the staff that the charges of incompetence leveled against staff members are based mainly on personal issues,' says Dr. Janet M. Lyon, director of special education.

The issues first came before district trustees last summer when parents charged their children were being "treated as outcasts" by some teachers and students at Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley where the program is located.

The district board then referred the matter to Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins who assured the board he would resolve the matter at staff level.

Carlos's report was submitted Dec. 30 and contained many recommendations — most of them still awaiting action — for bringing the program not only up to state standards but up to standards which have generally been practiced elsewhere in the state for years.

Supt. Hawkins last week told the board that "the consultant concluded that the program was an excellent one."

The board, which was scheduled to discuss the program with parents, declined such discussion last week saying it would have to be done in closed session because charges against two teachers were inseparable from the program itself.

It set a closed session for tonight to delve into the charges.

The board subsequently reversed itself, however, and said the charges and the program would have to be handled separately.

To be discussed tonight in open session are parent charges that the program is years behind times, reflects a philosophy that mentally retarded students can't learn, and has failed to comply with state laws, regulations and recommendations.

Charges against two of the program's three teachers, will be heard in closed session.

Those charges, according to material supplied by the district, include frequent absense from the classrooms, little concern for the students and in one case, ineptitude.

Education Board To Act On Hiring New Principal

The San Rafael Board of Education tomorrow will act on the appointment of Dr. Peter Palches to succeed Dr. Alan Ellsberg as principal of San Rafael High School.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the Administration Building.

Palches, 38, is currently director of planning for Marina High School in San Mateo. He is a former high school English, journalism, and photography teacher, and was a research assistant at Stanford University's Center for Research and Development in Teaching from 1966-68.

An Army veteran, Palches received his doctorate in education from Stanford last year. He is married and has two daughters.

Ellsberg was principal of San Rafael High School since 1966.

Board members are scheduled to discuss preliminary budgets, $5,460,845 in the elementary district and $5,494,000 in the high school district, which don't carry any raise in the salary schedules.

Also scheduled is a switch in administrative assignments with Hanlon Tharp, principal of Davidson Junior High School, to be assigned principal of Gallinas and MacPhail elementary schools, and Virgil Birdsall, principal at the two schools, to become principal at Davidson.

Salary Proposal On School Agenda

The Sausalito School District's certificated employees council will present its salary recommendations for 1971-72 to the Sausalito School District board at 7:30 p.m. today in Bayside School.

The board will also hear a report for Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg on employee and student absences on May 19, Malcolm X's birthday.

Five Girls Report Indecent Exposure

Five girls ranging in age from 10 to 16 reported to Novato police yesterday that a juvenile exposed himself outside Novato High School between 4:30 and 4:45 p.m.

The suspect was described as being from 13 to 15 years old, about five feet six inches tall, wearing a dark plaid shirt and blue pants, officers said.

$150 Fine For Pot Possession

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Municipal Court also placed Butler on probation for six months.

Butler was originally charged with felony possession of the drug as well as indecent exposure after a woman told San Rafael police a man had exposed himself to her on Lucas Valley Road.

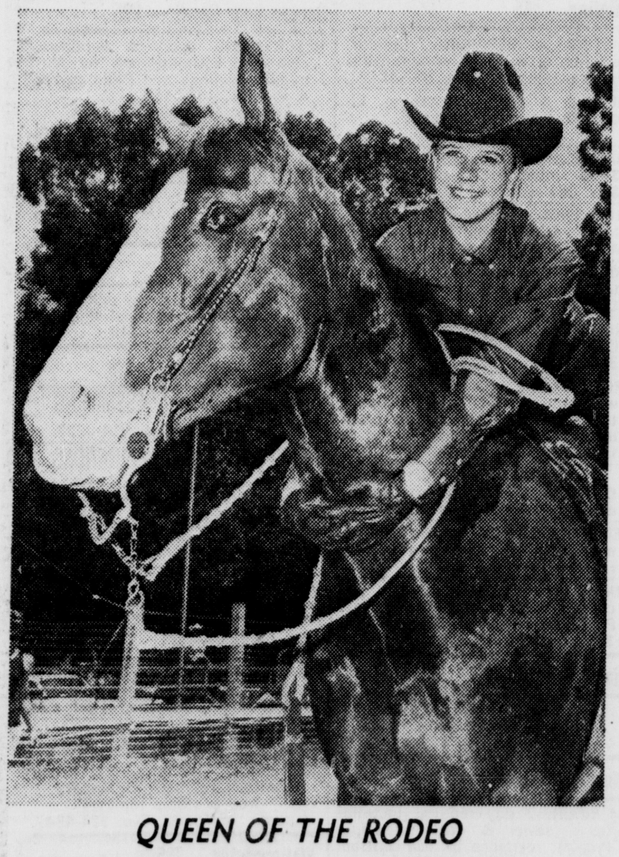
Butler pleaded guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing the drug April 14 and the indecent exposure change was dismissed.



QUEEN OF THE RODEO

Bambi Anderson, 15-year-old Sinaloa Junior High School student, riding Val-a-bar, was selected Saturday to be queen of the Western Weekend Rodeo in Novato June 20. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Anderson of 680 McClay Road, Novato. Selected to be princesses were Donna Bellucci, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bellucci, and Laurie Stewardson, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Stewardson.

MUSIC REVIEW

'Romeo and Juliet' A Brilliant Show

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

It was one of Seiji Ozawa's most brilliant "shows" when he closed the San Francisco Symphony's second annual Marin series Saturday night at Terra Linda High School gymnasium with "Four Views of Romeo and Juliet."

Seemingly possessed with some special musical demon, he conducted with fiery intensity and a graphic clarity of baton technique that made watching him as important for the eye as the sensuous and dynamic music was for the ear.

The first two musical views of the Shakespearean tragedy strongly emphasized lyricism — the opening love music from Berlioz's symphony "Romeo and Juliet" and Tchaikovsky's fantasy-overture of the same name. The last two views were modern dynamic and rhythmic realizations of the theme in dance. These were selections from suites 1 and 2 of Prokofiev's ballet "Romeo and Juliet" and the symphonic dances from Bernstein's "West Side Story," a contemporary version of the theme in a set in a New York ghetto.

Apparently audience reaction and perhaps performance was quite different in Marin from those at the regular San Francisco series in the opera house, for the opening Berlioz love music, though exquisite in every detail, was low key, while the Tchaikovsky fantasy-overture was a smash hit. Part of the reason for this popularity may have been the familiarity of the famed love melody.

Playing this music as though inspired, the orchestra achieved a rhapsodic ecstasy reminiscent of the love-death music in Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde."

In the Berlioz love music I had never heard the cellos play with more glowing warmth, and the woodwinds and violins shone too. What Ozawa has done with the low strings is amazing.

Brasses and percussion took over the spotlight in the Prokofiev and Bernstein works. Both works were literally spine-tingling as sonority ricocheted from the walls and was magnified by the hollow stage.

Ozawa brought out all the driving rhythms of the Prokofiev so clearly that it was difficult to understand how the Bolshoi Ballet found it in 1935 impossible as a dance vehicle. It sounds almost conservative now as a result of avant garde dance developments.

The Bernstein symphonic dances were notable for Ozawa's affinity for artistic expression of the contemporary scene. The composition itself is a masterpiece reflecting present day racial and other tensions and violence.

Saturday night was "goodbye forever" to "gymnatoriums" for symphonic music in Marin. See you on Sept. 25 with the Marin Symphony and Dorothy Kirsten at the new Veterans Memorial Auditorium at the Civic Center, which I recently previewed. You will be stunned!

DANCE REVIEW

Gaia Company Gives Youthful, Exciting Evening Of Ballet

By MARIE RAMEAU

A new current of balletic creativity is making itself felt in Marin; witness Saturday evening's performance by the youthful and exciting Gaia Company Dance Theater at Tamalpais High School.

"We Just Dropped Here from There" was a philosophic-poetic collage of dance, light show and poetry set to blues, rock, jazz and folk music. This stylish and original presentation added up to a sort of existential odyssey, making use of diverse dance forms. Although based more or less on conventional ballet technique (these dancers are all ballet-trained), the action flowed imperceptibly from ballet to jazz to modern and back in one smooth, harmonious whole.

The program notes, written by the 17-year-old directress-choreographer-dancer, Sheri Gaia of San Rafael, set the episodic tone of this choreographic tryptych. Her poetry was at time cryptic with numerous word-salads, at times transparent with a childlike simplicity. To quote a particularly lovely passage:

"The third try to Get by . . . We —each different and the same . . . Here different from there . . . I think I care . . . Smile . . . Fly . . . And frolic . . . We love."

The Gaia troupe is a well-trained and meticulously rehearsed group of very individual dancers who nevertheless work well together. Miss Gaia, with her striking stage presence, small stature and excellent phrasing, conveys the impression that she never stops moving. Yet, by way of contrast, she possesses a rare ability to instantly strike a line without ever letting you know how she got there.

Remarkably, though Miss Gaia is still in her teens, as a choreographer she already demonstrates a sophisticated comprehension of both classical and contemporary forms, plus a well-developed application of eurythmics in her spoken-word sequences — not to mention a superb sense of humor. It would, indeed, be difficult to name another young dancer in the Bay Area capable of holding together a performing group which produces a coherent and professional-caliber program under even the most informal of circumstances.

Miss Gaia, a student of Pepper Smith of San Francisco, was recently awarded a full advanced-level scholarship to the school of the San Francisco Ballet. It is to be hoped, however, that she will not lose sight of what her own group has yet to achieve. The Gaia Company and its talented young directress could go a long way in the contemporary dance scene.

The company will perform again next Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Tamalpais High School Dance Building. Admission is free but donations are welcome and needed.

Diablo Triangle Zone On Agenda

The Novato City Council will consider rezoning of the Diablo Triangle, a key parcel in the downtown area, at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The planning commission has recommended the area be zoned planned residential in keeping with the city's downtown plan.

It now contains limited agricultural, multiple family and retail commercial zoning, and owners of commercial land have opposed rezoning.

The council also will consider adopting an emergency interim ordinance to prevent development along Novato Creek which might interfere with flood control work.

Marin County supervisors passed a similar ordinance Tuesday covering the portion of the creek that runs through the unincorporated area to San Pablo Bay.

Unexpected Delay For Flight 859

PRESTWICK, Scotland (UPI) —An Air Canada DC8 jetliner bound from London to Canada flew into a flock of seagulls during a scheduled landing at Prestwick airport Sunday and was taken out of service with a crippled engine.

One seagull was sucked into one of the four engines seconds before flight 859 touched the runway, badly damaging the engine. The pilot made a smooth landing.

District Sued

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—A class action suit has been filed against the Gallup McKinley County School District charging it misused more than $2 million in federal funds meant for the education of Indian children.

MUSIC REVIEW

New St. Mary's Outshines Music

SAN FRANCISCO — Attending the Winifred Baker-conducted Bach B Minor Mass yesterday in the new St. Mary's Cathedral was an awe-inspiring experience.

Packed with more than 2,500 persons, with many standing and even seated on the floor, the cathedral itself was the major source of wonder because of its breathtaking beauty.

A picture of inexpressible grandeur was presented by the 175-voice combined Winifred Baker Chorale from Marin and San Francisco Civic Chorale, four solists and a 23-piece orchestra positioned under the 196-foot spotlighted apex of the soaring roof, from which hung an enormous pyramid of glittering crystal rods. Said to represent the mercy of God descending, it had the effect of an extraordinary halo.

Another visual wonder rising some distance to the right was the great 89-rank pipe organ looking like a gigantic piece of modern sculpture. Marin organist Wilbur Russell was at the console.

The music was not quite up to the potential of the cathedral, and this was not the fault of conductor or performers.

How the music was heard depended upon where one sat, since seating is in the round with no seat further than 75 feet from the sanctuary.

Walking around the perimeter I found those seated behind the singers, especially to the right, heard little, while those facing them or to the left received the full benefit of the acclaimed acoustics. There the great climaxes and singing of the four excellent soloists were impressive, but without amplification and with a sound-absorbing capacity audience, it would take a chorus twice the size of yesterday's to achieve sonority to match the magnitude of the cathedral.

Of the four soloists Marin soprano Gwen Curatilo's voice of bell-like clarity carried best as it floated with ease and agility through the difficulties of the florid music. The other soloists were mezzo soprano Donna Petersen, tenor Dan Parkerson and bass James Tippey.

Oddly enough the orchestral instruments were heard with great clarity even at the right, and some of the individual work on oboe, violin, horn, trumpet and flute added luster to the performance.

The position of the organ at some distance from the singers caused some difficulties because of time lag, and neither the artistry of Russell nor the potentialities of the great organ could be heard to advantage because he was forced to play it mostly as a continuo or background rather than solo instrument.

Everything considered, it was a memorable day for Marin musicians, since the 75 singers in the Winifred Baker Chorale and many of the instrumentalists were from this county.

Two Women Found Dead —Drownings

The bodies of two Tiburon doctors were found yesterday by the Coast Guard after an all-night search for the two women who had sailed into the Bay in an eight-foot sailboat.

Identified were Dr. Judith A. Dynoske, 27, of 34 Old Landing Road, and Dr. Margaret A. Downey, 46, of 36 Barbaree Way. Both women were podiatrists.

When the two women did not return, the Coast Guard began the search with a helicopter, two 40-foot patrol boats, a hover craft and the 82-foot cutter Point Winslow.

Dr. Dynoske's body was found at 6:44 a.m. near Fort Baker; Dr. Downey's body was located at 12:37 p.m. near Angel Island, according to Coast Guard officials.

Brent Schultz, deputy coroner in San Francisco, termed the deaths accidental due to drowning.

Dr. Dynoske's offices were at 911 Mission Avenue in San Rafael; Dr. Downey was a radiology instructor at the California College of Podiatry in San Francisco.

Both funerals will be held out of state. Services for Dr. Dynoske will be held in West Mifflin, Pa. and, for Dr. Downey, in Oregon.

Half Of Inmates' Art Works Are Sold

More than half the 1,200 works of art by San Quentin inmates were sold in the art show and sale Saturday at the College of Marin, prison officials reported today.

According to Associate Warden James W. L. Park, inmates received approximately $14,000 for the works sold. This is double the amount of the first spring art show held last year at the Civic Center, he said.

The show opened 15 minutes ahead of the scheduled 8:30 a.m. opening time because of the large crowd of visitors already in line. Approximately 4,000 attended the spring show last year and the crowd was several thousand larger this year, Park said.

The exact number of items sold and exact amount of money taken in will not be known until a full inventory is taken today, Park said.

Too Slow Car Halted, 2 Arrested

Two 25-year-old Illinois men were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of a variety of drug charges after their auto was stopped on Highway 101 for going too slow in a fast traffic lane, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Jon A. Steiner and Michael Stuart Schuller were booked for investigation of possessing marijuana, dangerous drugs and paraphernalia and being in a place where drugs are used. An officer who stopped the men southbound on the freeway near the Marin County Civic Center about 9:35 p.m. said he noticed a smell of burning marijuana in the car and what appeared to be a marijuana cigarette on the floorboard.

After the pair was arrested, a search of the vehicle revealed three plastic bags containing suspected marijuana, a hypodermic syringe and a brass pipe.

Both men were held to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Radio Taken

Variance Bid Before Planners In Mill Valley

A variance to allow an old furniture store at 38 Miller Avenue to be converted into a cluster of shops will go before the Mill Valley Planning Commission at 8 p.m. today at city hall.

Developer W. W. Kirsch is requesting the variance to allow him to supply only 30 parking spaces, while the city's zoning ordinance requires 118.

A previous proposal to turn the store into a restaurant-bar was rejected by the city council, partly on the grounds of insufficient parking.

Also on the agenda is discussion of several variances which have been granted by planners and overturned by the city council on appeal.

By ALLAN LIVERS

Take equal parts of Fourth-of-July picnic, Sunday-at-the-beach, evening-of-community-theatre, hike-in-the-Sierras. Blend with plenty of people-watching, fresh air and sunshine. Season to taste with lots of good humor and you have a fine afternoon at the 54th annual Mountain Play.

Those who missed the Tamalpais Mountain Play Association's show yesterday in the open-air Sidney B. Cushing Memorial Theatre will get a second chance next Sunday at 2 p.m.

To some extent, it's a kind of happening, to large extent a community experience as basket lunches, babies, octogenarians, long-hairs and straights gather for the enjoyment of seeing a good theatrical classic, wonderful views of natural scenery and each other.

Hours before show time people were picking their spots in the amphitheater, spreading blankets and other padding on those hard stone seats, digging into hampers, stripping off heavier outer garments to add to that tan and generally getting in the mood that lasted until the final stragglers in a crowds of about 3,500 persons trailed out at the end of the afternoon.

Stage manager Dave Munro gave some last minute instructions to the "Villagers." Some touchup was applied to make-up. Marian Hayes Cain, the association's production coordinator, chatted in a relaxed mood as she double-checked to see everyone had been fed.

Much of his assurance is justified. It's an Herculean task to take Synge's classic mixture of the comic, the sardonic and the tender, written originally for the intimacy of the Abby Theatre where it first hit the boards in 1906 (causing riots incidently,) and adapt it to the open air 5000 seat, cloud and mountain backdrop against which it was presented.

Somehow set-designer William Carson, and the cast, aided and abbetted by a couple of ducks, some chickens, a horse and a goat — the latter paraded through the "house" during intermission to the delight of everyone — managed to hack it and the result, while not quite what Synge had in mind 63 years ago, certainly had its merits.

One can't really fool around with alterations on Synges lines, whether a purist or an experimenter, and Jackson wisely left them untouched. He did throw in a couple of excellent pipers, Ken Briggs and Reuben Santos, who opened the show atop Pohli Rock and paraded through the crowd during intermissions.

Of course no review's complete without some sort of criticism. Soooooooo, to dig really deeply: Old Mahon's original entrance from the audience — while a device which sometimes breeds intimacy and empathy — in this case made portions of the audience curious as to whether he was one of the freaks one sees these days., made others feel sympathetic for an outsider who was ill or drunk, and still others somewhat anxious as to whether he was going to upset the show. At any rate few in his vicinity paid the slightest attention to the goings-on of the cast until it became apparent he was one of them.

As the play neared its climax Pegeen began blowing on the hearth with a bellows and "real smoke" started coming from the chimney top. Play again forgotten, most of the audience was saying "Gee, look at the real smoke. Isn't that great!"

Those are minor items but they'll give the cast an opportunity to beef about how the viewers just don't understand true artistry!

The cast is well balanced — no small achievement in itself — and comes from Novato to Daly City, plus points in between. They've been working without pay since February and have a group accomplishment of which they justly may be proud.

Salary Proposal On School Agenda

The Sausalito School District's certificated employees council will present its salary recommendations for 1971-72 to the Sausalito School District board at 7:30 p.m. today in Bayside School.

The board will also hear a report for Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg on employee and student absences on May 19, Malcolm X's birthday.

Five Girls Report Indecent Exposure

Five girls ranging in age from 10 to 16 reported to Novato police yesterday that a juvenile exposed himself outside Novato High School between 4:30 and 4:45 p.m.

The suspect was described as being from 13 to 15 years old, about five feet six inches tall, wearing a dark plaid shirt and blue pants, officers said.

Charges On Tam Special Program Due Hearing

What appears to be a showdown between parents of mentally retarded students and Tamalpais High School District officials charged with operating a "special education program" will come before the district board tonight. It will meet at 8 p.m. at the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

According to some parents, who have grouped themselves under the banner of Citizens Association for Special Education (CASE), the controversy is two-pronged.

It arises, they say, from the district's reluctance to upgrade a badly out-of-state program and deficiencies in the teaching staff itself.

On the other hand, officials directly responsible for the program say parents have refused to work with teachers in making program changes but that teachers nevertheless have "worked diligently" to improve the program in areas of parent concern.

"It is the opinion of the staff that the charges of incompetence leveled against staff members are based mainly on personal issues,' says Dr. Janet M. Lyon, director of special education.

The issues first came before district trustees last summer when parents charged their children were being "treated as outcasts" by some teachers and students at Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley where the program is located.

The district board then referred the matter to Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins who assured the board he would resolve the matter at staff level.

Carlos's report was submitted Dec. 30 and contained many recommendations — most of them still awaiting action — for bringing the program not only up to state standards but up to standards which have generally been practiced elsewhere in the state for years.

Supt. Hawkins last week told the board that "the consultant concluded that the program was an excellent one."

The board, which was scheduled to discuss the program with parents, declined such discussion last week saying it would have to be done in closed session because charges against two teachers were inseparable from the program itself.

It set a closed session for tonight to delve into the charges.

The board subsequently reversed itself, however, and said the charges and the program would have to be handled separately.

To be discussed tonight in open session are parent charges that the program is years behind times, reflects a philosophy that mentally retarded students can't learn, and has failed to comply with state laws, regulations and recommendations.

Charges against two of the program's three teachers, will be heard in closed session.

Those charges, according to material supplied by the district, include frequent absense from the classrooms, little concern for the students and in one case, ineptitude.

Education Board To Act On Hiring New Principal

The San Rafael Board of Education tomorrow will act on the appointment of Dr. Peter Palches to succeed Dr. Alan Ellsberg as principal of San Rafael High School.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the Administration Building.

Palches, 38, is currently director of planning for Marina High School in San Mateo. He is a former high school English, journalism, and photography teacher, and was a research assistant at Stanford University's Center for Research and Development in Teaching from 1966-68.

An Army veteran, Palches received his doctorate in education from Stanford last year. He is married and has two daughters.

Ellsberg was principal of San Rafael High School since 1966.

Board members are scheduled to discuss preliminary budgets, $5,460,845 in the elementary district and $5,494,000 in the high school district, which don't carry any raise in the salary schedules.

Also scheduled is a switch in administrative assignments with Hanlon Tharp, principal of Davidson Junior High School, to be assigned principal of Gallinas and MacPhail elementary schools, and Virgil Birdsall, principal at the two schools, to become principal at Davidson.

$150 Fine For Pot Possession

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Municipal Court also placed Butler on probation for six months.

Butler was originally charged with felony possession of the drug as well as indecent exposure after a woman told San Rafael police a man had exposed himself to her on Lucas Valley Road.

Butler pleaded guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing the drug April 14 and the indecent exposure change was dismissed.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Spontaneous Recoveries Might Discourage A Strike By Doctors

PHYSICIANS may never go on strike because too many of their patients might get well without their help. Many disorders improve spontaneously. Cold sufferers might be uncomfortable for a few days, but they would soon appreciate the old saying about the respiratory disorder — "seven days with a doctor and a week without." Those riddled with anxieties and frustrations might shake in their boots for a week or two but their reward might be a new lease on life when they discover that many of their fears never materialized and that they can manage without tranquilizers. The same can be said for those with headaches, indigestion, backache, hemorrhoids and other self-limiting diseases.

BUT MEDICAL CARE is indispensable for ailments that might be fatal, incapacitating or disabling. One form of treatment — surgery — also is needed apropos the saying, "If you can't cure it, cut it out."

Dozens of emergencies require prompt, skilled care, and for these we could not do without our physicians. Accidents kill 115,000 in this country annually but 10 times this number are disabled and 100 times as many are in need of medical care.

A WOMAN in labor waits for no man. Nature knows best provided there are no complications. If there are, she wants a well trained doctor. A prolonged strike is most unlikely but should it occur those with heart attacks and strokes might be forced to return to treatments popular at the turn of the century.

Thirty years ago, 90 per cent of our modern medicines were unknown. Nurses, pharmacists and corpsmen could prescribe many drugs if they were willing to assume the responsibility for adverse reactions and indifidual idiosyncrasies. In time, everyone would be forced to depend upon self diagnosis which has many objections but an approach that is not necessarily fatal. After all, medical school teachers often tell their students, "Listen to the patient; he will tell you what is wrong with him."

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

SECOND WIND

T. C. writes: What is the explanation of the second wind in an athletic contest?

REPLY

The second wind is not too well understood but some believe that shortness of breath is traceable to a chemical reflex due to the production of lactic acid in the exercising limbs. Apparently, lactic acid accumulates in the last few minutes of activity and is absorbed into the blood, where it acts as a stimulant. The second wind comes after equilibrium has been established, at which time there is sufficient oxygen to supply energy. In addition, less lactic acids forms, the respiratory system loses its stimulating influence, and normal respiration returns.

HEART ATTACK

K. E. writes: When a person has heart attack does he lose consciousness?

REPLY

Many lose consciousness when the heart stops or beats erratically and may succumb unless the organ is stimulated with electrical shock or thumping the chest wall. Now and then it begins to beat spontaneously. But the majority develop chest pain without losing consciousness.

NERVOUS STOMACH

C. I. writes: What is done for gastric neurosis?

REPLY

Eliminate the neurosis and the stomach will cure itself. Tension from worry, overwork, frustration, and lack of sleep are common causes for this symptom.

Today is Monday, May 24, the 144th day of 1971.

The moon is new. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Gemini.

Queen Victoria of England was born May 24, 1819.

On this day in history:

In 1883 the Brooklyn Bridge linking the boroughs of Brooklyn and Manhattan was opened to the public for the first time.

In 1941 the "H.M.S. Hood" of the British navy, the world's largest warship at the time, was sunk by the German battlewagon "Bismarck" between Greenland and Iceland.

In 1962 Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter of the U.S. Navy became the second American to go into orbit. He circled the earth three times.

A thought for today: Philosopher Vannevar Bush said, "If democracy loses its touch, then no great war will be needed to overwhelm it. If it keeps and enhances its strength, no great war need come again.

Moss Hits Attack On Broadcasters

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, accuses the administration of attacking broadcasters because it is "paranoid with fear, suspicion and loathing of a free and undomesticated press."

Moss in a Senate speech criticized Nixon administration officials for their attacks upon the CBS news documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

A Beautiful Swindle Lives On In Memory For 20 Years

Today's hand was given to me by a perfect stranger in an elevator of the Drake Hotel in New York. Now, the Drake is a quiet, well-bred place, and ordinarily it's a big deal if a stranger even nods to you, but the man said he'd known this hand for 20 years, had recognized me from the picture on the jacket of one of my books and wasn't going to wait another 20 years to unburden himself. So here it is:

BOY WONDER

"Johnny Rau was declarer," the stranger related. "You know him, of course?" I nodded. A boy wonder in the early '30s, Rau is still a first-class player.

"Rau played low from dummy at the first trick and lost to the king of spades. Back came the three of spades to dummy's ace. Now Rau didn't look happy. He needed four diamond tricks, so he had to find the king on side with the diamonds divided equally. He said later that the odds were 5-to-1 against him."

EXTRA CHANCE

"Rau saw one extra chance. He couldn't lose anything by testing the clubs first, so he led a low club from dummy at the third trick.

"My friend, Sidney Satenstein, played the king of clubs, and Rau looked like a man who'd been reprieved from the electric chair. Now he didn't need the diamonds."

I nodded again, just as the elevator went past my floor. (Few of my readers realize what sacrifices I make for them.)

TRIES FINESSE

"So Rau took the ace of clubs and led the nine of clubs for a finesse. Satenstein fished through his hand and found the jack of clubs. He led another spade and Rau was down one. If Rau had played the diamonds, he'd have made the contract."

The stranger paused a moment and added: "This hand has kept me awake for 20 years. Now that I've passed it on, I'll be able to sleep at night."

I found it kep me awake, too, for a few nights, but I'll sleep like a baby after it has appeared in the column.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - K 10 6 3
♥ - 10 8 6 3
♣ - K J.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to bid a major suit or four or more cards. If he does, you will raise his suit to game. If he bids two diamonds, denying a major suit, you will jump to three no-trump.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Spontaneous Recoveries Might Discourage A Strike By Doctors

PHYSICIANS may never go on strike because too many of their patients might get well without their help. Many disorders improve spontaneously. Cold sufferers might be uncomfortable for a few days, but they would soon appreciate the old saying about the respiratory disorder — "seven days with a doctor and a week without." Those riddled with anxieties and frustrations might shake in their boots for a week or two but their reward might be a new lease on life when they discover that many of their fears never materialized and that they can manage without tranquilizers. The same can be said for those with headaches, indigestion, backache, hemorrhoids and other self-limiting diseases.

BUT MEDICAL CARE is indispensable for ailments that might be fatal, incapacitating or disabling. One form of treatment — surgery — also is needed apropos the saying, "If you can't cure it, cut it out."

Dozens of emergencies require prompt, skilled care, and for these we could not do without our physicians. Accidents kill 115,000 in this country annually but 10 times this number are disabled and 100 times as many are in need of medical care.

A WOMAN in labor waits for no man. Nature knows best provided there are no complications. If there are, she wants a well trained doctor. A prolonged strike is most unlikely but should it occur those with heart attacks and strokes might be forced to return to treatments popular at the turn of the century.

Thirty years ago, 90 per cent of our modern medicines were unknown. Nurses, pharmacists and corpsmen could prescribe many drugs if they were willing to assume the responsibility for adverse reactions and indifidual idiosyncrasies. In time, everyone would be forced to depend upon self diagnosis which has many objections but an approach that is not necessarily fatal. After all, medical school teachers often tell their students, "Listen to the patient; he will tell you what is wrong with him."

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

SECOND WIND

T. C. writes: What is the explanation of the second wind in an athletic contest?

REPLY

The second wind is not too well understood but some believe that shortness of breath is traceable to a chemical reflex due to the production of lactic acid in the exercising limbs. Apparently, lactic acid accumulates in the last few minutes of activity and is absorbed into the blood, where it acts as a stimulant. The second wind comes after equilibrium has been established, at which time there is sufficient oxygen to supply energy. In addition, less lactic acids forms, the respiratory system loses its stimulating influence, and normal respiration returns.

HEART ATTACK

K. E. writes: When a person has heart attack does he lose consciousness?

REPLY

Many lose consciousness when the heart stops or beats erratically and may succumb unless the organ is stimulated with electrical shock or thumping the chest wall. Now and then it begins to beat spontaneously. But the majority develop chest pain without losing consciousness.

NERVOUS STOMACH

C. I. writes: What is done for gastric neurosis?

REPLY

Eliminate the neurosis and the stomach will cure itself. Tension from worry, overwork, frustration, and lack of sleep are common causes for this symptom.

Marin's Miracle Drive To Championship

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Marin Catholic High School baseball coach Gary Hughes was counting his blessings Friday night, but he was also counting something more substantial. Like the $470 people paid to see his Wildcats win the Marin County Athletic League pennant.

Nearly 2,000 fans jammed San Rafael's Albert Park as Marin Catholic defeated Terra Linda, 7-4, thereby overtaking the staggering Novato Hornets for the championship. It was probably the largest crowd ever to watch a regular season MCAL game, and it proved without a doubt that night baseball, which Hughes brought to Marin this year, can be successful at the high school level.

As for his blessings, Hughes remarked afterward, "It's amazing how everything just fell into place. The tremendous amount of things that had to happen and did to allow us to get in."

He pointed out that with barely half the season over, his team was 4-3-1 while Novato was running away from the pace at 7-1. Then, however, what had to happen began. Novato went belly up, losing three of its last four, while Marin Catholic won its last six in a row.

The whiz-kid finish was even more remarkable because only one player in the lineup is a senior. That's Tom Olson, the winning pitcher in the final four league games. He wasn't at his best Friday night, but still went the distance. "I would have gone with him till the cows came home," Hughes said of the four-year varsity veteran.

With the MCAL title comes the right to represent the league in the annual Redwood Tournament of Champions, which opens Thursday at Albert. The Wildcats have been there twice, in 1967, and the following year, when they became the only Marin team ever to win it.

This year, if only because of their youth, they wear the underdog label, but don't count them out. Before the title game Friday night, Hughes told the team, "Everybody's talking about how good we'll be next year. As far as I'm concerned, next year starts tonight."

RULES COMPROMISE FOR ALL-STAR GAME

HOUSTON (UPI) — Friday's first all-star basketball game between the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association will be played with rules borrowed from both leagues.

Three-point shots of the ABA will be allowed during the first half but NBA scoring rules will be followed in the second half.

The NBA's less colorful ball will be used but the scoring clock will be set for 30 ABA regulation seconds instead of the 24-second clock used in the NBA.

NEVER TOO YOUNG

Athletics Take Two Of Three

OAKLAND (UPI)—Minnesota manage Bill Rigney brought his Twins to Oakland for a three-game series, promptly whipped the A's in the first game, and then laughed at the suggestion that the A's were running away with the American League West race. Now that Rigney has seen Vida Blue, he's not laughing.

Blue, the A's hard-throwing young lefthander who leads the American League in strikeouts, became the first 10-game winner in both leagues Sunday when he stopped the Twins, 3-1, on just five singles.

For the Twins, it was their second straight loss to the A's after taking the series opener, 10-1. Jim Hunter hurled a two-hitter in the second game for a 5-1 victory.

And what may worry Rigney and other A.L. managers more, Blue served notice after the game that he plans to win a few more this season.

"You know that don't excite me, man," the 21-year-old Blue said when asked if he was excited about becoming the season's first 10-game winner.

"Winning 10 games doesn't make me king for a day," he said. "I've still got to think about my 11th, 12th, 13th and all the rest of them."

"When I go four-for-four that's when I'll be excited, but that hasn't happened yet," he said.

Blue did collect one hit in Sunday's game, but the damage he did was on the mound, where he fanned nine, and the A's increased their lead in the A.L. West to 7 1-2 games.

All the help Blue needed at the plate came from first baseman Mike Epstein, who slapped a two-run homer in the fourth inning, his second since coming to the A's from Washington and his third of the year. Reggie Jackson had blooped a two-out double before Epstein's homer.

Oakland's other run came in the sixth inning on a walk to Jackson, a single by Sal Bando and a sacrifice fly by Rick Monday.

Giants End Jinx

HOUSTON (UPI)—With the help of Ron Bryant, Bobby Bonds, Jerry Johnson and Houston's Jim Wynn, the San Francisco Giants finally broke the Astrodome jinx.

Bryant pitched eight strong innings, Johnson tossed a quick inning of relief to shut off a mild Houston threat in the ninth and Bonds drove in three runs with three hits Sunday as the Giants socked the Astros, 7-4.

Centerfielder Wynn contribued to the victory by misplaying a Bonds single that turned into a triple, bobbling a single that allowed a run to score and popping up to the infield in the fifth when the Astros had a chance for a rally.

The win snapped an eight-game Giants losing streak in the Astrodome and prevented Houston from sweeping the three-game series. Before Sunday's game, San Francisco had won only three of its last 21 games in the temperature-controlled dome.

The Giants are off today before opening a three-game series with Los Angeles, where they have a perfect opportunity to increase their nine-game National League West lead over the second place Dodgers.

Southpaw Bryant scattered 12 hits in winning his fifth game against one loss before tiring in the ninth after Joe Morgan led off with a single. Johnson, who now has appeared in 20 of the Giants' 43 games, came into retire the side on three pitches.

Bond's triple, a line-drive that bounced over the head of Wynn in the second, drove in Bryant, who had doubled in Alan Gallagher with the Giants' first run.

Bonds' single, which was misplayed by Wynn, scored San Francisco's final two runs.

Marin Lands 5 In Meet

Five Marin County Athletic League track and field stars, four of them from Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley, have qualified for the California State Championships.

The four Indians, Vian Collier, Mike Arago, Al Schlette and Gerald Robertson, flashed the brilliance that brought Tam the MCAL crown as they finished among the top four in different events Saturday, at the North Coast Section finals in Santa Rosa.

Chakra Chappell of Novato's San Marin High was the other MCAL star to earn a berth in the state meet, to be held June 4-5 in Los Angeles.

Three of the MCAL qualifiers posted the best marks of their careers, but the only MCAL record to be eclipsed was in the triple jump, where Robertson soared 44-7. The jump was only good enough for fourth place, however. Collier did the best of any Marin runner, finishing second in the mile with a time of 4:19.5.

Chappell was within a 10th of a second of the MCAL 880 mark and nearly two seconds better than his previous best as he finished fourth in 1:54.5. And Schlette improved by five inches on his career best long jump with a 22-6½ performance, also good for fourth.

Arago, the second fastest two-miler in MCAL history, ran for him a poor race, but managed to take fourth in 9:22.9.

PRO GOLF RARITY

An Over-Par Win

"I had just come off the 11th hole (on Saturday) with a double bogey and I was six over par for the tournament," he said. "And, now here I am a winner. It just doesn't seem possible."

But anything was possible for a golfer who could nibble away at the beastly Colonial Country Club's 7,142-yard, par 35-35—70 course on about as windy a Sunday as they dream up in Texas these days.

Littler survived the winds and the narrow fairways to fire a one-under-par 69 that was good enough for a three-over-par 283 and a one-stroke victory in the 26th Colonial National Invitation. (List of golfers and final scores on page 27.)

The former U.S. Open champion sacked up $25,000 for his second win of the year. Bert Yancey, who closed with a 70, was one stroke back at 284 and won $14,300.

Third-round leader Julius Boros faded to a 76 and wound up tied for third with Fred Marti, George Knudson and Orville Moody. Marti shot a 74, and Knudson a 73. Moody was one of the day's fortunate souls, shooting a 69 and moved past 25 other golfers in the process.

Littler's winning score of three-over-par was the highest championship total in relation to par since the 1963 U.S. Open when Boros, Arnold Palmer and Jacky Cupit all shot 13-over 293s to tie. Boros subsequently won the 18-hole playoff.

"Well, answers Littler, "every hole is a potential bogey or worse, and in conditions like this with the wind there are no make-up holes.

"It can be a frustrating course if you are hitting the ball poorly. Some courses you can get away with scraping the ball around. But not here."

Littler started the day five shots behind Boros, but the wind soon got to the leader.

Dave Stockton moved into the temporary lead, but he triple bogeyed the third hole and double-bogeyed the sixth and he was out of it for the day and wound up seven over par.

George Knudson moved into the lead, and held it until late on the back nine, but then Littler made his move.

ALL IS GO FOR SATURDAY

Fastest Lineup For Indy

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—A starting lineup 4.5 miles an hour faster than last year and averaging better than the swiftest qualifier only a year ago, was set today for Saturday's million-dollar 500-mile Speedway auto race, with the only certainty that more records will tumble.

The 33-car lineup, averaging 171.665 miles per hour, was firmed up late Sunday, concluding two weekends of time trials on their usually hectic note, but only three drivers made successful qualification runs sunday as time ran out.

Twenty-one cars were qualified faster than the 170.221 m.p.h. that won the 1970 pole for Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., who also won the race.

Peter Revson of New York won the pole spot this year at a record clip of 178.696.

Veterans Mel Kenyon, Lebanon, Ind., Art Pollard, Medford, Ore., and Bob Harkey, Indianapolis, were last three speedsters to join the field in the 11th and last row on race day—Pollard 24 hours after he was "bumped" by a faster machine.

Kenyon eliminated a car qualified by Carl Williams, Grandview, Mo., at 170.205; Pollard ousted Jim McElreath, Arlington, Tex., at 169.500, and Harkey bumped Dick Simon, Salt Lake City, at 169.197, making him the slowest in the field.

McElreath, a former Speedway "rookie of the year" and winner of the inaurgal "California 500" last year, was bumped twice. His original car was ousted Saturday.

San Rafael Profs Walk Off With Prize

San Rafael High School may be the walking capital of the world.

Tom Dooley, Goetz Klopfer and Bill Ranney, all teachers at SRHS, finished first, second and seventh respectively yesterday in the National Senior Amateur Athletic Union 20-kilometer walk through Golden Gate Park in San Francisco.

All three were representing the Athens Track Club, and Dooley and Klopfer won the right to represent this country in the U.S. — Russian World Meet in Berkeley, July 2-3, and the Pan Amarican games in Columbia in August.

Dooley, a 26-year-old physical education teacher, covered the 12 miles, 756 yards in one hour, 32 minutes and 18 seconds. Klopfer finished 20 seconds later, and Ranney was clocked in 1:35.42.

Their combined performance gave Athens the club award over the New York Athletic Club. Athens has won national championships in the Olympic distance walks, and 20 and 50 kilomters, every year since 1968.

San Rafael High also claims a great student walker, Jerry Lansing. He won the five-mile walk earlier this month at an AAU- sanctioned walkathon at San Francisco State. His time of 40.32 makes him the fastest high school walker in the country, and gives him a chance to try out for the 1972 Olympics.

Special guests will be Raiders defensive end Ben Davidson, another player to be announced, Director of Administration Del Courtney and his wife, the former Connie Haines of singing fame.

Club president Shaun Wiltshire said prospective members are welcome to the meeting.

Today is Monday, May 24, the 144th day of 1971.

The moon is new. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Gemini.

Queen Victoria of England was born May 24, 1819.

On this day in history:

In 1883 the Brooklyn Bridge linking the boroughs of Brooklyn and Manhattan was opened to the public for the first time.

In 1941 the "H.M.S. Hood" of the British navy, the world's largest warship at the time, was sunk by the German battlewagon "Bismarck" between Greenland and Iceland.

In 1962 Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter of the U.S. Navy became the second American to go into orbit. He circled the earth three times.

A thought for today: Philosopher Vannevar Bush said, "If democracy loses its touch, then no great war will be needed to overwhelm it. If it keeps and enhances its strength, no great war need come again.

Moss Hits Attack On Broadcasters

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, accuses the administration of attacking broadcasters because it is "paranoid with fear, suspicion and loathing of a free and undomesticated press."

Moss in a Senate speech criticized Nixon administration officials for their attacks upon the CBS news documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon."

A Beautiful Swindle Lives On In Memory For 20 Years

Today's hand was given to me by a perfect stranger in an elevator of the Drake Hotel in New York. Now, the Drake is a quiet, well-bred place, and ordinarily it's a big deal if a stranger even nods to you, but the man said he'd known this hand for 20 years, had recognized me from the picture on the jacket of one of my books and wasn't going to wait another 20 years to unburden himself. So here it is:

BOY WONDER

"Johnny Rau was declarer," the stranger related. "You know him, of course?" I nodded. A boy wonder in the early '30s, Rau is still a first-class player.

"Rau played low from dummy at the first trick and lost to the king of spades. Back came the three of spades to dummy's ace. Now Rau didn't look happy. He needed four diamond tricks, so he had to find the king on side with the diamonds divided equally. He said later that the odds were 5-to-1 against him."

EXTRA CHANCE

"Rau saw one extra chance. He couldn't lose anything by testing the clubs first, so he led a low club from dummy at the third trick.

"My friend, Sidney Satenstein, played the king of clubs, and Rau looked like a man who'd been reprieved from the electric chair. Now he didn't need the diamonds."

I nodded again, just as the elevator went past my floor. (Few of my readers realize what sacrifices I make for them.)

TRIES FINESSE

"So Rau took the ace of clubs and led the nine of clubs for a finesse. Satenstein fished through his hand and found the jack of clubs. He led another spade and Rau was down one. If Rau had played the diamonds, he'd have made the contract."

The stranger paused a moment and added: "This hand has kept me awake for 20 years. Now that I've passed it on, I'll be able to sleep at night."

I found it kep me awake, too, for a few nights, but I'll sleep like a baby after it has appeared in the column.

Saturday's Answer

Palacio, Scott Triumph

Former California State amateur champion Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael and guest Homer Scott of the Meadow Club near Fairfax teamed up to win low gross honors Friday and Saturday in the 10th annual Marin Country Club Invitational Golf Tournament in Novato.

Fighting through stiff winds Friday and taking advantage of ideal weather conditions Saturday, the pair had a two-day, 36-hole best ball aggregate of 140 strokes. Runners-up for the low gross championship were Lee Lemquhl of Novato and Roy Levin of Sacramento with a 143.

Palacio, 55, one of Marin County's best golfers with the 1936 state title and countless other championships to his credit, fired a brilliant five-under-par 67 on his own ball Saturday for the best individual round of the popular tournament, and he had a penalty stroke to mar an even better score.

Levin shot a 68 on Saturday.

Low net championship went to Marin C.C. member R.J. Moran and guest Roger Bohnne of Mill Valley who had a 24-under-par 120 for the 36 holes. Bohnne is beginning to like the Marin course as two weeks ago, in a realtors' tournament, he shot a hole-in-one there. Had he waited until Friday or Saturday he would have won a new car offered for anyone shooting an ace.

Runners-up for low net honors at 122 were member Jim Carroll and Dante Ravetti of the San Francisco Olympic Club.

All scores were better Saturday than they were Friday when the wind velocity was estimated to be 35 to 40 miles per hour, according to assistant professional Wayne Webster.

First day low gross honors went to Dennis Rose of Novato and Jack Ramey of Modesto. Second day low gross was by Lloyd Ferguson of Fairfax and Ray Healy of the Olympic Club.

In the daily low net derby, first day honors went to Warren Ahr of Novato and Norman Bostock of San Mateo while Norval MacDonald of Novato and Ray Aguirre of the Rohnert Park Golf Club took Saturday's honors.

Blue notched his 10th complete game, his fifth shutout and increased his league strikeout leadership to 95. He also lowered his earned run average of 1.03 over 93 2-3 innings.

The A's take the day off today, then complete their home stand with a two-game series against the California Angels beginning Tuesday night. Chuck Dobson (3-0) will be on the mound for the A's Tuesday night against the Angels' Clyde Wright (4-3).

UCLA Trackmen Surprise Coach

SEATTLE (UPI) — UCLA track coach Jim Bush had it all figured out after the early finals—his Bruins were going to lose the Pacific-8 Conference track and field championship to Oregon by 20 points.

But the Bruins got the fastest 440 in the world this year from Wayne Collett and piled up late points in the field events to wipe out a large Duck lead and win the conference title over the weekend.

It was the third Pac-8 crown in three years for UCLA and Bush said the meet in Husky Stadium was "the real American track and field championship."

"My athletes promised to do the job and did," Bush said Saturday. "I had it doped for an Oregon victory after Friday, 146-125 1-2. But my athletes were great."

Then he added: "I like this place," which is good for the Bruins because the NCAA Track and Field Championships will be held in the same stadium June 17-19.

Bush's Bruins got vital points in the pole vault, triple jump and high jump to total 126 for the meet to 117 for Oregon.

Collett and John Smith avenged an earlier loss this season to USC's Edesel Garrison by placing 1-2 in the 440. Collett clocked 45.3 with Smith a fraction behind at 45.5 and Garrison well back in third at 46.8.

Southern California placed third in the two-day meet with 102 points followed by California, 77; Washington, 45; Stanford, 36; Oregon State, 29; and Washington State, 26.

Oregon's Steve Prefontaine scored a tough double in the mile and three-mile. He grabbed the shorter race in 4:01.5 as the Ducks finished 12-3. And Prefontaine ran on what he called "pure guts" in the three-mile to edge Stanford's Don Kardong with a strong final lap and a time of 13:17.9.

The only other double winner was USC's Willie Deckard in the 100 and 220. He was third in 9.7 into a headwind in the shorter race and had a 20.9 clocking in the 220.

Despite Deckard's wins, UCLA piled up 63 points in the sprint races, including the 100, 220, and two relays.

The most surprising win of the day came in the tole vault where Washington's Kirk Bryde cleared 17-4, which was 10 inches higher than he had ever gone before. He credited the win to a new pole that flipped him over every height on the first try until he reached 17-7.

UCLA's James Butts took a dramatic win in the triple jump when he leaped 54-2 1-2 on his final try of the day to pass Bob Reader of Oregon State by 4 inches. His distance was windaided however and Reader's mark of 53-10 1-2 will be recognized as a conference record.

Larry Hollins of USC took the high jump at 7-0 1-4 and his Trojan teammate Joe Antunovich repeated as the conference discus champ at 190-10.

UCLA, with Collett holding off Garrison at the tape, won the 440-relay in 39.9 and the Bruins also won the mile relay in 3:08.3.

California freshman Rick Brown took the 880 with a lifetime best of 1:49.1 and the hurdles winners were Lance Babb of USC in the highs at 13.8 and Washington's Jim Seymour in the intermediates at 50.9.

Nine-Year Track Mark Is Broken

Steve Johnson of Santa Venetia eclipsed a nine-year-old record in the 100-yard dash, and Liz Sakellariou and Sandra Johnson broke two records apiece Saturday in the Marin County Track and Field Finals for seventh and eighth graders at College of Marin.

Altogether, 17 records went down the drain as boys and girls from 17 junior high schools competed in four classes. Team scores were not kept.

Johnson, competing in class A, ran the 100 in 10.4, smashing by three 10ths of a second the record set in 1962 by Dean Lazzarini. The only other mark to fall in class A was in the 660 yard run, where Rich Neal of Davidson clocked a 1:33.2. The old record was 1:33.6.

Miss Sakellariou, from Neil Cummins, and Miss Johnson, from Miller Creek, broke the records for the 50 and 100 yard dashes in the seventh and eighth grade girls' races respectively.

Marin's Miracle Drive To Championship

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Marin Catholic High School baseball coach Gary Hughes was counting his blessings Friday night, but he was also counting something more substantial. Like the $470 people paid to see his Wildcats win the Marin County Athletic League pennant.

Nearly 2,000 fans jammed San Rafael's Albert Park as Marin Catholic defeated Terra Linda, 7-4, thereby overtaking the staggering Novato Hornets for the championship. It was probably the largest crowd ever to watch a regular season MCAL game, and it proved without a doubt that night baseball, which Hughes brought to Marin this year, can be successful at the high school level.

As for his blessings, Hughes remarked afterward, "It's amazing how everything just fell into place. The tremendous amount of things that had to happen and did to allow us to get in."

He pointed out that with barely half the season over, his team was 4-3-1 while Novato was running away from the pace at 7-1. Then, however, what had to happen began. Novato went belly up, losing three of its last four, while Marin Catholic won its last six in a row.

The whiz-kid finish was even more remarkable because only one player in the lineup is a senior. That's Tom Olson, the winning pitcher in the final four league games. He wasn't at his best Friday night, but still went the distance. "I would have gone with him till the cows came home," Hughes said of the four-year varsity veteran.

With the MCAL title comes the right to represent the league in the annual Redwood Tournament of Champions, which opens Thursday at Albert. The Wildcats have been there twice, in 1967, and the following year, when they became the only Marin team ever to win it.

This year, if only because of their youth, they wear the underdog label, but don't count them out. Before the title game Friday night, Hughes told the team, "Everybody's talking about how good we'll be next year. As far as I'm concerned, next year starts tonight."

RULES COMPROMISE FOR ALL-STAR GAME

HOUSTON (UPI) — Friday's first all-star basketball game between the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association will be played with rules borrowed from both leagues.

Three-point shots of the ABA will be allowed during the first half but NBA scoring rules will be followed in the second half.

The NBA's less colorful ball will be used but the scoring clock will be set for 30 ABA regulation seconds instead of the 24-second clock used in the NBA.

Athletics Take Two Of Three

OAKLAND (UPI)—Minnesota manage Bill Rigney brought his Twins to Oakland for a three-game series, promptly whipped the A's in the first game, and then laughed at the suggestion that the A's were running away with the American League West race. Now that Rigney has seen Vida Blue, he's not laughing.

Blue, the A's hard-throwing young lefthander who leads the American League in strikeouts, became the first 10-game winner in both leagues Sunday when he stopped the Twins, 3-1, on just five singles.

For the Twins, it was their second straight loss to the A's after taking the series opener, 10-1. Jim Hunter hurled a two-hitter in the second game for a 5-1 victory.

And what may worry Rigney and other A.L. managers more, Blue served notice after the game that he plans to win a few more this season.

"You know that don't excite me, man," the 21-year-old Blue said when asked if he was excited about becoming the season's first 10-game winner.

"Winning 10 games doesn't make me king for a day," he said. "I've still got to think about my 11th, 12th, 13th and all the rest of them."

"When I go four-for-four that's when I'll be excited, but that hasn't happened yet," he said.

Blue did collect one hit in Sunday's game, but the damage he did was on the mound, where he fanned nine, and the A's increased their lead in the A.L. West to 7 1-2 games.

All the help Blue needed at the plate came from first baseman Mike Epstein, who slapped a two-run homer in the fourth inning, his second since coming to the A's from Washington and his third of the year. Reggie Jackson had blooped a two-out double before Epstein's homer.

Oakland's other run came in the sixth inning on a walk to Jackson, a single by Sal Bando and a sacrifice fly by Rick Monday.

HOUSTON (UPI)—With the help of Ron Bryant, Bobby Bonds, Jerry Johnson and Houston's Jim Wynn, the San Francisco Giants finally broke the Astrodome jinx.

Bryant pitched eight strong innings, Johnson tossed a quick inning of relief to shut off a mild Houston threat in the ninth and Bonds drove in three runs with three hits Sunday as the Giants socked the Astros, 7-4.

Centerfielder Wynn contribued to the victory by misplaying a Bonds single that turned into a triple, bobbling a single that allowed a run to score and popping up to the infield in the fifth when the Astros had a chance for a rally.

The win snapped an eight-game Giants losing streak in the Astrodome and prevented Houston from sweeping the three-game series. Before Sunday's game, San Francisco had won only three of its last 21 games in the temperature-controlled dome.

The Giants are off today before opening a three-game series with Los Angeles, where they have a perfect opportunity to increase their nine-game National League West lead over the second place Dodgers.

Southpaw Bryant scattered 12 hits in winning his fifth game against one loss before tiring in the ninth after Joe Morgan led off with a single. Johnson, who now has appeared in 20 of the Giants' 43 games, came into retire the side on three pitches.

Bond's triple, a line-drive that bounced over the head of Wynn in the second, drove in Bryant, who had doubled in Alan Gallagher with the Giants' first run.

Bonds' single, which was misplayed by Wynn, scored San Francisco's final two runs.

Marin Lands 5 In Meet

Five Marin County Athletic League track and field stars, four of them from Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley, have qualified for the California State Championships.

The four Indians, Vian Collier, Mike Arago, Al Schlette and Gerald Robertson, flashed the brilliance that brought Tam the MCAL crown as they finished among the top four in different events Saturday, at the North Coast Section finals in Santa Rosa.

Chakra Chappell of Novato's San Marin High was the other MCAL star to earn a berth in the state meet, to be held June 4-5 in Los Angeles.

Three of the MCAL qualifiers posted the best marks of their careers, but the only MCAL record to be eclipsed was in the triple jump, where Robertson soared 44-7. The jump was only good enough for fourth place, however. Collier did the best of any Marin runner, finishing second in the mile with a time of 4:19.5.

Chappell was within a 10th of a second of the MCAL 880 mark and nearly two seconds better than his previous best as he finished fourth in 1:54.5. And Schlette improved by five inches on his career best long jump with a 22-6½ performance, also good for fourth.

Arago, the second fastest two-miler in MCAL history, ran for him a poor race, but managed to take fourth in 9:22.9.

PRO GOLF RARITY

An Over-Par Win

"I had just come off the 11th hole (on Saturday) with a double bogey and I was six over par for the tournament," he said. "And, now here I am a winner. It just doesn't seem possible."

But anything was possible for a golfer who could nibble away at the beastly Colonial Country Club's 7,142-yard, par 35-35—70 course on about as windy a Sunday as they dream up in Texas these days.

Littler survived the winds and the narrow fairways to fire a one-under-par 69 that was good enough for a three-over-par 283 and a one-stroke victory in the 26th Colonial National Invitation. (List of golfers and final scores on page 27.)

The former U.S. Open champion sacked up $25,000 for his second win of the year. Bert Yancey, who closed with a 70, was one stroke back at 284 and won $14,300.

Third-round leader Julius Boros faded to a 76 and wound up tied for third with Fred Marti, George Knudson and Orville Moody. Marti shot a 74, and Knudson a 73. Moody was one of the day's fortunate souls, shooting a 69 and moved past 25 other golfers in the process.

Littler's winning score of three-over-par was the highest championship total in relation to par since the 1963 U.S. Open when Boros, Arnold Palmer and Jacky Cupit all shot 13-over 293s to tie. Boros subsequently won the 18-hole playoff.

"Well, answers Littler, "every hole is a potential bogey or worse, and in conditions like this with the wind there are no make-up holes.

"It can be a frustrating course if you are hitting the ball poorly. Some courses you can get away with scraping the ball around. But not here."

Littler started the day five shots behind Boros, but the wind soon got to the leader.

Dave Stockton moved into the temporary lead, but he triple bogeyed the third hole and double-bogeyed the sixth and he was out of it for the day and wound up seven over par.

George Knudson moved into the lead, and held it until late on the back nine, but then Littler made his move.

ALL IS GO FOR SATURDAY

Fastest Lineup For Indy

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—A starting lineup 4.5 miles an hour faster than last year and averaging better than the swiftest qualifier only a year ago, was set today for Saturday's million-dollar 500-mile Speedway auto race, with the only certainty that more records will tumble.

The 33-car lineup, averaging 171.665 miles per hour, was firmed up late Sunday, concluding two weekends of time trials on their usually hectic note, but only three drivers made successful qualification runs sunday as time ran out.

Twenty-one cars were qualified faster than the 170.221 m.p.h. that won the 1970 pole for Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., who also won the race.

Peter Revson of New York won the pole spot this year at a record clip of 178.696.

Veterans Mel Kenyon, Lebanon, Ind., Art Pollard, Medford, Ore., and Bob Harkey, Indianapolis, were last three speedsters to join the field in the 11th and last row on race day—Pollard 24 hours after he was "bumped" by a faster machine.

Kenyon eliminated a car qualified by Carl Williams, Grandview, Mo., at 170.205; Pollard ousted Jim McElreath, Arlington, Tex., at 169.500, and Harkey bumped Dick Simon, Salt Lake City, at 169.197, making him the slowest in the field.

McElreath, a former Speedway "rookie of the year" and winner of the inaurgal "California 500" last year, was bumped twice. His original car was ousted Saturday.

San Rafael Profs Walk Off With Prize

San Rafael High School may be the walking capital of the world.

Tom Dooley, Goetz Klopfer and Bill Ranney, all teachers at SRHS, finished first, second and seventh respectively yesterday in the National Senior Amateur Athletic Union 20-kilometer walk through Golden Gate Park in San Francisco.

All three were representing the Athens Track Club, and Dooley and Klopfer won the right to represent this country in the U.S. — Russian World Meet in Berkeley, July 2-3, and the Pan Amarican games in Columbia in August.

Dooley, a 26-year-old physical education teacher, covered the 12 miles, 756 yards in one hour, 32 minutes and 18 seconds. Klopfer finished 20 seconds later, and Ranney was clocked in 1:35.42.

Their combined performance gave Athens the club award over the New York Athletic Club. Athens has won national championships in the Olympic distance walks, and 20 and 50 kilomters, every year since 1968.

San Rafael High also claims a great student walker, Jerry Lansing. He won the five-mile walk earlier this month at an AAU- sanctioned walkathon at San Francisco State. His time of 40.32 makes him the fastest high school walker in the country, and gives him a chance to try out for the 1972 Olympics.

Raider Boosters First Meeting

Special guests will be Raiders defensive end Ben Davidson, another player to be announced, Director of Administration Del Courtney and his wife, the former Connie Haines of singing fame.

Club president Shaun Wiltshire said prospective members are welcome to the meeting.

Ray Sadecki Has Learned To Be A Patient Pitcher

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

If there's one thing Ray Sadecki has learned during his 14 years in professional baseball, it would have to be patience.

It takes a good deal of patience for a man, particularly one who once was the ace of a world championship team, to sit on a bench and wait for a call. It takes something else to make good use of the infrequent opportunities.

Sadecki, who won 20 games for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals in 1964 received a chance for his second start of the season Sunday and he allowed hard-hitting Atlanta only five hits as the New York Mets downed the Braves, 4-0. Sadecki walked only one batter and struck out six as a crowd of 50,999 watched the contest at Shea Stadium.

"I've only pitched 15 2-3 innings," Sadecki said after his fine triumph. "But I understand the situation on this club and I can't get too upset about not playing more. We have several good strong starters and only a few off days in the schedule, so it's tough to get anyone else in the rotation.

"It makes me feel real good to do the job. With a staff as strong and as deep as ours, you tell me who they're going to sit down. After you've pitched around and have a chance to analyze things, it's easier to accept being a relief pitcher. This would be a terrible job with a second-division club, but with a winner it's not too bad."

Thanks to Sadecki's second victory in as many decisions, the Mets maintained their slim edge on first place in the National League's East Division, five percentage points in front of the Cardinals, who whipped the San Diego Padres, 6-1.

The San Francisco Giants, meantime, stretched their West Division lead to nine full games as they beat the Houston Astros, 7-4. In other games, the Cincinnati Reds nipped the Philadelphia Phils, 4-3, the Los Angeles Dodgers tripped the Chicago Cubs, 4-3, and the Montreal Expos beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2.

In the American League, Baltimore and Boston split a doubleheader, the Orioles taking the opener, 12-3, and the Red Sox the nightcap, 2-1; Detroit took a doubleheader from Washington, 5-0 and 11-0, Milwaukee defeated Kansas City, 4-0, Oakland beat Minnesota, 3-1, California routed Chicago, 10-5, and the New York Yankees beat Cleveland, 6-3, in the first game of a doubleheader with the Indians taking the second game, 2-1.

The Mets jumped off to an early 3-0 lead over Atlanta and Tommie Agee added the icing with a fifth-inning homer as New York completed a sweep of the three-game series. Mike McQueen (2-1) was the loser.

Reggie Cleveland celebrated his 23rd birthday with his first two hits of the season, including a run-scoring double, as he pitched the Cardinals to victory over San Diego. Cleveland, now 4-2, struck out nine and allowed seven hits.

Cincinnati used a two-run homer by Tony Perez and a costly error by leftfielder Joe Lis to score four runs in the first inning en route to victory. Don Gullett allowed homers to Willie Montanez and Deron Johnson of Philadelphia in the first inning, but went on to claim his fifth victory in seven decisions with eighth-inning relief from Clay Carroll.

Jim Lefebvre hit a two-run homer with none out in the ninth inning to lift the Dodgers over Chicago and end Ferguson Jenkins' seven-game winning streak. Jim Hickman drove in two runs for the Cubs with a homer and a single.

Ernie McAnally won his first major league game for Montreal after four losses, although he had to be relieved in the ninth inning by Mike Marshall when Pittsburgh scored both its runs. Bob Bailey hit a three-run homer for the Expos in the eighth.

Another Title For Merritt

PLEASANT HILL, Calif. (UPI)—Merritt College has won its third consecutive Northern California junior college track and field championship and will travel to Modesto Saturday in an effort to win its third straight state JC track title.

Merritt outscored Fresno, 76-69, in the Northern California meet Saturday by winning the 440 and mile relays and winning the shot put and 100.

THIS DAY IN SPORTS

UCLA Over USC For Net Title

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)—If the Pacific-8 Conference tennis championships were any indication, UCLA should repeat as NCAA champs again this spring.

The powerful Bruins had little trouble Saturday in downing cross-town rival Southern California 7-3. The Bruins dropped only one singles match and one in the doubles competition to the Trojans.

All the UCLA wins came in straight sets as they took the Pac-8 crown.

Many Tennis Stars Pass French Open

PARIS (UPI)—The $95,000 French International Open Tennis Championship —one of the grand slam events of world tennis—began today without many of the potential grand slammers around.

World-ranked pros like Rod Laver, John Newcombe, Tony Roche, Fred Stolle and others, decided to give the Roland Garros hard courts a miss this year —once again.

They considered the French do not offer enough money and, in any event, prefer not to wear themselves out before Wimbledon. Roy Emerson, Ken Rosewall and Cliff Drysdale of South Africa were also elsewhere as the curtain went up.

However, on hand to challenge defending champion Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia for the title and the $8,700 first prize money were a number of favored Americans, including Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., who missed the event last year because of an injury. Smith won the recent Paris International open tournament on the same court.

Arthur Ashe, of Gum Springs, Va., and Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., beaten in the semifinals last year, were among the top contenders.

By DON CARTER

Can a bowler do well without any backswing? Of course not. It is impossible to deliver a bowling ball without letting it swing alongside your body. The idea, however, is to get tenpinners to reduce the size of their swing and thereby eliminate many of the problems caused by a looping motion behind the body.

49er Film Highlights Boosters Meeting

The Marin Catholic High School boosters' club will meet tomorrow night at St. Sebastian Hall, next to the campus in Kentfield, athletic director Gary Hughes announced today.

The meeting will be free of charge and will include showing of the San Francisco 49ers' highlight film, "Welcome No More." Len Rohde of the 49ers will provide a commentary.

GETTING THEIR KICKS

Booting Footballs On A Spring Day

Saturday was just perfect for all sorts of springtime activities — like fishing, picnicking, boating and kicking footballs.

Kicking footballs? More than 3,000 kicks, in fact, toward 11 different goal posts. The place was Novato High School and the occasion was Gordon Tovani's third annual place-kicking clinic.

Field goal units from 22 high schools representing towns throughout California took part in the affair, which included agility drills, a movie, and special long-kicking events. The units, which consisted of centers, holders, kickers and coaches, wore game shirts and pants and competed for trophies and awards.

Although he didn't get a full turnout of the 29 teams that had signed up for the clinic, Tovani, one-time Oakland Raider kicker who now lives in San Rafael, was pleased.

"All of the coaches I talked to said they wanted to come back next year," he said. "Some of them said they'd be interested in putting on this kind of event in their own areas."

Several experts on place-kicking besides Tovani were present at the clinic, including former Raider stars Mike Mercer, and Wayne Hawkins, and 1970 Stanford kicker Steve Horowitz. He signed a contract last week to try out for the Miami Dolphins of the National Football League.

In the drill competition, where timing and accuracy were measured, Drake High of San Anselmo repeated as overall winner, followed closely by an outfit from Tracy. And Drake kicker John Loane also tied for second in the longest field goal event with a 53-yarder.

The longest shot, a 55-yarder, was booted by Odvaard Lyssand of Redwood City. He is the younger brother of Knute Lyssand, who won the first competition in 1969.

The other special award, for longest kickoff, went to Dan Francis of Danville, who rooted one 66 yards. Ron Vandermeer of Tracy, whose unit took second in the drills, had a 65-yard kickoff, and Urbano Boucisquez of San Marin High in Novato had a 64-yarder.

Boucisquez, who won the longest field goal event last year, set a California Interscholastic Federation record in the 1970 season with three field goals in one game. And two of them were better than 40 yards.

Palacio, Scott Triumph

Former California State amateur champion Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael and guest Homer Scott of the Meadow Club near Fairfax teamed up to win low gross honors Friday and Saturday in the 10th annual Marin Country Club Invitational Golf Tournament in Novato.

Fighting through stiff winds Friday and taking advantage of ideal weather conditions Saturday, the pair had a two-day, 36-hole best ball aggregate of 140 strokes. Runners-up for the low gross championship were Lee Lemquhl of Novato and Roy Levin of Sacramento with a 143.

Palacio, 55, one of Marin County's best golfers with the 1936 state title and countless other championships to his credit, fired a brilliant five-under-par 67 on his own ball Saturday for the best individual round of the popular tournament, and he had a penalty stroke to mar an even better score.

Levin shot a 68 on Saturday.

Low net championship went to Marin C.C. member R.J. Moran and guest Roger Bohnne of Mill Valley who had a 24-under-par 120 for the 36 holes. Bohnne is beginning to like the Marin course as two weeks ago, in a realtors' tournament, he shot a hole-in-one there. Had he waited until Friday or Saturday he would have won a new car offered for anyone shooting an ace.

Runners-up for low net honors at 122 were member Jim Carroll and Dante Ravetti of the San Francisco Olympic Club.

All scores were better Saturday than they were Friday when the wind velocity was estimated to be 35 to 40 miles per hour, according to assistant professional Wayne Webster.

First day low gross honors went to Dennis Rose of Novato and Jack Ramey of Modesto. Second day low gross was by Lloyd Ferguson of Fairfax and Ray Healy of the Olympic Club.

In the daily low net derby, first day honors went to Warren Ahr of Novato and Norman Bostock of San Mateo while Norval MacDonald of Novato and Ray Aguirre of the Rohnert Park Golf Club took Saturday's honors.

Blue notched his 10th complete game, his fifth shutout and increased his league strikeout leadership to 95. He also lowered his earned run average of 1.03 over 93 2-3 innings.

The A's take the day off today, then complete their home stand with a two-game series against the California Angels beginning Tuesday night. Chuck Dobson (3-0) will be on the mound for the A's Tuesday night against the Angels' Clyde Wright (4-3).

UCLA Trackmen Surprise Coach

SEATTLE (UPI) — UCLA track coach Jim Bush had it all figured out after the early finals—his Bruins were going to lose the Pacific-8 Conference track and field championship to Oregon by 20 points.

But the Bruins got the fastest 440 in the world this year from Wayne Collett and piled up late points in the field events to wipe out a large Duck lead and win the conference title over the weekend.

It was the third Pac-8 crown in three years for UCLA and Bush said the meet in Husky Stadium was "the real American track and field championship."

"My athletes promised to do the job and did," Bush said Saturday. "I had it doped for an Oregon victory after Friday, 146-125 1-2. But my athletes were great."

Then he added: "I like this place," which is good for the Bruins because the NCAA Track and Field Championships will be held in the same stadium June 17-19.

Bush's Bruins got vital points in the pole vault, triple jump and high jump to total 126 for the meet to 117 for Oregon.

Collett and John Smith avenged an earlier loss this season to USC's Edesel Garrison by placing 1-2 in the 440. Collett clocked 45.3 with Smith a fraction behind at 45.5 and Garrison well back in third at 46.8.

Southern California placed third in the two-day meet with 102 points followed by California, 77; Washington, 45; Stanford, 36; Oregon State, 29; and Washington State, 26.

Oregon's Steve Prefontaine scored a tough double in the mile and three-mile. He grabbed the shorter race in 4:01.5 as the Ducks finished 12-3. And Prefontaine ran on what he called "pure guts" in the three-mile to edge Stanford's Don Kardong with a strong final lap and a time of 13:17.9.

The only other double winner was USC's Willie Deckard in the 100 and 220. He was third in 9.7 into a headwind in the shorter race and had a 20.9 clocking in the 220.

Despite Deckard's wins, UCLA piled up 63 points in the sprint races, including the 100, 220, and two relays.

The most surprising win of the day came in the tole vault where Washington's Kirk Bryde cleared 17-4, which was 10 inches higher than he had ever gone before. He credited the win to a new pole that flipped him over every height on the first try until he reached 17-7.

UCLA's James Butts took a dramatic win in the triple jump when he leaped 54-2 1-2 on his final try of the day to pass Bob Reader of Oregon State by 4 inches. His distance was windaided however and Reader's mark of 53-10 1-2 will be recognized as a conference record.

Larry Hollins of USC took the high jump at 7-0 1-4 and his Trojan teammate Joe Antunovich repeated as the conference discus champ at 190-10.

UCLA, with Collett holding off Garrison at the tape, won the 440-relay in 39.9 and the Bruins also won the mile relay in 3:08.3.

California freshman Rick Brown took the 880 with a lifetime best of 1:49.1 and the hurdles winners were Lance Babb of USC in the highs at 13.8 and Washington's Jim Seymour in the intermediates at 50.9.

The Astros scored a run in the first on a double by Jesus Alou, and infield hits by Bob Watson and Wynn. They added another run in the second on a walk to John Mayberry and singles by Jack Hiatt and Roger Metzger and Mayberry tripled in the fourth and scored on a balk.

Nine-Year Track Mark Is Broken

Steve Johnson of Santa Venetia eclipsed a nine-year-old record in the 100-yard dash, and Liz Sakellariou and Sandra Johnson broke two records apiece Saturday in the Marin County Track and Field Finals for seventh and eighth graders at College of Marin.

Altogether, 17 records went down the drain as boys and girls from 17 junior high schools competed in four classes. Team scores were not kept.

Johnson, competing in class A, ran the 100 in 10.4, smashing by three 10ths of a second the record set in 1962 by Dean Lazzarini. The only other mark to fall in class A was in the 660 yard run, where Rich Neal of Davidson clocked a 1:33.2. The old record was 1:33.6.

Miss Sakellariou, from Neil Cummins, and Miss Johnson, from Miller Creek, broke the records for the 50 and 100 yard dashes in the seventh and eighth grade girls' races respectively.

Al Dyosky Wins At San Geronimo

Consistent Al Dyosky, an 11-handicapper, Saturday won the first flight championship in the 54-hole Directors Cup Tournament at the San Geronimo National Golf Club with a total score of 210 strokes.

In the tournament run over the past three weeks, Dyosky had gross scores of 80, 82 and 81 to win by six strokes over Don Hoover, a 10-handicapper, who netted a 216 total.

A Turnabout Is Overdue In Textiles

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We are retired and hold 100 shares of Dan River and five other issues. Should we hold this stock or sell and increase some other holding? — M.P.

A. Textile manufacturers have been hard hit in the last year by general economic sluggishness, foreign competition and consumer resistance in the "hemline" battle. Dan River has reported deficits in four of the last five quarters. For the most recent period — the March quarter — sales gained 7 per cent but a deficit of 11 cents a share was reported.

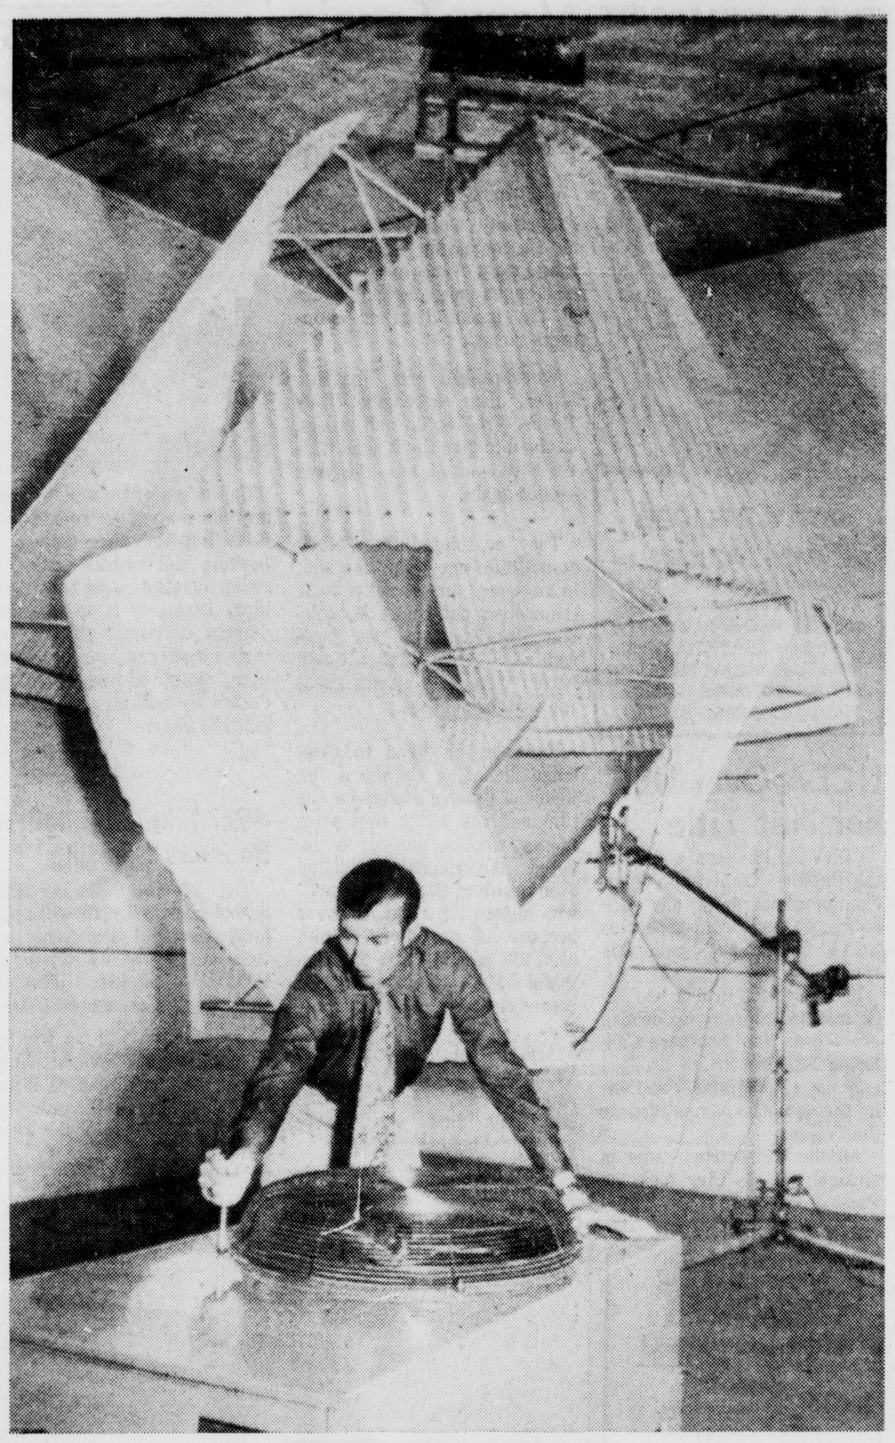
Knitted textiles have enjoyed strong demand and last year Dan River's sales in this area were up 70 per cent. Corduroy sales were also strong. Carpet, lighter weight fabrics, sheeting and yarns, which account for 73 per cent of sales, were very slow to move. However, turnover of these products is expected to pick up and should enable Dan River to show a profit for the year. I look for a good level of recovery in this group and would not advise disposing of these shares at this time.

Q. What is "Over-the-Counter" trading? — H.K.

A. This stock market handles transactions in securities not listed on any of the other exchanges, as well as executing orders on some listed issues. Approximately 25,000 registered issues are traded here annually.

Unlike the New York Stock Exchange, which operates on a double auction basis, the OTC market functions on a negotiation basis. Your broker may act as dealer in transacting your orders, in which case his profit is the spread between bid and ask. If he acts as broker or agent you will pay the customary commission.

Brokers may be market makers in a particular security, and thus are expected to be able to buy and sell round lots at firm prices. The "pink sheets," printed daily, contain price listings of transactions by these market makers.



TESTS FOR SOUND

False Advertising In Canada Studied

OTTAWA (UPI) —Out of the thousand-odd complaints of false and misleading advertising received by the Canadian Federal Consumer Affairs Department during the past year, three charges resulted in convictions.

A report by the combined investigation branch said complaints were received involving 650 separate advertisements. Of these, 18 were the subject of prosecutions and 14 were still before the courts when the report was prepared.

Chrysler Reports Sales Up In May

DETROIT (BW) — Chrysler-Plymouth dealers sold 16,757 passenger cars in the first 10 selling days of May — an increase of 9 per cent over the 15,331 cars sold in the May 1-10 period of 1970.

Plastic Replacing More Metal Parts

NEW YORK (UPI)—Plastics are clambering to share the driver's seat with metals in the fabrication of American automobiles, and by 1975 probably will make up half the parts of the average American car, predicts an auto color expert.

The plastic finish will be just as fine as the metal one, although it will require more color, says Chemetron Corporation's Rene Willis. Color pigments used today by automobile paint manufacturers can be adapted for finishes on plastic autos.

TRY DATA BANK

Millions Are Available Yearly For Scholarships To College

NEW YORK (UPI)—Many studnts in the process of graduating from high school and their families are scrounging around today for money to pay college expenses looming ahead.

For some June graduates the computer may have an answer, or partial answer, to that financial problem.

Have you lived on an Indian reservation for at least six weeks? Or, is your last name Murphy, Anderson or Leavenworth?

If so you may be eligible for part or full financil aid, details of which can be found in the computer data bank maintained by Scholarship Search, a New York company. Banks around the country are signing up with this company as a public service gesture and also to ease the pressure for low interest college loans in a time of tight money.

Millions of dollars in scholarships, grants and loans are available each year through various private and government organizations. Yet many scholarships go unused because students and their counselors do not know they exist since some are awarded on the basis of where you live, ethnic origins, vocational preferences, social or religious affiliations and the like.

Two years ago three young New York men —Steve Schlessinger, Leonard Sauson and Charles Beaghan — decided to program a computer to ferret out scholarship information. Six months ago they went to David North & Associates, Inc., a management consultant firm in New York, to see how to set a broad base for the operation.

David North suggested banks.

Since May 1, 35 banks with more than 600 branches around th country have signed up with the service. Seventy other applications are pending and 400 are expected to be in the scholarship research business by midsummer. American Fletcher National Bank of Indianapolis had 2,000 applications in the first 10 days, according to North. The Western Pennslvania National Bank of Pittsburgh ran out of application forms just handling its own employees.

The applicant goes to a bank with such a service and fills out a five page questionnaire. He gets back a computerized printout suggesting scholarship or other college financial aid for which he may be eligible and details on how, when and where to apply for it. For a fee of $20 each applicant receives a minimum of 10 "leads" to financial aid. No charge is made if the computer fails to provide at least 10 scholarship or grant items.

Grants ranging from $100 to full tuition, board and room are in this data bank. Donors include unions, fraternal organizations, foundations, local, state and federal agencies, military auxiliary organizations, industrial groups, corporations and educational institutions.

Financial need is not a deterrent in qualifying.

For example, an American Indian living in New York state and desiring a career in agriculture can apply to Cornell University for a tuition grant. Any student with the surname "Leavenworth" can apply to Yale for a $900 annual tuition grant thanks to a fund established by a Yale graduate interested in perpetuating this family name.

"The response has been extraordinary," said North. "We've had letters from descendants of Pocahontas and General Custer, members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, an Eskimo from Point Barrow, Alaska, and a student in Uganda, Africa."

Wall Street Prices In Decline

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prices declined through the first two hours on Wall Street today, but, turnover was light.

One analyst noted little interest either in buying or selling stocks, and said the list was "backing and filling trying to decide which way to go." Harry Laubscher of Walston & Co. looked for an increase in the prime bank interest rates within the next couple of weeks, which he said would have an adverse impact on the stock market.

Prices also backpedaled in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange. Lowers topped winners by around 150 issues.

Among the most active Amex issues were Harvey Hubbel "B" down slightly on over 50,000 shares, Ling-Temco warrants also fractionally lower on a volume of 24,000, and McCrory warrants "new" about steady on a turnover of 20,000.

On the Big Board, stocks on the most active list including Ling-temco down 1 1-2, Brainiff Airways off 3-4, Commercial Solvents 1 1-8 lower, American Brands off 3-4, American Telephone unchanged, and Natomas up 1 7-8

Steels were steady to weak, while chemicals and airlines were fractionally mixed.

Innovation Told In Offshore Oil Search

NEW YORK (UPI)—Marine surveying to find offshore oil deposits has taken a new twist. Seismic Computing Corp. in Houston, Tex., has placed in service a "Piggy-Back" combination that mates a 165-feet-long mother ship with a 52-foot-barge that can conduct seismic surveying in close-to-shore waters only two feet deep.

On arriving near shallow water the self-propelled barge is launched by winches to begin surveying while the larger ship works in deeper water. A computer aboard the mother vessel checks "Baby's" location.

Largest Cities Report Boom In Building Permits

NEW YORK (UPI) Building permits issued in the country's largest cities soared in March to a record level of $1,344 billion, up 41 per cent from February, Dun & Bradstreet report. The figure was up 13.1 per cent from a year earlier.

New York had the biggest volume increase, but Pittsburgh, Dayton, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Columbus, Miami and Washington had much larger gains from a year ago included Chicago, Houston, Detroit, Indianapolis, Richmond, Portland, Ore., Little Rock and Charlotte.

Bell Electric Reports Losses

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Bel Electronic Corp. has reported a net loss from continuing operations of $179,000, equal to four cents per share for the nine months ended March 31.

The company also reported a loss from non-continuing operations of $435,000, or 11 cents per share and an extraordinary charge of $800,000 or 20 cents per share.

Theodore Williams, president, said the loss from continuing operations primarily reflected a $500,000 after tax write-down of receivables and inventories.

Ray Sadecki Has Learned To Be A Patient Pitcher

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

If there's one thing Ray Sadecki has learned during his 14 years in professional baseball, it would have to be patience.

It takes a good deal of patience for a man, particularly one who once was the ace of a world championship team, to sit on a bench and wait for a call. It takes something else to make good use of the infrequent opportunities.

Sadecki, who won 20 games for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals in 1964 received a chance for his second start of the season Sunday and he allowed hard-hitting Atlanta only five hits as the New York Mets downed the Braves, 4-0. Sadecki walked only one batter and struck out six as a crowd of 50,999 watched the contest at Shea Stadium.

"I've only pitched 15 2-3 innings," Sadecki said after his fine triumph. "But I understand the situation on this club and I can't get too upset about not playing more. We have several good strong starters and only a few off days in the schedule, so it's tough to get anyone else in the rotation.

"It makes me feel real good to do the job. With a staff as strong and as deep as ours, you tell me who they're going to sit down. After you've pitched around and have a chance to analyze things, it's easier to accept being a relief pitcher. This would be a terrible job with a second-division club, but with a winner it's not too bad."

Thanks to Sadecki's second victory in as many decisions, the Mets maintained their slim edge on first place in the National League's East Division, five percentage points in front of the Cardinals, who whipped the San Diego Padres, 6-1.

The San Francisco Giants, meantime, stretched their West Division lead to nine full games as they beat the Houston Astros, 7-4. In other games, the Cincinnati Reds nipped the Philadelphia Phils, 4-3, the Los Angeles Dodgers tripped the Chicago Cubs, 4-3, and the Montreal Expos beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2.

In the American League, Baltimore and Boston split a doubleheader, the Orioles taking the opener, 12-3, and the Red Sox the nightcap, 2-1; Detroit took a doubleheader from Washington, 5-0 and 11-0, Milwaukee defeated Kansas City, 4-0, Oakland beat Minnesota, 3-1, California routed Chicago, 10-5, and the New York Yankees beat Cleveland, 6-3, in the first game of a doubleheader with the Indians taking the second game, 2-1.

The Mets jumped off to an early 3-0 lead over Atlanta and Tommie Agee added the icing with a fifth-inning homer as New York completed a sweep of the three-game series. Mike McQueen (2-1) was the loser.

Reggie Cleveland celebrated his 23rd birthday with his first two hits of the season, including a run-scoring double, as he pitched the Cardinals to victory over San Diego. Cleveland, now 4-2, struck out nine and allowed seven hits.

Cincinnati used a two-run homer by Tony Perez and a costly error by leftfielder Joe Lis to score four runs in the first inning en route to victory. Don Gullett allowed homers to Willie Montanez and Deron Johnson of Philadelphia in the first inning, but went on to claim his fifth victory in seven decisions with eighth-inning relief from Clay Carroll.

Jim Lefebvre hit a two-run homer with none out in the ninth inning to lift the Dodgers over Chicago and end Ferguson Jenkins' seven-game winning streak. Jim Hickman drove in two runs for the Cubs with a homer and a single.

Ernie McAnally won his first major league game for Montreal after four losses, although he had to be relieved in the ninth inning by Mike Marshall when Pittsburgh scored both its runs. Bob Bailey hit a three-run homer for the Expos in the eighth.

THIS DAY IN SPORTS

Many Tennis Stars Pass French Open

PARIS (UPI)—The $95,000 French International Open Tennis Championship —one of the grand slam events of world tennis—began today without many of the potential grand slammers around.

World-ranked pros like Rod Laver, John Newcombe, Tony Roche, Fred Stolle and others, decided to give the Roland Garros hard courts a miss this year —once again.

They considered the French do not offer enough money and, in any event, prefer not to wear themselves out before Wimbledon. Roy Emerson, Ken Rosewall and Cliff Drysdale of South Africa were also elsewhere as the curtain went up.

However, on hand to challenge defending champion Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia for the title and the $8,700 first prize money were a number of favored Americans, including Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., who missed the event last year because of an injury. Smith won the recent Paris International open tournament on the same court.

Arthur Ashe, of Gum Springs, Va., and Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., beaten in the semifinals last year, were among the top contenders.

UCLA Over USC For Net Title

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)—If the Pacific-8 Conference tennis championships were any indication, UCLA should repeat as NCAA champs again this spring.

The powerful Bruins had little trouble Saturday in downing cross-town rival Southern California 7-3. The Bruins dropped only one singles match and one in the doubles competition to the Trojans.

All the UCLA wins came in straight sets as they took the Pac-8 crown.

By DON CARTER

Can a bowler do well without any backswing? Of course not. It is impossible to deliver a bowling ball without letting it swing alongside your body. The idea, however, is to get tenpinners to reduce the size of their swing and thereby eliminate many of the problems caused by a looping motion behind the body.

49er Film Highlights Boosters Meeting

The Marin Catholic High School boosters' club will meet tomorrow night at St. Sebastian Hall, next to the campus in Kentfield, athletic director Gary Hughes announced today.

The meeting will be free of charge and will include showing of the San Francisco 49ers' highlight film, "Welcome No More." Len Rohde of the 49ers will provide a commentary.

GETTING THEIR KICKS

Booting Footballs On A Spring Day

Saturday was just perfect for all sorts of springtime activities — like fishing, picnicking, boating and kicking footballs.

Kicking footballs? More than 3,000 kicks, in fact, toward 11 different goal posts. The place was Novato High School and the occasion was Gordon Tovani's third annual place-kicking clinic.

Field goal units from 22 high schools representing towns throughout California took part in the affair, which included agility drills, a movie, and special long-kicking events. The units, which consisted of centers, holders, kickers and coaches, wore game shirts and pants and competed for trophies and awards.

Although he didn't get a full turnout of the 29 teams that had signed up for the clinic, Tovani, one-time Oakland Raider kicker who now lives in San Rafael, was pleased.

"All of the coaches I talked to said they wanted to come back next year," he said. "Some of them said they'd be interested in putting on this kind of event in their own areas."

Several experts on place-kicking besides Tovani were present at the clinic, including former Raider stars Mike Mercer, and Wayne Hawkins, and 1970 Stanford kicker Steve Horowitz. He signed a contract last week to try out for the Miami Dolphins of the National Football League.

In the drill competition, where timing and accuracy were measured, Drake High of San Anselmo repeated as overall winner, followed closely by an outfit from Tracy. And Drake kicker John Loane also tied for second in the longest field goal event with a 53-yarder.

The longest shot, a 55-yarder, was booted by Odvaard Lyssand of Redwood City. He is the younger brother of Knute Lyssand, who won the first competition in 1969.

The other special award, for longest kickoff, went to Dan Francis of Danville, who rooted one 66 yards. Ron Vandermeer of Tracy, whose unit took second in the drills, had a 65-yard kickoff, and Urbano Boucisquez of San Marin High in Novato had a 64-yarder.

Boucisquez, who won the longest field goal event last year, set a California Interscholastic Federation record in the 1970 season with three field goals in one game. And two of them were better than 40 yards.

OLD GLORY RESCUED FROM LONELY DARK

Magee Again Stops Action In Courtroom

By MARY LEYDECKER

San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee stopped court hearings again today in his and Angela Davis's case by challenging the latest judge assigned to hear pretrial motions.

At the end of the morning session at the Marin Hall of Justice, which lasted about an hour, Magee also denounced Miss Davis's attorney, Howard Moore Jr., saying he was "just putting on a show."

Judge Richard E. Arnason of Contra Costa County was challenged by Magee about 10 minutes after he had taken the bench. The judge, as he pointed out, had said little more than "good morning" before the challenge.

Magee challenged Arnason for cause as being prejudiced when the judge, as have all past judges, refused to halt proceedings pending Magee's demand that the case be transferred to federal court.

In a now familiar speech, Magee accused Judge Arnason of "driving over my rights," and said he was not "upholding the law you have sworn to uphold."

Miss Davis, who along with Magee is charged with murder, kidnapping, and conspiracy in connection with the August shoot-out at the Civic Center, sat quietly looking off into space while Magee attacked the judge and her attorney.

Judge Arnason, after a recess during which he conferred with the lawyers and Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, presiding judge of Marin Superior Court, said the challenge necessitated a ruling by an outside judge on whether he is prejudiced.

No date was set for the next court appearances.

After the judge had made this statement, Moore asked that charges against Miss Davis be dismissed, saying that she is "locked into a precedure that never gets started."

He called it a "horrendous punishment" that she has been jailed since December and said that the prosecuting attorney (Albert W. Harris Jr.) has no evidence against her. Moore also cited a letter written by Magee in which the convict said Miss Davis was innocent.

Magee responded by saying that if "Mr. Moore was so interested in his client" he would file a writ of habeas corpus on her behalf to get her freed. He told Moore that he has overlooked "this remedy that is over 500 years old" and that he was "toying with the law."

He also said that Moore had not cooperated with him in "finding evidence."

"All I ever get from Mr. Moore is 'we want bail,'" Magee said.

Moore, after court, refused to discuss the possibility of asking that Miss Davis's case be severed from Magee's.

"We want a dismissal," he said firmly.

He also said Magee's demand that the case be transferred to federal court was premature and that no record had yet been made on which it could be shown that the defendants were being denied civil rights.

Still waiting to be heard are nine motions on behalf of Miss Davis, including ones that the case against her be dismissed and that she be released on bail.

Raiders Blow Up Huge Fuel Supply

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist commandos blew up 1.5 million gallons of aviation fuel in a raid on the U.S. base at Cam Ranh Bay Sunday night, then shelled the base with mortars while firemen battled the flames, military spokesmen said today. There were no injuries in the fire or the shelling, but military spokesmen said the fuel loss was believed to be the worst of the Vietnam War.

The fuel blaze at the base 185 miles northeast of Saigon was not brought under control until this morning. Nearly 30 rounds of 82mm mortar shells were fired into the base while the fire was being fought.

In the Central Highlands, a Communist mortar shell destroyed a U.S. Army UH1 Huey helicopter on the ground at Fire Support Base No. 5, killing at least one American and three South Vietnamese field spokesmen said. Another American was wounded. The base was hit by tear gas, as well as high explosive shells, the spokesmen said.

Further north on the southeast end of the A Shau Valley, South Vietnamese infantrymen reported killing 54 Communists in a drive along a narrow ridge. Government casualties were termed light.

Cam Ranh Bay was once considered the safest area in South Vietnam —President Lyndon B. Johnson twice visited there during his presidency —but has been subjected to periodic shelling attacks the past two years. It had not been hit since April 25.

Military spokesmen said the commandos slipped onto the huge base Sunday night and blew up five fuel storage tanks.

The value of the fuel lost was placed at $225,000 by the U.S. command in Saigon and at $285,000 by field sources who said 1.68 million gallons of jet fuel and 210,000 gallons of aviation gasoline were destroyed.

The U.S. command reported four helicopters were shot down in South Vietnam Saturday and Sunday, including an OH6 Cayuse 20 miles east of Saigon. This was the closest to the capital that a helicopter has been shot down in four months.

One crewman was killed and one wounded in the Cayuse shot down near Saigon Sunday. Another Cayuse was downed 145 miles southwest of Saigon Sunday killing two crewmen, spokesmen said.

U.S. Air Force B52s blasted a Communist trail network within a mile of the demilitarized zone and a mile from the Laos border with at least 90 tons of 500 and 750 pound bombs, spokesmen said. Other B52s hit the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos and targets in Cambodia, they said.

The U.S. command announced the American troop strength in South Vietnam declined to 259,300 last week, down 3,200 from the previous week. This was the lowest total since May 1, 1966, when there were 252,000 U.S. soldiers in Vietnam.

Communist gunners kept up their shelling of fire bases near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) Sunday night with a rocket attack on a U.S. artillery position three miles north of Dong Ha, the U.S. command reported.

There were no casualties or damage from the attack, spokesmen said. U.S. and South Vietnamese fire bases along the DMZ have been the target of repeated shelling attacks in the past three days. Thirty GIs were killed in attacks Friday night, most of them in a direct rocket hit on a bunker at Firebase Charlie 2.

At least one American was wounded Sunday night when the Communists fired nearly 20 rounds of 82 mm mortar fire into a U.S. 173rd Airbone Brigade position.

Soviet Chief Podgorny To Cairo Talks

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny arrives in Cairo Tuesday for a visit that diplomatic sources in London said reflected deep anxiety over a possible Egyptian shift away from Russia towards the United States.

The semi-official Middle East News Agency said Podgorny will arrive at 5 p.m. Tuesday (10 a.m. EDT) accompanied by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, and will be met at Cairo airport by President Anwar Sadat and other Egyptian leaders. It is Podgorny's second official visit in five months and is to last "several days."

Political sources in Cairo called the visit the most crucial meeting between the two countries since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. Diplomats in London said it reflected Kremlin determination to save its "special relationship" with Egypt through direct barter tactics.

UPI Correspondent Maurice Guindi, quoting political sources in Cairo, said that if Moscow attempted to dictate policy to Egypt on domestic matters it would risk burning its fingers in Egypt and damaging its image as champion of the struggle against collialism and imperialism.

Guindi said both Egypt and the Soviet Union have always viewed their relationship as one of close cooperation on a government - to - government basis and of comradeship in the cause of freedom and independence for all nations.

He said the two have acknowledged all along that these ties were completely different from Moscow's ties with the East European bloc where the Russians have felt free to intervene in the affairs of its Communist allies.

UPI diplomatic correspondent K. C. Thaler, quoting diplomatic sources in London, said the Kremlin cannot allow any significant shift in Egypt's alignment because the Russian investment in Egypt runs into the billions of dollars. But above all Russia's position in the Middle East depends on a clear Cairo commitment to "continue as was."

The Soviet Union already has received repeated pledges from the Sadat regime that the Cairo purges are chiefly domestic and reflect no change in Egypt's foreign relations. But Moscow is neither convinced nor satisfied, the sources said.

National Guard Mobilized In Chattanooga Rioting

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI)—National Guard troops, supplied with live ammunition, moved into Chattanooga today to aid local police, exhausted by three nights of lawlessness by black "marauders."

The sniping, firebombing and looting started Friday night when a musical group failed to put in an appearance at the city's auditorium and youths went on a rampage.

A negro armed with a .22 caliber pistol was wounded during Sunday night's outburst, which caused Gov. Winfield Dunn to order between 1,500 and 2,000 troops into the city of 113,000.

The troops were split up into 20-men "roller teams" which cruised through trouble spots in the city.

Astt. Adjutant Gen. Van Nunally said an officer in each team had been given live ammunition to dispense if necessary. He said the ammunition would be issued only if "troops are in danger or someone else's life" is threatened.

The troop call was the first time the National Guard has been alerted for a racial disorder in Tennessee since 1968, when civil rights leader Fr. Martin Luther King Jr. was shot to death by a sniper in Memphis.

Except for some isolated instances of window breaking, police said Chattanooga was quiet today.

Dunn dispatched the troops about midnight at the request of newly installed Mayor Robert K. Walkern who said his outmanned police department was unable to cope with increasing lawlessness.

The soldiers, largely from the Chattanooga area, were mobilized during the early morning and moved into the streets around 7 a.m. EDT.

Dunn also sent 80 more state troopers into the troubled city, beefing up the state police force to about 140 men.

Walker, who has been in office only a month, said it was "remarkable" there were no deaths in the extended violence that police said "spilled over" from a disturbance at a soul music show at Municipal Auditorium late Friday night.

Authorities said at least 15 fires were touched off by firebombs Sunday night and early this morning. Firemen fighting the blazes were harassed by snipers, police said.

Walker Sunday had asked Dunn, in Nashville, to "make available" the Guardsmen in case they were needed. He told Dunn about midnight the soldiers were needed because of increasing firebombing, sniping and looting around the city.

Police said a Negro was wounded by gunfire in a predominantly black section of the city Sunday night. The man, Scott Lacy, 32, was listed in fair condition in Ehrlanger Hospital with small caliber bullet wounds. Earlier in the weekend violence, Wayne Cole, a white man, had received minor gunshot wounds in the head while getting into his car.

Walker, in a news conference Sunday, appealed for "reason and order," and said the violence was not "racially motivated." He said the vandalism and hoodlumism was being carried out by bands of "marauders."

High Court Sets Compulsory Education Review Next Term

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court agreed today to rule next term whether state authorities may compel children to attend school up to age 16 in violation of their parents' religious convictions. The test case mainly involves the Amish sect.

Arguments will he heard next fall or winter on a ruling from Wisconsin. It marks the first time the court has agreed to consider a challenge of a state compulsory education law on religious grounds.

At issue is a decion by the Wisconsin Supreme Court which held unconstitutional a state law requiring Amish children under 16 to attend school after completing the eighth grade. The state court held the mandatory law interfered with religious freedom.

The Supreme Court also:

—Upbraided the Justice Department and the 6th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for misrepresenting facts in the case of James Herman Bostic, a convicted bank robber. The Court, which had accepted the case, said it did so on the basis of the "mistaken representation" of the department and appeals court that Bostic had been convicted of conspiracy to commit murder rather than robbery. It dismissed his appeal but only after taking the court and the Justice Department to task.

—Let stand lower court decisions authorizing "alien commuters" to cross U. S. borders from Mexico and Canada to work on farms in this country. The immigration policy had been challenged by the AFL-CIO on grounds incoming workers competed with Americans for the jobs.

-Held in a Georgia case that a state cannot automatically suspend the license of a driver if he fails to post bond to cover liability in an accident.

Local Action Need Cited In Marin's Open Space

Unless local governments take positive action to preserve open space and environment, regional agencies will take over that role in the next five years, a Marin County planner predicted today.

Albert Solnit, chief of advance planning, made the prediction during a preliminary presentation of the countywide plan for open space before the Marin County Planning commissioners.

The preliminary presentation of the open space plan will be followed up by other public hearings before it is incorporated into a countywide general plan that is being drawn up.

Solnit and planner Sol Silver said that the countywide general plan will divide Marin County into three general corridors:

1. The Eastern urbanized corridor along Highway 101 where the 11 cities are located. Here, bay and marsh edges and lowlands should be kept open, and greenbelts should be provided along the ridges and uplands above Mill Valley, Lucas Valley and Novato. Natural environment should be preserved along creeks and streams that are not already concreted.

2. Coastal recreation corridor from Golden Gate Headlands to Point Reyes Seashore. Much of this will be permanently open in the form of public parks. Resort facilities should be allowed in spots along Tomales Bay, but concentrated building should not be permitted along the San Andreas Fault.

3. The inland rural corridor, from the eastern corridor to Tomales Bay, including Nicasio, Hicks and San Geronimo valleys. There, the rural life style should be salvaged, with a positive effort to preserve agricultural and grazing use.

Solnit said the countywide general plan will be a refinement of the city-centered concept outline in the regional plan drawn up by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Under the city-centered concept, most of the residential growth would be concentrated in the eastern corridor.

15 More Eagles Discovered Dead

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI)—Fifteen eagles were discovered dead in Wyoming over the weekend, but officials said the birds appeared to have been killed by power lines rather than poisoned.

The latest discovery brought to 40 the number of dead bald and golden eagles, which are protected by federal law, that have been found in the state. Most of the deaths have been blamed on the outlawed poison thallium.

Officials said the 15 latest eagles were found dead near power lines in the Worland area and appeared to have been electrocuted over a long period of time.

Two Killed In San Jose Brawl

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Two men were killed Sunday night when a brawl broke out among 300 persons at a park following an afternoon of drinking.

About 80 law enforcement officers were called to quell the disturbance and "several" sniper shots were fired at them.

The coroner's office said A. K. "Willie" Garcia, 24, was shot to death and Ernie Mendoza, 17, was fatally stabbed. Both were from San Jose.

Undersheriff Thomas Rosa said Benjamin Mendoza, 22, the stabbing victim's brother, was wounded by officers when he refused to drop a gun he was holding.

Weekend Fights Hit Travis Base

TRAVIS AFB (UPI)—An Air Force spokesman said today a series of weekend brawls at this huge base near Fairfield "appeared to have had racial overtones."

The spokesman would not elaborate and pointed out the incidents were still under investigation.

Two black airmen were arrested and several persons suffered minor injuries.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We are retired and hold 100 shares of Dan River and five other issues. Should we hold this stock or sell and increase some other holding? — M.P.

A. Textile manufacturers have been hard hit in the last year by general economic sluggishness, foreign competition and consumer resistance in the "hemline" battle. Dan River has reported deficits in four of the last five quarters. For the most recent period — the March quarter — sales gained 7 per cent but a deficit of 11 cents a share was reported.

Knitted textiles have enjoyed strong demand and last year Dan River's sales in this area were up 70 per cent. Corduroy sales were also strong. Carpet, lighter weight fabrics, sheeting and yarns, which account for 73 per cent of sales, were very slow to move. However, turnover of these products is expected to pick up and should enable Dan River to show a profit for the year. I look for a good level of recovery in this group and would not advise disposing of these shares at this time.

Q. What is "Over-the-Counter" trading? — H.K.

A. This stock market handles transactions in securities not listed on any of the other exchanges, as well as executing orders on some listed issues. Approximately 25,000 registered issues are traded here annually.

Unlike the New York Stock Exchange, which operates on a double auction basis, the OTC market functions on a negotiation basis. Your broker may act as dealer in transacting your orders, in which case his profit is the spread between bid and ask. If he acts as broker or agent you will pay the customary commission.

Brokers may be market makers in a particular security, and thus are expected to be able to buy and sell round lots at firm prices. The "pink sheets," printed daily, contain price listings of transactions by these market makers.

False Advertising In Canada Studied

OTTAWA (UPI) —Out of the thousand-odd complaints of false and misleading advertising received by the Canadian Federal Consumer Affairs Department during the past year, three charges resulted in convictions.

A report by the combined investigation branch said complaints were received involving 650 separate advertisements. Of these, 18 were the subject of prosecutions and 14 were still before the courts when the report was prepared.

Chrysler Reports Sales Up In May

DETROIT (BW) — Chrysler-Plymouth dealers sold 16,757 passenger cars in the first 10 selling days of May — an increase of 9 per cent over the 15,331 cars sold in the May 1-10 period of 1970.

Plastic Replacing More Metal Parts

NEW YORK (UPI)—Plastics are clambering to share the driver's seat with metals in the fabrication of American automobiles, and by 1975 probably will make up half the parts of the average American car, predicts an auto color expert.

The plastic finish will be just as fine as the metal one, although it will require more color, says Chemetron Corporation's Rene Willis. Color pigments used today by automobile paint manufacturers can be adapted for finishes on plastic autos.

TRY DATA BANK

Millions Are Available Yearly For Scholarships To College

NEW YORK (UPI)—Many studnts in the process of graduating from high school and their families are scrounging around today for money to pay college expenses looming ahead.

For some June graduates the computer may have an answer, or partial answer, to that financial problem.

Have you lived on an Indian reservation for at least six weeks? Or, is your last name Murphy, Anderson or Leavenworth?

If so you may be eligible for part or full financil aid, details of which can be found in the computer data bank maintained by Scholarship Search, a New York company. Banks around the country are signing up with this company as a public service gesture and also to ease the pressure for low interest college loans in a time of tight money.

Millions of dollars in scholarships, grants and loans are available each year through various private and government organizations. Yet many scholarships go unused because students and their counselors do not know they exist since some are awarded on the basis of where you live, ethnic origins, vocational preferences, social or religious affiliations and the like.

Two years ago three young New York men —Steve Schlesinger, Leonard Sauson and Charles Beaghan — decided to program a computer to ferret out scholarship information. Six months ago they went to David North & Associates, Inc., a management consultant firm in New York, to see how to set a broad base for the operation.

David North suggested banks.

Since May 1, 35 banks with more than 600 branches around th country have signed up with the service. Seventy other applications are pending and 400 are expected to be in the scholarship research business by midsummer. American Fletcher National Bank of Indianapolis had 2,000 applications in the first 10 days, according to North. The Western Pennslvania National Bank of Pittsburgh ran out of application forms just handling its own employees.

The applicant goes to a bank with such a service and fills out a five page questionnaire. He gets back a computerized printout suggesting scholarship or other college financial aid for which he may be eligible and details on how, when and where to apply for it. For a fee of $20 each applicant receives a minimum of 10 "leads" to financial aid. No charge is made if the computer fails to provide at least 10 scholarship or grant items.

Grants ranging from $100 to full tuition, board and room are in this data bank. Donors include unions, fraternal organizations, foundations, local, state and federal agencies, military auxiliary organizations, industrial groups, corporations and educational institutions.

Financial need is not a deterrent in qualifying.

For example, an American Indian living in New York state and desiring a career in agriculture can apply to Cornell University for a tuition grant. Any student with the surname "Leavenworth" can apply to Yale for a $900 annual tuition grant thanks to a fund established by a Yale graduate interested in perpetuating this family name.

"The response has been extraordinary," said North. "We've had letters from descendants of Pocahontas and General Custer, members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, an Eskimo from Point Barrow, Alaska, and a student in Uganda, Africa."

Wall Street Prices In Decline

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prices declined through the first two hours on Wall Street today, but, turnover was light.

One analyst noted little interest either in buying or selling stocks, and said the list was "backing and filling trying to decide which way to go." Harry Laubscher of Walston & Co. looked for an increase in the prime bank interest rates within the next couple of weeks, which he said would have an adverse impact on the stock market.

Prices also backpedaled in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange. Lowers topped winners by around 150 issues.

Among the most active Amex issues were Harvey Hubbel "B" down slightly on over 50,000 shares, Ling-Temco warrants also fractionally lower on a volume of 24,000, and McCrory warrants "new" about steady on a turnover of 20,000.

On the Big Board, stocks on the most active list including Ling-temco down 1 1-2, Brainiff Airways off 3-4, Commercial Solvents 1 1-8 lower, American Brands off 3-4, American Telephone unchanged, and Natomas up 1 7-8

Steels were steady to weak, while chemicals and airlines were fractionally mixed.

Innovation Told In Offshore Oil Search

NEW YORK (UPI)—Marine surveying to find offshore oil deposits has taken a new twist. Seismic Computing Corp. in Houston, Tex., has placed in service a "Piggy-Back" combination that mates a 165-feet-long mother ship with a 52-foot-barge that can conduct seismic surveying in close-to-shore waters only two feet deep.

On arriving near shallow water the self-propelled barge is launched by winches to begin surveying while the larger ship works in deeper water. A computer aboard the mother vessel checks "Baby's" location.

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Bel Electronic Corp. has reported a net loss from continuing operations of $179,000, equal to four cents per share for the nine months ended March 31.

The company also reported a loss from non-continuing operations of $435,000, or 11 cents per share and an extraordinary charge of $800,000 or 20 cents per share.

Honorary Consul Kidnapped

ROSARIO, Argentina (UPI) — Argentina's security forces appealed for information from citizens today in the search for honorary British Consul Stanley Sylvester, kidnapped yesterday by the left-wing "people's revolutionary army."

Sylvester

Syvester, 58, was the third political hostage taken by Argentine urban guerrila terrorists in 14 months. Three men abducted him at gunpoint as he left his home six miles from the center of Rosario.

A brief communique left in a downtown bar by the left-wing organization four hours after the abduction said the Argentine-born Sylvester — who also holds British citizenship — would "be placed at the disposal of popular justice."

No conditions were set for his release. His identification card was left with the communique "as proof of the operation." In Montevideo, 100 miles east of Buenos Aires across the River Plate, Uruguayan Tupamaro terrorists were holding British Ambassador Geoffrey Jackson and three Uruguayan businessmen.

Going Home

Turning to grin and give the two -fingered peace sign, Wesley, 22, boarded a plane at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport today to take him back to his Yarmouth, Maine, home where he works as a ski instructor.

He was wearing civilian clothes, the Army fatigues he's been wearing for the past four weeks crumpled in a duffel bag to take back with him.

Spec. 4 Glenn Storer, 21, who got his brother to take his place as a GI when he was home on leave after six months as an Americal Division rifleman, was still out in the field in the Northern province of Quang Nam, a spokesman said.

Become Radicals

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Many young Americans who volunteered to work for VISTA, the domestic peace corps, say they were radicalized by their year of working with the poor, a major study reported Sunday.

More than a quarter of 3,000 former VISTA volunteers questioned by a Penn State University sociologist call themselves radicals today, and 60 per cent say they were moved politically to the left by the experience.

All but a handful of the self-described radicals among the former VISTA workers are committed to peaceful change in the system, said the sociologist, David Gottlieb, 40.

Gottlieb, a former associate director of the Office of Economic Opportunity which administers VISTA (Volunteers In Service To America), conducted the study under a grant from the OEO.

Muskie Leads

BOSTON (UPI)—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie leads President Nixon in a poll of potential New Hampshire primary voters reported in a copyrighted story by the Boston Globe.

The poll, conducted for the Globe by Becker Research Corp., showed the Democratic senator from Maine with 49 per cent of the vote and Nixon with 41 per cent.

Results of the poll, published Sunday, showed Muskie to be the top vote-getter among potential Democratic candidates.

Sampled were 1,986 New Hampshire residents who said they would vote next March in that state's primary, either in the Republican or Democratic contests. It included 574 Democrats, 838 Republicans, 288 independents and 254 persons not yet registered who said they would sign up in time to vote.

Nixon beat every other potential Democratic candidate, including Mayor John V. Lindsay, the Republican mayor of New York whom some politicians are encouraging to switch parties.

Lava Flows

TANIA, Sicily (UPI) — Residents of Fornazzo fled down the slopes of Mount Etna today in the red glare of the erupting volcano as a newriver of lava threatened to engulf their village.

The mayor of Catania, a seaport city of 363,000 persons ordered roads up the mountainside cleared of all traffic except that of persons evacuating their homes.

Rocket Ready

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The rocket problems have been fixed and engineers are aiming toward Saturday for the launch of the second and last Mariner television satellite toward Mars.

"We're in good shape," a Space Agency spokesman reported Saturday night after the launch team successfully completed a day-long flight acceptance test on the Atlas-Centaur rocket and its 2,200 pound Mariner spacecraft.

Engineers set Saturday night as the earliest possible launch date for the Mariner, but a definite schedule will not be fixed until mid week, when top Space Agency officials review the overall status of the $77 million mission.

Cycle Crash

James Kazen, 23, of 1013 Magnolia Avenue, Petaluma, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital yesterday for an injury to his left knee suffered when his motorcycle went into a ditch on Wilson Street at 1 p.m.

James Carroll, 47, died when a twister hit his mobile home on the east side of Whitney, Tex. An estimated 30 to 35 other persons were injured and some 50 buildings leveled as the storm roared through the community of 1,500 persons near Waco.

The twister moved from the northwest to the southeast across the city, hitting the downtown area first, then moving across to the trailer house communities on the East Side before finally moving toward Lake Whitney, where scattered damage was done.

The tornado was the second reported from north Texas thunderstorms Sunday afternoon and evening. The first touched down harmlessly in an empty farm field near Iredell, Tex.

One of about 10 Iowa tornadoes caused considerable damage to the Darrell Danewood farm near New Market, Iowa. Mrs. Danewood said the family went to the basement and hid under a stairway when her husband saw the twister approaching. The Iowa twisters also were by products of a spring storm system that brought hail, rain and high winds to the state.

Tornadoes skipped across portions of eastern Nebraska Sunday causing minor damage but no injuries. A storm system deluged the northwest portion of the state. Tornadoes touched near Fremont, Wahoo and Colon, Neb. They caused no major damage and no injuries.

A funnel cloud also was sighted near El Dorado, Kan.

Man Claims To Be 140, A Father

TEHRAN (UPI) — Farmer Baksha Ali Sabzei claims to be 140. He also says he is the father of a month-old daughter. The Tehran newspaper Ettelaat said Bashshali's 30-year-old wife, Mah Soltan Sultan of the Moon, gave birth a month ago in the farming village of Khaveh, south of Tehran. Mah Soltan is the farmer's third wife, it said.

"My first wife died 60 years ago and I was so used to a married life that I just could not live without a wife, so I got married again," the newspaper quoted Bakhshali as saying.

He was 38 when he first married in 1869. His wife bore him three children, the eldest of whom is now 87, he said. He had four children by his second wife, but Soghra was his first child by Mah Soltan, whom he married when she was 18.

He said he hopes they have another soon "as one child alone creates anxiety for a mother."

78 Die On Airliner; Fire Hampers Rescue

BELGRADE (UPI)—Firemen were unable to pierce sheets of flame hundreds of feet high to rescue the British tourists trapped aboard an airliner that crashed at Rijeka airport, witnesses said today. Seventyeight passengers died.

A special commission investigated the cause of the crash on the rocky Adriatic island of Krk today while efforts were made to identify the charred bodies.

The national news agency Tanjug said five persons, four of them crew members, scrambled safely from the burning wreckage of the Soviet-made T134 Sunday night. The plane belonged to Yugoslav Aviogenex Co.

Yugoslav airline officials said 78 were killed, 72 of them British tourists.

Witnesses at the airport told Tanjug the plane struck the runway Sunday, rolled about 300 yards and burst into flames. Then there were a series of explosions that sent flames soaring hundreds of feet into the air and tore the plane apart, they said. Wreckage and baggage were scattered over an area 100 yards wide.

Bank Of America Branch At Airport Is Bombed

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—The 31st bombing of a Bank of America branch in California occurred Sunday when a blast blew out the front of the Oakland airport Branch.

No one was injured in the blast, there was no fire, no witnesses to the bombing and police said they had no suspects.

Officers said a white van truck was stopped near the scene shortly after the 6:06 pmm. blast, but the occupants were released after being cleared by police.

A police spokesman said the blast demolished the plate glass exterior of the two-year-old brick building and damaged the interior. Firemen estimated damage at between $15,000 and $20,000.

The spokesman said the case was turned over to the FBI.

Pepsi Fined $1,400 For Polluting Canal

MIAMI (UPI)—The Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. has been fined $1,400 for polluting a canal that runs behind the soft drink firm's largest bottling plant.

A Dade County jury found the company guilty on seven counts of pollution Saturday and Judge Mattie Belle Davis fined the firm $200 on each charge. The maximum fine on each count is $500.

Ex-Sen. Dodd Dies At 64; Censured By Colleagues

OLD LYME, Conn. (UPI)—Former Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., censured by his colleagues in 1967 for alleged financial misconduct, died today of an apparent heart attack. He was 64.

Dodd suffered a mild heart attack in 1970 at a testimonial dinner and the seizure interrupted his campaigning as an Independent for a third term. He lost to Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn.

Dodd's censure for allegedly converting $116,000 in testimonial dinner funds to his personal use —a censure that condemned him for conduct "contrary to accepted morals" —did not daunt him.

He referred to himself later "as the only proven honest man in Washington." This was a reference to a letter from Attorney General John N. Mitchell which Dodd said "exonerated him of any wrongdoing."

Dodd leaned on the letter heavily in his unsuccessful campaign to retain his seat in the Senate against two challengers, The Rev. Joseph D. Duffey, former National Chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, and Weicker, heir to the Squibb durg fortune.

THOMAS J. DODD
Heart attack victim

He campaigned on his record and the slogan "when Tom Dodd wins, America wins."

Dodd, a former FBI agent, who was chief American prosecutor at the Nuremburg trials, said two weeks ago he would ask for the release of ailing former Nazi leader Rudolph Hess.

Dodd, who helped convict the 76-year-old aide to Adolph Hitler at the 1946 war crimes trials, said he felt Hess should be placed in a mental institution or a hospital rather than Berlin's Spandau Prison.

Known as the "Crusader from Connecticut" for his staunch advocacy of gun controls, his stance against television violence and his call for prison reform, Dodd's career spanned 40 years after his graduation from Providence, (R.I.) College and Yale Law School.

1,000 Dead In Turkey Earthquake

BINGOL, Turkey (UPI)—The government said today the death toll has reached 1,000 in eastern Turkey's earthquake and reports from isolated villages could drive it higher. Survivors in Bingol called the quake "The wrath of Allah."

The quake that hit Saturday night was the second in 10 days to strike the country. An earthquake May 12 killed 57 persons in southwestern Turkey.

The government officially put the death toll at 1,000 but said reports still had not been received from many outlying villages in this mountainous region 375 miles east of Ankara.

The survivors of Bingol, the provincial capital of about 18,000 persons, called the latest calamity "The wrath of Allah."

Women and children were among the survivors joining army troops brought in by helicopters in the work of recovering bodies. Mule teams making their way up paths on the mountainside brought additional help and relief supplies.

Officials said 80 per cent of Bingol's buildings were damaged and unuseable, including the post office, the hospital and the prison. Officials later were able to install emergency power in some areas.

A steady rain throughout most of Sunday hampered rescue work. Helicopters made trip after trip from the capital to outlying districts dropping food supplies, mostly bread.

Premier Nihat Erim visited the area with several members of his cabinet Sunday. He ordered that everything possible be done to bring relief to the earthquake victims.

Cosmos In Orbit

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today launched Cosmos 422, an unmanned earth satellite, into a wide elliptical orbit that carried it as far as 633 miles from the earth, the news agency Tass said.

Turkey Arrests 3 In Envoy's Slaying

ISTANBUL (UPI)—Turkish authorities said today they have arrested two girls and a man in connection with the assassination of kidnaped Israeli consul-general Ephraim Elrom.

The authorities identified the man as Omer Erinc and the two girls as Kadriye Nizozgen and Julide Zaim, but gave no other details. Elrom, 59, was found Sunday by police and troops during a massive sweep of the city during a 15-hour curfew. His hands were tied behind his back and he had been shot three times in the head.

The body of the Israeli diplomat, who had joined his nation's foreign service only two years ago in an effort to recover from the death of his son, was flown back to Tel Aviv where it lay in state and was then being buried today.

Elrom was kidnaped a week ago by five gunmen. In later communications a group identifying itself as the left-wing "Turkish Peoples' Liberation Army" said it was responsible for the kidnap and would execute the Israeli diplomat unless their comrades being held in prison were released.

The Turkish government refused to bargain with the group and instead carried out numerous sweeps of the city and arrested a number of persons in connection with the kidnaping. A Thursday deadline for release of the men held in Turkish prisons came and went with no word from the kidnapers.

Saturday evening authorities put a 15-hour curfew on the city to enable them to make a careful search for Elrom. They found his body Sunday morning in an apartment only 500 yards from the Israeli consulate and 750 yards from his home, where he was kidnaped as he left for work.

The landlord of the apartment, the porter for the building and a number of tenants of neighboring apartments were being held and questioned by police.

Japanese Bid Told For SST Revival

WASHINGTON (UPI) —William M. Magruder, director of SST development for the Transportation Department, says a Japanese firm has offered $500 million to resurrect the 1,800-mile per hour plane.

Magruder also says a New England firm "with Middle East oil interests" has discussed with him the possibility of putting $750 million into the SST program.

Survives Red Capture, Tells Her Own Story

Reds Told Her: Tell The Truth

By KATE WEBB
U.P. International

Editor's Note: Following is the first in a series of personal impressions written by UPI's 28-year-old Phnom Penh bureau chief about her capture and release 23 days later by North Vietnamese troops in Cambodia.

Had it not been for Toshiichi Suzuki of Nihon Denpa News, one of my co-captives, this story would be like a silent movie. "Suza-Kee," as the Vietnamese pronounced his name, had spent two and one-half years in Hanoi as a correspondent and speaks Vietnamese well. For his courage, diplomacy and untiring translation efforts, I am forever in debt. There will remain a bond between us, more real than the ropes that at times bound us together.

We stood in the dusk, an odd little group of six, turning to wave goodbye to the soldiers who had come to watch us leave on our walk back to freedom. "Tell the truth about us," they said.

"If we make it back," I thought, "If we make it back."

We were lucky. We made it. Twenty-three days after those first shots rang out on Highway 4.

KATE WEBB
Back from dead

April 7 was a quiet, hot day. The only photographs I had gotten were of Cambodian paratroopers swarming over a water truck. The road was so hot the drops of water sizzled as they splashed on the asphalt.

"To heck with this," I thought as Chhim Sarath, the UPI driver, and I plodded down Highway 4. "The story's in Pakistan today anyway."

I knotted my handkerchief around my neck as a sweat-catcher. Sweat was running into my eyes, down my arms and onto my camera. It was about 1 p.m. at Kilometer 93.5.

Then without warning the world exploded into the crack and whistle of small arms fire, the crash of mortars, hammer of automatic weapons — and the sudden screams of wounded.

We were in a ditch, scrambling. A paratrooper in front of me trailed his leg, the green and brown of his camouflage uniform drenched red. He moved forward down the ditch and stained the grass. Crack! Blood blossomed from the paratrooper's shoulder.

"The other way! The other way! Back to the C.P. (command post)," I gasped at Sarath. My foot was cut. I stumbled, slipped on the blood and my sandal came off. Sarath threw it forward to me.

"Miss Kate! Miss Kate! No, No." The face of a Cambodian freelance photographer appeared in front of me. "VC, VC, Chirran-Na" (many).

"Radio, no radio here, we must move to radio," Sarath said.

Then we realized what had happened. They were hitting the rear C.P. and the forward C.P. We were in the middle and the road was a shooting gallery. The twice-wounded paratrooper stood up and moved like a ghastly sleepwalker, dazed. Crack! His other leg. He fell beside us, his face still blank. Thea Kim Heang, the freelance photographer, put a cigarette in the soldier's hand. He smoked, slowly, automatically.

Another young paratrooper came running, doubled up, from the direction of the rear C.P., the zing of bullets in the air around him. I saw Toschiichi Suzuki, the correspondent from Nihon Denpa news, the Japanese Newsfilm agency, and his interpreter huddled between some bushes behind us.

I lit a cigarette. "This is it," I thought.

The young paratrooper doubled and ran again. We heard a volley of shots. Another paratrooper followed him, more shots. We looked at one another, our eyes hollow with realization, and started scrambling back into the jungle, into Viet Cong lines, 56 miles from the safety of Phnom Penh.

Daring Death Is Her Business

By U.P. International

It was typical of Catherine M. "Kate" Webb to turn up safe and sound two weeks after she was given up for dead.

Once a couple of years ago she was freed from her news duties in Saigon to take one of the periodic "rest and recuperation" leaves UPI reporters are given. Instead of taking the customary trip to Hong Kong or Bangkok, Miss Webb traveled to Quant Tri province in the northern part of South Vietnam where she spent 10 days with South Vietnamese troops to see how they performed in action.

Another time during the Tet offensive in Saigon in early 1968 she was caught in a Communist barrage on a schoolhouse where South Vietnamese colonels were holding a strategy meeting. Several officers were killed but Miss Webb survived, brushing off debris to write one of the more dramatic stories of the day.

Kate Webb — she dislikes being called Catherine — is soft-spoken, friendly and gentle but underneath she is a tough news competitor who believes that the way to write a story is to be there to see firsthand what happens.

A colleague, in writing what he thought was Miss Webb's obituary, in April, said, "She appeared as a waif, plodding the Saigon streets in a striped dress and sandals, her feet almost as dirty as the sidewalks. The waif manner never disappeared even when she donned green fatigues and awkward combat boots for trips to the field. Her helmet usually slipped off at inopportune moments and in a heavy flak jacket, she was almost hidden from view.

"She was not fearless but she was brave. She went through mortar and rocket attacks, landings in disabled helicopters and the common battlefield dangers of bullets and shrapnel and would emerge shaken but determined."

Miss Webb was born in Christchurch, New Zealand, in 1943 and educated in Australia where she won a degree in philosophy at Melbourne University. She worked for the Sydney Sunday Mirror and the Sydney Daily Mirror before joining UPI in Saigon in 1967.

She interrupted her Indochina career for a stint as a member of the UPI staff in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1969, and returned to Asia late in 1970. She became manager of the UPI bureau in Phnom Penh, capital of Cambodia, following the death of Frank Frosch, who was slain with UPI photographer Kyoichi Sawada in October, 1970.

On April 7 she disappeared while covering a drive by Cambodian troops on Highway 4 and two weeks later a body identified at the time as hers was found in the vicinity. On May 1, however, she telephoned the UPI bureau in Phnom Penh from an outlying town to announce that she was free after having been released by the Communists.

Santa Rosa Man Booked In Credit Card Theft

A 21-year-old Santa Rosa man has been booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of purchasing shoes and boots in Corte Madera with a stolen credit card.

Arrested Saturday by Corte Madera police was Richard Dennis Reed, said to have bought $81 worth of footwear at Kramar's Shoes at Corte Madera Shopping Center and forged a San Francisco man's name to pay for them.

The credit card is believed to have been stolen from a San Francisco post office. How Reed obtained possession of it is not known, officers said today.

Reed remained in jail in lieu of $1,250 bail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Newspapers Sued On Wire Services

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department has charged in a civil suit the New York Times and the Chicago Daily News and Sun-times violated antitrust laws by sharing a single supplemental wire service.

The two firms also were accused Friday of violating the Sherman Antitrust Law by sharing a single sales force in operating their news service. The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn.

Last Whitewater Log Drive Finished

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI)—The last of the whitewater sawlog drives in the United States was completed Friday, 91 miles from its beginning on the North Fork of the Clearwater River May 3.

It was the 40th year of the drive. In that period, 1.74 billion board feet of freshly cut timber has been pushed, pulled and mostly floated downstream to the Potlatch Forests, Inc., millpond.

TOWER TALK — Kirt Christoferson (left) and Mark Chapman of Troop 72 speak with flags and transistorized walkie-talkie atop their troop's signal tower. The lofty display was part of Marin's Annual Scout-O-Rama which drew thousands of scouts and viewers to the demonstration of skills in Forest Meadows on Dominican College's San Rafael campus. Circus Atmosphere At Scout-O-Rama

It was a carnival, a circus and an education as some three thousand Marin County scouts did their thing Saturday afternoon at the annual Scout-O-Rama at Forest Meadows in San Rafael.

Fun was the order of the day. Laughter filled the air; there was something for everyone.

San Rafael police controlled the massive traffic jam on the Dominican College campus as a crowd estimated at 20,000 persons struggled to find parking places.

It was like a carnival with balloons and games and hot dogs. Brightly-colored posters described the action at each display booth and the name of the pack or troop was posted nearby.

There was a circus atmosphere as children dressed as clowns, spacemen and even a miniature Smokey-the-Bear wandered about. Strains of different kinds of music could be heard, depending on which end of the grounds the observer was walking, from bagpipes (Troop 24) to brass band (Sixth Army Band from the Presidio of San Francisco and the 12th Naval District Band from Alameda Air Station).

And what an education was available! Exhibits displayed artificial respiration methods, silk screen printing, fingerprinting, kayak construction, camping, bicycle repair, back packing, mountain climbing, survival training and cooking with dehydrated food outdoors.

Many of the displays included participation from observers, such as rope making, a physical fitness course and lots of games for children: apple bobbing, jumping into hay, painting Indian rattles, masks, lassoing (saw) horses, knocking boys into the water, making puppets and turtles.

Most of the activities were physical and involved climbing ladders and ropes into aerial swings and trees.

But the real stars of the day were the many cub, boy and explorer scouts who turned on the charm.

Troop 39, Santa Venetia, offered tiny pine plants with conservation information to observers. Nine-year-old Bob Moore knowledgeably warned everyone not to plant the sprouts until November "when the rain comes." The plants should be kept in a cool place until then, he advised.

One polite youngster, Larry Pebbles of Troop 75 in Novato, asked a passerby if she would like to learn more about back packing. When the young woman hesitated, the dark-haired 13-year-old piped up, "It's okay if you don't want to."

San Rafael Scout Troop 87 was busy cooking chicken and pancakes during the day. Darwin Nimer, 13, yelled to spectators, "Free chicken. Over here. Free pancakes."

He kept a close eye on the plate, however, and when one hungry youth came back too often, he told him quietly, "Why don't you leave some for somebody else?"

The sun-splashed meadows were filled with dogs to be petted and police cars that could be climbed into and touched. Free lemonade of uncertain flavor was passed out by a Loma Verde Cub Scout Troop.

"The cub scouts have a lot of fun; the boy scouts get involved in the physical side of it — racing, climbing and so on. And the explorers get into one specialty or another, like mountain climbing or printing."

Prison Officer Stabbed

A San Quentin correctional officer was reported in good condition today after having been stabbed about eight times by an inmate in the prison's B Section segregation unit.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said today the instrument used to attack Kincade was a bolt that holds prison bunks to the walls. It had been stripped and sharpened, Park said.

Kincade's assailant was an inmate block attendant who takes care of housekeeping chores in the prison housing unit. He was held for investigation; his name was not released.

Park said he has no idea why Kincade was stabbed.

"It looks like an unprovoked attack," he said.

Kincade who lives at 1044 Crinella Drive has worked at the prison since September. Park said the wounds he received were so superficial that at first Kincade was unaware that he had been stabbed.

Mill Valley Council Due Density Issue

A new method of computing the density of housing developments, based on the size of the units and a variety of other factors, including access to the property, slope and open space, will be considered by the Mill Valley City Council today.

Also on the agenda of the adjourned meeting, set for 8 p.m. at the city library, is a proposal to increase fines for overtime parking and expired meters.

Woman Dies From Gun Wound

Sylvia M. Hirschberg, 57, was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital at 12:28 a.m.

The Sonoma County coroner's office said Mrs. Hirschberg had gone to the Petaluma Shopping Plaza to meet her estranged husband, James, manager of the Foly and Burke carnival appearing at the Plaza.

Mrs. Hirschberg reportedly told her husband she would take her life if divorce proceedings were not dropped. Police said after an argument in the carnival office-trailer, she shot herself in the chest with a .22-caliber Derringer pistol.

Funeral will be held in York, S.C.

Arson Hits Col. Sanders Restaurant

A fire at the former C's Drive-In Restaurant, purchased last month by Col. Sanders Kentucky Fried Chicken, is under investigation by Tamalpais Valley firemen who said today the fire was "a definite case of arson."

Lt. Carl Carlson said the fire, which caused about $6,000 damage to the building and contents of the restaurant Friday night, was started when a large amount of gasoline was ignited.

Firemen found the restaurant, located just east of Mill Valley, engulfed in flames when they arrived at 11:48 p.m. The drive-in, which has been closed for several months, was gutted, according to firemen.

The fire melted stainless steel fixtures and caused heavy damage to a walk-in refrigerator, firemen said.

The proposed Col. Sanders retaurant was a center of controversy earlier this year when the city of Mill Valley and numerous citizens opposed a use permit for the takeout food shop adjacent to city limits. The city was overruled by the county board of supervisors.

Woman, 29, Held On Theft, Burglary

Sally Jean Taylor, 29, of 227 Marin Street, San Rafael, is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Wednesday on suspicion of burglary and grand theft.

She was arrested at 1:30 p.m. Friday outside the Emporium, at the Northgate Shopping Center after taking clothing valued at $395 from the store, San Rafael police reported. She was booked into the Marin County Jail and later released on her own recognizance.

The Gallinas Village Community Services District board has been told its summer recreation director will be unable to manage its program this year.

According to board member Herbert C. Belben Jr., the district is now seeking a qualified director to oversee the eight-week program.

He said last year's director, Gloria Darke, told the board Thursday she would be unable to work full-time this year as she now has a baby to care for.

The board is expected to meet again this week to consider applications for the position as well as positions for tennis, swimming and golf instruction.

The fire was caused by a cigarette igniting the couch, according to firemen. The estimate of damage was made by Belvedere firemen.

Family Left Homeless By House Fire

A Terra Linda family whose home was gutted by fire Saturday is staying at the Wiltshire Towers motel in San Rafael until they can find another home, Red Cross officials said today.

Five children were rescued from the burning house at 724 Del Ganado by a neighbor. They are Lynn Knox, 10, and Rickey Knox, 14, both children of Patricia Knox, 35. Mrs. Knox's sister, Tracy Sherwood, 13, and her brother, Mickey Sherwood, 15, who also live with the Knoxes, were sleeping inside at the time of the fire. A neighbor, Christina Reese, 12, was visiting.

Mrs. Knox said today she and some friends had left the house about 2:25 a.m. to get a hamburger. When they returned about 45 minutes later, the house was engulfed in flames, she said.

Terra Linda Fire Chief George Walser said the fire was caused by an electrical short in a bedroom wall.

Mrs. Knox who is separated from her husband said she is not employed, adding, "I don't know what I'm going to do."

Firemen said damage to the contents was about $15,000 and left only the garage standing.

"Not one solitary thing was left," Mrs. Knox said. "Everything burned up."

Turnaround In Juvenile Crime Rate

The steady rise in juvenile crime made a turnaround in California last year, and volunteers assisting juvenile officers deserve a share of the credit, according to Allen F. Breed, California Youth Authority director.

For the first time in many years, the number of arrests of persons under 21 declined slightly last year, Breed told the annual meeting of the Marin County Juvenile Court Auxiliary Friday night at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Drug arrests of under-21s declined in every category except marijuana, which increased 21 per cent, he said.

The Youth Authority director gave principal credit for the turnaround to the fact that in 1969, the legislature for the first time appropriated money for a crime prevention program, which was expanded with a larger appropriation last year.

Previously, he said, "we all talked about crime prevention, but nothing was done about it."

Volunteers are playing a larger role, said Breed, because courts and probation officers are learning their value. "Too many of us had the idea that no one could do anything in this field unless he has an MSW (master of social work) degree," he remarked.

The auxiliary paid special honor to Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court, who during his six years as juvenile court judge insisted on expanding the role of volunteers in juvenile probation. Breed called Gardiner a pioneer in this approach.

Actress Sued By Oil Company

FORT WORTH (UPI) — The Shenandoah Oil Corp. Friday sued Ann-Margaret, the movie star, for $79,434 as a result of her actions while investing in the company in 1969. Lawyer Ira Butler Jr. filed the suit in 48th District Court for Shenandoah Oil and said Ann-Margaret Olsson failed to "live up to certain participation agreements."

One subject of dispute was 7,738 shares of stock which Ann-Margaret was said to have owned at the time.

DRAMA REVIEW

By KAY KSANDA

"If you ask me to pay for a rifle, it's the same as my firing one ... you say I can't run amok against the law, I say the government is running amok ... what if a thousand men would not pay their tax bills this year? You cast your ballot with your right hand, but has your left hand killed?"

That is the fiery protest from a man opposed to war more than 100 years ago.

"The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail," which opened at the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts last weekend, is an exciting and intriguing dialogue and drama about civil disobedience. The timely play, written by Jerome Lawrence and Robert Lee, centers on a night that Henry Thoreau spent in jail, with flashbacks on his reasoning for not paying his tax in 1846.

The United States was fighting an undeclared war (undeclared by Congress) against Mexico, a war becoming very unpopular with such notables as Ralph Waldo Emerson and Congressman Abe Lincoln.

Thoreau protested by going to jail.

If the politics are displeasing to some, the outstanding craftmanship of the director should fascinate any persistent playgoer. With short resources, open casting, and an ungainly stage, director Philip Larson weaves a formidable, polished production.

Laurence Braude, of "The Committee" and San Francisco State College, is outstanding in his portrayal of Henry David Thoreau. He's silly, sincere, intense, sardonic, then spiritual all in one short sequence, and all on a virtually empty stage. He rows an invisible boat with all the peculiarities of the act, and talks romance to the beautiful Miss Ellen Sewell as he leans on invisible oars.

"THE NIGHT THOREAU SPENT IN JAIL", a play in two acts by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee. Directed by Philip Larson, Produced by Sali Lieberman, with set by Mimi Gramatky, and lighting by Ellen Ernest. Technical Director, Ivan Root II; Director's assistant, Dianne Vaugeois; Costumes, Arleen Littlefield; Sound, Charles Cherry.

"Mother, Henry's in love!"
"Oh my, John, who with?"
"A girl!"
"Thank God! (It could have been a caterpillar, a huckleberry, or the 301 blades of grass at Haywood Meadow.)

The supporting characters are all very good. Against the bare violet background, each personality is a jewel in itself.

There are intense moments, and much subtle humor. Thoreau's jail companion, Bailey (Pat Vaughan) has been in jail three months without ever seeing a judge. Accused of burning a barn, Bailey is more of a boozer than a burner. In a few moments, he learns to write his name. With great respect, he realizes he is in the presence of a teacher.

Thoreau ruefully counters, "Being a teacher is like being in jail. Once it's on your record you can never get rid of it ... All that a school needs is a mind that sends, and a mind that receives."

"Shore a marvel the way words roll out of your mouth," says Bailey.

Mill Valley's production staff is another marvel the way they consistently produce meaningful plays with vitality and interest.

Additional performances of the play will be Friday and Saturday and June 5, 11, 12, 18, 19, 25 and 26 at 8:30 p.m.

Jail Terms In Burglary Case

Gary F. Gunn, 21, and Ronald P. Blasingame, 20, both of Kentfield, have each been sentenced to five days in Marin County Jail for a misdemeanor burglary conviction.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Municipal Court also placed the two men on probation for one year and ordered them to make restitution in the amount of $1,124.

The pair was originally charged with felony burglary and grand theft in connection with the theft of $1,124 from a safe at the Rain Tunnel Car Wash in San Rafael Feb. 20, but they pleaded guilty last month when the burglary charge was reduced and the grand theft charge dismissed.

Children's Fair Set At The Old Mill Park

The Island Nursery School of Mill Valley will sponsor a Children's Fair for tots to teens 10 a.m. June 6 at Old Mill Park, Mill Valley.

The fair will include pony and hay rides, games and booths by merchant toymakers and puppetmakers. A children's parade is also scheduled.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Promptly Relieved

In many cases Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itching and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients showed this to be true in many cases. In fact, many doctors, themselves, use Preparation H® or recommend it for their families. Preparation H ointment or suppositories.

It's more than a tree. It's "Let's pretend."

Lightning Hits Griffith Yacht

The Robert L. Griffith family, Inverness residents when they aren't sailing around the world, recently had a close call when the mast on their yacht Awahnee was struck by lightning.

The Awahnee was sailing from Auckland to Whagarei in New Zealand when she ran into a thunderstorm, according to a letter to the Independent-Journal from Mrs. Griffith.

The 52-foot ferro-cement yacht pulled into New Zealand last month after a 111-day journey which traced the 12,800 mile Antarctic circumnavigation of Capt. James Cook, who began his journey in 1772.

Mrs. Griffin wrote the I-J that the Awahnee will sail from New Zealand to reach Tomales Bay in time for her 16-year-old son Reid to get back to his high school classes in the fall.

Wife Beating Suspect Booked After Chase

A Fairfield man, wanted on suspicion of felony wife beating, led traffic officers on a wild chase Saturday night at speeds up to 125 miles per hour through four counties before being nailed north of Petaluma.

The pursuit of Ernest Frederick Staeps, 40, was lent urgency by a report, later proven unfounded, that he had a gun.

The chase began at 6:40 p.m. near Staeps's Fairfield home as police responded to a report of a family quarrel, and ended 70 miles and 35 minutes later at the Penngrove offramp of Highway 101 in Southern Sonoma.

Involved in the pursuit were Fairfield, Novato and Petaluma police and units of the California Highway Patrol from Vallejo, Marin County and Sonoma County.

Staeps led units of patrolmen through back roads and highways in Solano, Napa, Marin and Sonoma counties. At Novato, he ran a red light at Lamont Avenue, at a speed estimated at 105 miles per hour, passing the stopped cars on the shoulder of the highway, patrolmen reported.

Staeps was booked into Solano County jail on suspicion of felony wife beating and 11 traffic citations. He was released on $2,000 bail.

Teacher Honor Set In Novato

The Novato Teachers Association honored Alice San Filippo, a retiring teacher, and three former trustees of the Novato Unified School District, at a reception yesterday at the Novato Community House.

Mrs. San Filippo, a teacher at Lu Sutton School, has been teaching in the Novato Unified School District since 1957 when she joined the staff at Olive School. She previously worked in San Francisco schools.

Butter, lard, vaseline, linseed oil, salad oil, and lubricating oil produce ugly stains on light-colored leather. These spots can often be removed by coating them with a thick solution of rubber in a solvent that evaporates quickly, and then peeling off the rubber coating when it is almost dry, repeating the operation several times if necessary. All oil or grease spots should be removed as quickly as possible particularly those made by paint oils since these oxidize quickly and are soon only slightly soluble.

Reasons For Caution On Health Revamping

The Marin County Board of Supervisors heard some words of caution last week about rushing into a new organizational setup which would bunch all health and medical services under one department head.

The cautions came from representatives of the Marin Medical Society and of several volunteer organizations involved in the health field, as well as from Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer whose organization would be most affected.

We would like to add our own words of caution.

THE REORGANIZATION plan, urged by Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella, would put Dr. Donovan O. Cooke at the head of a medical-health department with two assistants, Dr. Albrecht as public health chief and Dr. John Guerrant as mental health chief.

It would also create a new department — a department of inspections, which would take over sanitation (euphemistically called "environmental health") along with building inspection (now under public works) and zoning administration (now under planning).

DR. ALBRECHT OBJECTED strenuously to removing sanitation from the public health field. She did so on excellent grounds. Since public health is concerned chiefly with communicable disease, to divorce sanitation inspection from it makes very little sense. That's what sanitation is all about: control of communicable disease.

The proposed reorganization also would fracture the planning department by removing the zoning administrator from its jurisdiction. If his job is not part of planning, we cannot imagine what it is.

A case might be made for putting building inspection also under planning, rather than public works. But to group it with zoning administration and sanitation inspection in a new department would be to create a hash of three dissimilar functions.

THERE IS ANOTHER reason to be leery of the proposed reorganization, which nobody seems to have mentioned.

Dr. Cooke is an elected official, as county coroner. The voters chose him to run the coroner's office. The board of supervisors already has given him other hats, as medical director with over-all responsibility also for the mental health program.

There are recognitions of Dr. Cooke's administrative ability. But, he was elected to be coroner. If he is given so many other duties that he cannot devote the attention he should to the office to which he was elected, is that playing fair with the voters who put him in that office? We think not.

THE REORGANIZATION plan did not, of course, originate with Campanella. It is a revise of part of a "super-agency" plan for reorganizing county government that was proposed in April, 1966, by Campanella's boss, Alan Bruce. That was rejected by the board of supervisors after some study convinced board members that it would not improve efficiency.

The current proposal appears to have the same flaw.

Bay Pollution Claims May Have Impurities

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Is San Francisco Bay getting cleaner or dirtier?

It depends on who you listen to, what he is trying to sell, and whether he leaves something out.

According to the chairman of the State Water Resources Control Board, Kerry W. Mulligan, the bay "continues to suffer marked deterioration in quality."

According to the Regional Water Quality Control Board, however, considerable evidence has been seen in the past few years that the bay's health has improved.

THE FIRST comprehensive measurements of the bay's quality were taken from 1965 to 1970 in a state study, so there are no reliable earlier measurements with which to compare the new figures.

Mulligan, whose description of the bay this month got wide publicity, offered it at a press conference to promote his board's plea for a new agency to plan, finance and operate water pollution programs in the Bay Area. It would be separate from the existing regional board, which polices and enforces pollution regulations.

You don't sell strong medicine by assuring a patient he is healthy, so Mulligan may have laid it on a bit heavy when he described the bay in such dark terms.

Mulligan conceded that Bay Area sewerage agencies, under the regional board's prodding, "have taken important immediate steps, and there have been improvements made, some far-sighted. But in some parts quality has deteriorated," he said in a retreat from his earlier pronouncement.

He said that this deterioration was limited to shallow extremities of the bay, and that deeper water areas apparently still were healthy.

THIS WOULD FIT the regional board's informal evidence — fish and wildlife are returning to bay waters they vanished from more than 20 years ago. These include sturgeon, anchovies and shrimp, all of which indicate a return of the bay's food chain.

The return of sturgeon in the southern reaches of the bay was particularly encouraging. They feed on the bottom, where sewage solids would settle, and the sturgeon could not survive if conditions were as bad as suggested by Mulligan.

Half of the cities around the bay dumped raw sewage 20 yearsago, the other half giving it only primary treatment. Today, all give at least primary treatment, and half give secondary treatment.

The future, however, is not so rosy. Someday, the bay's capacity to assimilate wastewater will be exceeded. No one knows when that will happen or what the capacity is, but all experts agree it will come.

Unless strong steps are taken, Mulligan's description of "deterioration" will be an obsolete reminder of the good old days. Formation of the regional agency proposed by the state board is needed to clean up the bay — fiercely independent sewerage agencies have proved they cannot do the job on their own.

Hitchhike Problem Still Not Solved

My thanks for publishing the bit on the need for a place for people to get rides . . . However, this does not solve the problem . . .

The local police are now prohibiting the soliciting of rides on the north freeway approach.

You probably noticed that the anti-hitchhiking bill was killed yesterday (May 18) in Sacramento on the grounds that it would hurt the people who could not afford formal transportation . . .

Action On Tax Reform Needed

Residents of Mill Valley have just received staggering increases in the estimated cash value of their homes, and other localities are similarly affected, that will increase tax payments about 50 per cent.

I have used your "Where to Write" information to inform Sacramento of the urgent need for tax relief for homeowners.

I think that the I-J could be of great service to the taxpayers in providing information that would guide them at election time, with the object of removing those from public office who jeopardize our homes for political reasons.

Mr. William D. Fusselman could help in this matter.

At last I have come to realize the importance of the press in protecting my interests in many ways, and any action you take on tax reform will be greatly appreciated.

No-Fault Insurance 'Overkill' Solution

In my capacity as both a member of the Governor's Automobile Accident Study Commission and a concerned citizen, I feel that the automobile problem needs clarification. Auto insurance is on the firing line of the consumerist movement right now, with the very real danger that, instead of helping auto-accident victims, we will deprive them of their legal rights.

Advocates of so-called "no fault" schemes propose to replace the present legal system of negligence in auto cases with a system of limited benefits for victims. Instead of tackling the real problems head on and improving the system, "no fault" proponents favor radical changes at the expense of the accident victim.

After three years of study and thousands of pages of testimony, we on the governor's commission recommended against adoption of a "no fault" plan because it was clearly not in the best interests of the citizens of California. We proposed, instead, numerous reforms to improve the existing system while preserving the state and federal constitutional rights of the individual, which "no fault" fails to do.

The Governor's Commission found many obstacles to "no fault" including, among others, reduced coverage and benefits, increased administrative expense, possible unfortunate effects on insurance-rating techniques, and the clear lack of evidence that premiums would come down. Further, "no fault" offers no inherent deterrent to fraud and, I believe, might well encourage fraudulent claims . . .

The contignet-fee system has been attacked by critics who argue that it is sometimes abused. But there is no other system available whereby the poor man can buy rich man's justice . . . Without a contingent-fee arrangement, only the rich man would be able to afford a lawyer in a civil case . . .

Those who propose to improve the system by destroying the rights of victims to recover a full measure of damages under the misnomer of "no fault" have created a great deal of confusion, and the basic weaknesses of their approach should be stressed to the public. The side effects of "no fault" make it an overkill solution. They indeed may prove to be more aggravating to the consumer than the weaknesses of the present system.

Amtrak Schedules And Trains Good

I am writing in regard to your "Editor's Notebook" of May 8 concerning Amtrak and it's trains. Many of your observations are true but you also have some misconceptions about the service. The Oakland depot is indeed less than hospitable, although in very good repair for its years and the neglect Southern Pacific has shown it. The ticket agents at both Oakland and San Francisco are inexperienced in handling Amtrak tickets at this point. I frankly had a difficult time getting one. Also, the NWP San Rafael agency has been closed.

This is in marked contrast, however, to the quality of the trains themselves. I had the pleasure to take train 18, formerly the City of San Francisco, from Oakland to Ogden on May 6. While Amtrak has left many areas unserved by the large number of trains eliminated, this move has allowed them to use only the best equipment of what is left. In addition to four coaches and three Pullmans on our train, we had a coffee-shop car, a diner, and a dome-lounge. All of the equipment was in excellent condition and very clean and comfortable. The diner had full linen and silver from the Union Pacific, and was run by a crew from that railroad, which has quite a reputation for service . . . The dinners were moderately priced (about $3.50 to $5.50) and were excellent. Lunches were about $1.50 to $2.50. I would recommend this trip highly to your readers, and the scheduling allows for a very convenient week-end trip . . .

I cannot conceive how you could so horribly misconstrue the Amtrak schedule in regard to north-south service on the Pacific coast. Please correct your comments, for I fear no one from Marin County will ride Amtrak with the impression that you've given them. First, there is daily service each way between Oakland and Los Angeles. Second, there is twice daily service from Los Angeles to San Diego and back, with three trains on those days that the Seattle-San Diego through train is running. Similarly, there is twice daily service each way between Portland and Seattle, with three trains on those days that the Seattle-San Diego through train is running.

My schedule says quite plainly that the Seattle-San Diego through trains have coaches, sleepers, a lounge, and a diner, while the Oakland-Los Angeles trains have coaches, a lounge, and "food service", which means a vending machine car. There is no confusion in Amtrak timetables, which of course is quite a break from railroad tradtion . . .

Congress Bungles When It Tries To Intervene In Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON — Congress is unwittingly warning the American people not to allow it to grasp too large a role in the conduct of foreign policy.

But the reckless way it is going about the business of trying to do so can hardly fail to create a massive public demand on Congress to stop, look and listen.

In recent months there has hardly been a single aspect of foreign policy which Congress, when it has acted to intervene, hasn't bungled.

THE LATEST INSTANCE was the Mansfield amendment to slash in half the U.S. forces assigned to NATO. This would have been perilous folly. Only after great effort was it deflected by a face-saving compromise which does no immediate harm.

If this is the way Congress proposes to seize the conduct of foreign affairs from the president, there will have to be a massive public crusade to save the country from Congress.

Congress should play a significant role in foreign policy but it will throw away its opportunity to do so if it continues to show such ineptness.

TAKE THE MANSFIELD amendment.

The NATO nations have long been urging the Soviet Union to negotiate a mutual reduction of Warsaw Pact and NATO forces in Europe. At times, Moscow has appeared interested but has held back until very recently. Now at the very moment when party leader Leonid Brezhnev announced that the Russians are ready to move for a mutual cutback, Mansfield and other like-minded senators proposed to give to the Russians 50 per cent cut in U.S. NATO forces without getting anything in return.

Defeated, yes — but the very initiative was ill-timed, ill-conceived and harmful.

Is this the way Congress proposes to conduct foreign policy?

THE NATO GOVERNMENTS had already worked out an agreed policy for the prospective talks with Moscow. The Mansfield amendment would have torn up that agreement. And to legislate a unilateral cut in U.S. forces in Europe would undermine NATO and destroy the confidence of the NATO countries in the steadfastness of American support. It would also have destroyed all prospects of reaching a workable solution for West Berlin, and the failure to get such a solution would nullify the worthy efforts of West Germany to improve relations with Russia and Poland.

Is this the way Congress proposes to conduct foreign policy?

Have no doubt about it, the Russians want to destroy NATO. They have tried to make the dissolution of NATO a precondition of nearly every international negotiation they have participated in with the United States in recent years. They have even tried to make it a condition of the limited nuclear test ban.

The Russians want to get the United States out of Europe, and the Senate maneuvers to slash U.S. NATO forces without any counterbalancing reduction of Russian forces was about to begin that process before wiser counsel prevailed at the last minute.

IT CAN FAIRLY be argued that the United States is bearing too one-sided a burden in the cost of keeping up NATO's defenses and that the NATO nations should be doing more. But for Congress to propose a one-sided action breaching agreed NATO policy is simply irresponsible.

Is this the way Congress proposes to conduct foreign policy?

Is this the way the Senate expects to win public confidence in its efforts to strengthen its voice in foreign affairs?

If so, the nation will suffer.

There is a right balance in the role of the president and the role of the Congress in these matters and it can only be achieved with great care and responsibility.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

The 'Other' Lyndon Johnson Who Won Rights For Negro

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

AUSTIN, Tex. — Long before the dedication of the L.B.J. library here, they were calling it "Lyndon's mausoleum," and referring to the event itself as his resurrection. Then the scale of the ceremonies and the accompanying barbecue encouraged just that many more wisecracks about the man who has replaced Herbert Hoover as the favorite butt of American political disparagement.

That began because of his 10-gallon personality, of course, but it grew and continues because so many widely quoted wits place him in one context only — that of the man who escalated the Vietnamese war. It is time, now that he has been quietly retired at the ranch for more than two years, to recover from the monomania that equated him with the war and nothing else —time to consider his record in early perspective.

WHEN JOHN KENNEDY was killed, I was stationed in Moscow. Not only the American community there, but many other foreigners and Russians too, knew Kennedy better than they had any other American president, and they were crushed and fearful. They knew virtually nothing about his successor, except that he was from Texas and that was where Kennedy had been slain. The conspiracy theories of the assassination found uncommon receptivity there.

Because I was the only person there who had covered Johnson in the Senate and as a vice presidential candidate, who knew him, friend after friend came to me to ask what kind of president he would be, what we could expect now.

I knew him in the Senate as the man who got things done, but most often by compromise. I knew him as a candidate who spoke out on the issues, but whose main function was to hold the South behind the Democratic ticket. I also knew that as of his death, Kennedy had asked Congress for broad civil rights legislation but had been reluctant to press too hard for its passage lest he jeopardize action on his other "New Frontier" bills.

MY FEELING was that the first test of whether Lyndon Johnson as President intended to play politics or lead the nation would be whether he committed himself to passage of that civil rights package or contented himself with a congressionally watered down alternative. I told my friends in Moscow they might judge him the same way.

He exceeded all my expectations, and perhaps even his own.

He threw his full weight behind the civil rights bill of 1964, and it turned out even stronger than Kennedy had proposed it the year before. In one swoop, it was the most far-reaching civil rights legislation since Reconstruction. It covered voting, public accommodations, education, federal projects, employment, and many other areas. It could not have been passed without the total commitment of the man in the White House.

INSPIRED BY THAT success and the election results of 1964, he involved himself even more emotionally in the effort to guarantee voting rights. Standing in the House chamber in 1965 before a special joint session of Congress, he used the words of the anthem of the civil rights movement, "We shall overcome," to summon the legislators to act. Five months later, he was at the Capitol again to sign the milestone bill beside a statue of Abraham Lincoln in the rotunda.

Many years earlier, the black historian, W. E. B. DuBois, had written that "despite everything, the 15th Amendment and that alone struck the death knell of slavery." But the 15th Amendment did not begin taking nationwide effect until it was put into specific law in August, 1965, with a stroke of Lyndon Johnson's pen on the voting rights bill.

Since then, the number of black Americans registered to vote has multiplied manifold, especially in the South. The number holding elected office has climbed even faster. Someday those figures will be in proportion to the black percentage of our population, and the 15th Amendment will be a reality instead of a promise.

WHEN IT IS, one of the Americans most responsible will be a Texan, a man who grew up in a latitude south of every state capital in Dixie and who dragged through Congress the greatest flood of social legislation in our history. Antipoverty war, Medicare, aid to education, the Great Society — the list of accomplishments in the Johnson years runs on. Walter Lippmann, who could never be accused of a bias toward Johnson, wrote that "he's done what President Kennedy could not have done had he lived."

And the single field in which his impress was greatest was civil rights, wherein he proved that it is a great mistake to judge a man by his accent.

The Hicksian Theory: Don't Fill Job Until It's Necessary

A Sausalito city councilman has fired a shot which conceivably could ricochet from here to Washington, D.C., and send fatcat bureaucrats and politicians scurrying in all directions.

Councilman Wyman Hicks's modest proposal is as simple as it is startling: He believes the City of Sausalito should cut its proposed $1.8 million budget by one-third.

He does not propose massive dismissals of city employees, but thinks positions which become vacant through attrition should not be refilled unless they are absolutely essential. As Hicks put it at a recent council meeting: "For a city of 6,000 persons, we have too many employees, too many vehicles, too much of everything."

A professor at Sonoma State College, Hicks is no rabid reactionary. He simply thinks the city budget has bounded higher and higher and farther away from reality in recent years.

His views may be unique in political circles which seem to be populated with empire builders and those who benefit from the empires. If you want to cut taxes, according to Hicks, will, then you have to cut expenditures.

IT ALL SOUNDS rediculously simple: To really give the taxpayer a break, you don't reduce property taxes and then raise sales and income taxes, despite what our state and federal officials keep saying. If you don't spend so much, you don't need to scrounge around for more and more income.

To see that Hicks has a point, one need only look around at what's been happening:

The population of Sausalito has increased about 15 per cent in the last 10 years, from 5,331 to 6,159. But during the same period the city's budget has grown 300 per cent, from $391,740 in 1960 to $1,504,628 in 1970.

Ten years ago Marin County had 146,046 persons; today the county's population is 204,046, about a 39 per cent jump. Yet the county's budget has risen about 230 per cent, from 11.6 to $37 million.

The state's population grew about 25 per cent in the last decade, while the budget soared from 2.3 to 6.7 billion, just less than 300 per cent.

IF WE LISTEN to the politicans who seem so eager to talk about "the real problem." we know that welfare is to blame for strangling taxes. But is it really? Admittedly welfare costs are high, but that is far from the complete story.

Too often, I think, politicians have turned welfare into an inflammatory issue in order to camouflage their own rampant spending. The politicans figure, I suppose, that if taxpayers are angry at those welfare recipients, they will be less likely to seek out the real culprits.

If Councilman Hicks actually achieves success with his proposal, there could be repercussions all over the place. And Sausalito doesn't spend a cent for welfare in its budget.

Of course the cutting would have to be done by an auditor who was also a lobbyist for the general public. Otherwise, the first mention of a reduction in expenditures would have officials claiming that such necessities as police protection and social security would have to be the first to go. They wouldn't talk much about their myriad councils, consultants, junkets, vehicles, and committees.

It could be that people might even come to realize that taxes will continue to go up unless the taxpayers get together and really put their feet down. They could even decide to see what's up — besides welfare costs — in San Rafael, Sacramento and Washington.

MacLeish Miffed By Wrong Lady

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UPI)—Poet and playwright Archibald Macleish, here to accept an award, said he didn't mind at all being photographed with a portrait of his late mother, a former principal of Rockford College.

Officials tried twice, failed twice and Macleish left.

The first portrait, complete with a nameplate identifying it as Mrs. Martha Hillard MacLeish, was dug out of storage when officials got word MacLeish would be in town.

"That's not mother," MacLeish said. "Right name, wrong picture."

Another portrait was hung, MacLeish was summoned and posed and the photographers began to focus again.

"That's not mother, either," MacLeish announced.

"Are you sure?" his wife asked.

"Very sure," the playwright replied. "Mother had a round face and brown eyes."

And he left. Rockford College tried to figure out who the two "mystery ladies" might be.

By MICHAEL L. POSNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The flag, a far as is known, still is safe. But Congress is changing its mind about motherhood.

As radical as the idea may sound, lawmakers will vote shortly to repeal the old maxim that a mother's place is in the home.

They'll also be voting against the time honored idea that proper work for women is rearing children.

Without many objections, the House is expected to approve a bill to force mothers out of the home for gainful employment or for job training if they haven't any working skills.

NOT ALL MOTHERS will be forced into work though. Only those who want to keep their welfare payments.

The work requirement is a cornerstone of the new "Family Assistance Program" proposed by President Nixon and modified by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The work-or-lose-money philosophy was written into the bill by those who believe welfare rolls are rising too fast, that it should be harder to get on welfare and easier to get off, and that the present $10 billion federal cost of welfare is too high.

Ways and Means Committee chairman Wilbur P. Mills, D-Ark., is a leading advocate of that philosophy.

Most affected by the work requirement will be up to two million women who are now heading families with young children and getting welfare payments in their belief. There are about three million families on welfare in all now, and the figures are expected to rise rapidly.

In all there are about 15 million persons on welfare. Of this group, some three million are blind, disabled and aged. Another 12 million are in some three million families.

Of the 12 million, nearly all are children. Of the three million families, two million are headed by womenwithout husbands.

SO THE WORK requirement is not an easy solution. The requirement is going to be costly, and there is no guarantee of success.

where the jobs will be found. Next is the question of whether the welfare mothers can hold the jobs. Another question is the type of jobs — whether the work will be cleaning someone else's home or other menial work.

every five welfare mothers has a high school education. More than 30 per cent have never gone past the eighth grade. Many can't read.

Welfare mothers who now want jobs often can't get them because they don't have any skills at all.

THE LATEST COST estimate for putting welfare mothers and the few male adults in welfare families to work is $3.4 billion in just the first full year, starting July 1, 1972.

In the first year it will cost $900 million to set up day care centers across the country to take care of the children while their mothers are away from the home, $500 million to give others training; $800 million to pay for 200,000 new public service jobs in hospitals, schools, sanitation departments, and city halls; $100 million for various other support services and a whopping $1.1 billion just to administer the program.

Man Hides After Making Wife Confess, Resign

RECIFE, BRAZIL (UPI)— Drayton Nejaim went into hiding Friday after his wife accused him kidnaping and torturing her to force her to resign from the state Legislature and admit she was the mistress of 40 men. He told police he would turn himself in next week when things calmed down.

The police Friday set up roadblocks around Recife, Capital of Bahia States to capture Nejaim after his wife was taken to a hospital with broken bones in her arms and burns and bruises all over her body.

Araci Nejaim, 40, told a state assembly investigating committee her husband had kept her on a remote farm and tortured her until she resigned from the state legislature, signed a confession that she was the mistress of 40 important government figures, and signed over all her estate to his name.

Drayton, formerly a rich land owner and mayor or Caruaru is in hiding. He told his lawyer he would turn himself in when public opinion was less violent.

Japan Forges Lead In Steel

CLEVELAND (UPI) —Japan now far outranks the United States in productivity in raw steelmaking, Industry Week magazine said in its edition published today.

Japan made raw steel in 1970 with only 5.70 man hours per net ton, 22 per cent less than the 7.31 man hours required in the United States that year, the business magazine reported.

Japan first moved ahead of the United States in productivity in 1969, when it overall used 3.6 per cent less man hours per net ton.

In finished steel products, the United States retains a slim edge in productivity, 11.9 man hours per ton of finished steel products, compared with 12.4 man hours per ton in Japan, Industry Week reported.

By PAT BALMES

"I wish more parents would take the time and patience to explain to their kids how to do things and then take up an interest as a family," says Mary Ellen Wehrli.

The 27-year-old Lucas Valley resident adds that by the time her youngsters are her age, there will be lots more leisure and "the hardest thing to do is nothing at all."

MARY ELLEN'S husband, a department store buyer, frames her paintings. (A frame can "make or break" a good painting, according to the artist.) In his neat workshop Carl Wehrli teaches his three-year-old son, Jon, the names, locations and uses of his tools, and the boy spends hours in Mary Ellen's studio nailing and gluing together wood scraps from his father's frames and painting the results.

"My husband takes an interest in my art. We go to art exhibits together, otherwise I don't think I'd go. That's why I can do what I do, because he gets right in there and helps me," she says, adding that while he makes frames in the evening, she makes the coffee and keeps him company.

"Some artists sit up all night working, but I could not do that. I have an old-fashioned hang-up that evenings are for my husband."

Although a mother may know nothing of art, she can take her child to art classes and shows. Sometimes artists do their paintings at shows. Artists love to talk about their work, so have the children ask them questions, Mary Ellen suggests.

Drawing for her children started during a visit to their grandmother's house, when Mary Ellen gave them each a pencil and paper and said,

"Draw what's on the table."

On some Saturdays Diane invites friends to paint in her mother's studio. At a birthday party, Diane's guests were invited to "a paint-in," where butcher paper was hung on the backyard fence for them to decorate.

When you encourage children to be artistic, there is going to be a mess, says Mary Ellen, She advises sectioning off a part of your house and saying,

"Okay, this is where you do it and then we clean up."

ALTHOUGH HER children wear smocks, paint spots are unavoidable. Mary Ellen works mostly with washable acrylics now because, when Diane was two, she squeezed a tube of red oil paint all over. And, when Jon was smaller, he festooned the backyard and the swing-set with masking tape.

"A housewife can organize herself to work at home, but I don't think everybody can paint and manage small children, too. It can get to you, if you let it," say Mary Ellen.

At 9 a.m., after Diane goes to school, Mary Ellen dresses in paint-spattered shorts and shirt, her hair tied back with a bandana, to begin her art work with Jon. When the boy wanders away later, she follows him with her "very good ears," knowing where he is all the time she is working, until 3 or 4 p.m. daily.

"SOMETIMES WHEN I am very caught up in a painting, Diane will come home at noon and make a sandwich for Jon and one for Mommie, too," says the serious artist who does not shop for bargains or do volunteer work, but keeps her time for painting.

Mary Ellen has been surprised by the demand for her paintings. She studied art at San Jose State and College of San Mateo, but was not encouraged. Finding the work repetious of her high school art classes, she quit. Not until her new home needed paintings five years ago, did she return to painting. An artist-neighbor, Maggie Leitner, suggested she show her work at Terra Linda Artists Association's auction, and she sold a small pen and ink drawing for $30.

HER HUSBAND'S amazament and comments of other artists encouraged her to exhibit at the Sausalito Art Festival, other shows and galleries, and doctors' offices and stores.

"An artist can teach herself at home," says Mary Ellen, who says she plans to go back to school some day.

Her love for the country is reflected in landscapes. Other subjects are children "doing natural things," meticulously detailed animals and bold abstracts with a three-dimensional effect created by glue relief. These were inspired by cross-sections from histology medical books, she says. This attention to detail and interest in biology illustrate Mary Ellen's interest in a future career as a biological illustrator, which requires a pre-medical degree and five years post graduate study at University of California.

"But right now, because of my small children, I'm concentrating on the fine arts," she remarks.

Artist Mary Ellen Wehrli will be a special guest at the silent art auction Wednesday titled "Artists and Models" held at the Elks Club in San Rafael. The fashion show, auction and luncheon is sponsored by the Marin County Chapter of National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm married to two men — the public one and the private one. When we visit my children or his (all grown) he's all love and kisses. They think I couldn't be luckier, having such an attentive man.

But at home, I'm not only unkissed, but un-talked-to. He eats at a TV tray the minute he gets home, then falls asleep on the couch. He made love to me twice in 1968, once in 1969, (if you could call it "love") and he hasn't even put his arm around me for over a year — except when we're with other people. Then he's Old Lovebug and, if I don't play up, it looks like I'm the cold one.

At 60, I don't expect flaming romance, but at least he could be kind. Instead, he's cruel and sarcastic, and has even slapped me around. I'm expected to wait on him, then leave him alone — and if I left him everyone would think I was crazy. — MARRIED TO AN ACTOR

DEAR MTAA:

Here's a suggestion that might work: Invite one of the grown children to spend a vacation with you. When your husband goes into his act — react in kind. Make it the biggest compatibility team since Lunt and Fontanne.

This could have two effects: Hopefully, several weeks of put-on affection might produce more of the real thing (when you both discover how much happier you are). Or, after a couple of days, your man will revert to type, which would at least show the family you have grounds for leaving him. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

It did help! General Mills has given us until Dec. 31, 1971 (rather than May) to complete our Betty Crocker/Kidney Machine Project.

Helen, we've been overwhelmed by the response of your readers to this project. Thousands of coupons (well over 150,000) have poured in from all over the country, and we want to thank everyone. Also, many HHU readers wrote to General Mills asking that we be permitted to continue past the first deadline.

We still need some 300,000 coupons before we can get a kidney machine for our new Regional Hemodialysis Center and, now that we have until December 31, the goal is within reach. We hope your great fans will continue to send along their coupons. — Program Chairman for Kidney Machine Project, Saddle River Reformed Church, 500 East Saddle River Road, Upper Saddle River, New Jersey, 07458.

DEAR READERS:

To those of you who are collecting for similar projects in your own areas: General mills, Inc. recently announced it has changed the completion date for ALL Kidney Machine and other lifesaving equipment from May 31 to Dec. 31, 1971. Keep saving and sending those Betty Crocker coupons! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

This another letter to "Murderer at 16": A number of years ago, when abortion was the scandal of the town and meant disgrace for the family, I had one. I lost long-time friends and couldn't walk down the street without those awful stares.

It was a bad job and I nearly died. I was forced to testify against the doctor and he lost his license to practice medicine.

Like you, Miss 16, I felt regret and guilt, not for the destroyed fetus, but for my family and the doctor's life I had ruined, and for myself.

At 16, you should put "shame, guilt and regret" in a box and label them "experience." As you go through life, each achievement should be stacked on top till eventually the first box will sink out of sight. — WIFE AND MOTHER NOW

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Never Too Late To Shape Up

The American Heart Association advises that it is never too late to begin to improve your physical condition. However, it is important to have a thorough physical examination first to learn what you can safely do.

A brisk walk of about two miles helps to tone up muscles, calm nerves and help get rid of fat. Begin slowly, the association suggests, build up gradually and continue daily, if possible.

Kurt Holhausers Fete Their Golden Wedding

When they were married on May 14, 1921, at Wieda in Thuringia, Holhauser was a painter and decorater, and he continued these trades on coming to San Francisco in 1925 until he retired in 1961.

In San Francisco he specialized in very fine decorating in hotels, theaters, luxurious homes and churches. A specialist in the practically lost art of using gold leaf, he recalls putting 9,000 pieces of pure gold on the cross on the roof of Grace Cathedral in San Francisco.

Decorated on the outside like a Bavarian Chalet, the Holhausers' home is filled with his oil paintings and many kinds of decorative detail including wood carvings. They have lived there since 1945.

Hiking and gardening are the Holhausers' hobbies. Their extensive travels include three trips to Europe, but now they say they are just enjoying "staying home and taking it easy."

Ida Holhauser's advice to those hoping to celebrate golden wedding anniversaries is "it has to be a 50-50 proposition, and, never go to bed without saying a nice good night.

Mr. Holhauser credits his wife's fabulous cooking as part of the reason for the success of their marriage, but he laments that there are many things he shouldn't eat now.

SMART SHOPPER

Juice Standards Brew Confusion

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

Few shoppers apparently are aware of the substantial differences in products bearing such terms as "juice," "juice drink," "breakfast drink," "fruit drink," "juice ade," "juice cocktail" and "juice nectar."

And few people are aware of how little fruit juice is contained in all of these products except "juice." Federal regulations require that anything labeled simply as "juice" must consist entirely of the natural juice of the fruit in question.

But there are no Federal standards specifying the proportion of natural juice in the other products that are often labeled, advertised and promoted to look like the real thing.

THE RESULT is a jungle of terms for blends containing as little as 6 per cent juice in orange "drink" and as much as 50 per cent juice in what is called orange "juice-drink." Percentages vary considerably from these, however, from brand to brand.

Even Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser, is confused. In a recent speech to the National Juice Products Association, she confessed her "naivete" in thinking that the orange "juice-drink" delivered by her milk man was all juice when it was only half juice.

"I was amazed," she said, "and I am sure most homemakers would be similarly surprised to know" what she learned.

She proceeded to scold the manufacturers for not agreeing on some sort of standards for the various terms and labeling the proportion of juice in them.

SHE POINTED out that the Food and Drug Administration has been trying for nearly seven years to set standards. Lack of agreement among major producers and natural differences between Florida and California oranges have blocked acceptance of any standards.

The proposed standards would require at least 50 per cent juice in anything labeled "juice-drink," at least 25 per cent juice in anything called "ade" and at least 10 per cent juice in products called fruit "drinks."

As it is, fruit drink products are required to list their ingredients in descending order of importance, but few buyers stop to read the list. If they did, they would find that water and sugar usually top the list.

But the list does not show proportions. And few producers are ready to start revealing percentages. For they would show that the amount of added water in fruit drinks may exceed 90 per cent.

THE "NATURAL" flavoring mentioned on some labels is not full natural juice but concentrations of juice or parts of the fruit, such as the highly flavored rind of oranges.

Vitamin C is added to many orange concoctions to make them more like real juice, but the amounts added are sometimes far less than labels imply. The Federal Trade Commission has issued several complaints against such products in recent months.

If all this leaves you confused over how to get your money's worth in fruit beverages, you can be sure of at least one term: the word "juice."

Products such as apple juice, orange juice, pineapple juice and pear juice not only are natural juices but they are invariably more nutritious than any imitations.

Unwanted Noise May Be Harmful

A Wisconsin psychiatrist has observed that unwanted noise inside the home may be contributing to marriage difficulties and the generation gap.

The physician, Dr. Jack C. Westman, discussing the results of a study on the subject, said that planning of homes "does not recognize that adults require areas in which reduced activity and reduced sound promote relaxation, and in sharp contrast, that children require areas where increased activity and increased sound production promote relaxation."

MRS. THOMAS BJORNSON
To lead junior women

Novato Club To Install Bjornson

Novato Junior Women's Club members have elected Mrs. Thomas Bjornson of Novato president for the 1971-72 year. She also has served as recording secretary and has been a member three years.

The organization participates in civic and philanthropic work and members plan a summer barbecue, a muscular dystrophy benefit, a "Night in Monte Carlo," and a rummage sale. Each month members also make tray favors for Novato's convalescent hospitals.

The new president and her husband, a personnel representative at Pacific Gas and Electric Co., have been Marin residents 10 years. They have three daughters. Patti Menjou, a foster daughter is 17 years old, Kristy is 4 and Laura, 16 months. Sharon Bjornson was born in Los Angeles and has a bachelor's degree from San Jose State college in family life. Her pastimes are teaching nursery school, drawing and sewing.

Hospital Volunteers Elect Mrs. Kramer

Experienced in sales know-how as a full-time licensed real estate saleswoman, Mrs. Stephen Kramer of San Rafael has been elected president of the Gift Shop Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers.

Gloria Kramer has previously been vice president and treasurer of the branch and served as representative to the public relations and scholarship committees of the volunteers during her two-and-a-half years of membership.

She explains that the gift shop at the hospital is run by the volunteers to raise money for hospital equipment and for scholarships in health career training.

Currently the branch is planning to enlarge the gift shop into a "walk-in" shop with greater earning capacity, she says. The shop volunteers work a four-hour shift once a week or oftener, Mrs. Kramer says.

A native of New York City and a graduate of the University of Maryland, Gloria Kramer has lived in Marin for four years. She works full-time for her husband's real estate firm in Marin.

Mrs. Kramer and the other branch officers will be installed at a luncheon June 16 at Sabella's restaurant in Mill Valley. Serving with her will be Mmes. Gordon Noble, vice president; Everett Witzel, secretary; Robert England, treasurer; and Melville Newman, placement director.

Bottle Brush

A bottle brush is a handy tool in cleaning wrought-iron furniture. Wrap a dusting cloth around the brush and slide through hard-to-reach or decorative areas where dust and grime collect - chair and table legs, sconces, magazine racks. For a more thorough cleaning periodically wring a cloth of soap or detergergent suds and use it in place of the dusting cloth. Then wash the brush thoroughly.

MUSIC REVIEW

'Romeo and Juliet' A Brilliant Show

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

It was one of Seiji Ozawa's most brilliant "shows" when he closed the San Francisco Symphony's second annual Marin series Saturday night at Terra Linda High School gymnasium with "Four Views of Romeo and Juliet."

Seemingly possessed with some special musical demon, he conducted with fiery intensity and a graphic clarity of baton technique that made watching him as important for the eye as the sensuous and dynamic music was for the ear.

The first two musical views of the Shakespearean tragedy strongly emphasized lyricism — the opening love music from Berlioz's symphony "Romeo and Juliet" and Tchaikovsky's fantasy-overture of the same name. The last two views were modern dynamic and rhythmic realizations of the theme in dance. These were selections from suites 1 and 2 of Prokofiev's ballet "Romeo and Juliet" and the symphonic dances from Bernstein's "West Side Story," a contemporary version of the theme in a set in a New York ghetto.

Apparently audience reaction and perhaps performance was quite different in Marin from those at the regular San Francisco series in the opera house, for the opening Berlioz love music, though exquisite in every detail, was low key, while the Tchaikovsky fantasy-overture was a smash hit. Part of the reason for this popularity may have been the familiarity of the famed love melody.

Playing this music as though inspired, the orchestra achieved a rhapsodic ecstasy reminiscent of the love-death music in Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde."

In the Berlioz love music I had never heard the cellos play with more glowing warmth, and the woodwinds and violins shone too. What Ozawa has done with the low strings is amazing.

Brasses and percussion took over the spotlight in the Prokofiev and Bernstein works. Both works were literally spine-tingling as sonority ricocheted from the walls and was magnified by the hollow stage.

Ozawa brought out all the driving rhythms of the Prokofiev so clearly that it was difficult to understand how the Bolshoi Ballet found it in 1935 impossible as a dance vehicle. It sounds almost conservative now as a result of avant garde dance developments.

The Bernstein symphonic dances were notable for Ozawa's affinity for artistic expression of the contemporary scene. The composition itself is a masterpiece reflecting present day racial and other tensions and violence.

Saturday night was "goodbye forever" to "gymnatoriums" for symphonic music in Marin. See you on Sept. 25 with the Marin Symphony and Dorothy Kirsten at the new Veterans Memorial Auditorium at the Civic Center, which I recently previewed. You will be stunned!

DANCE REVIEW

Gaia Company Gives Youthful, Exciting Evening Of Ballet

By MARIE RAMEAU

A new current of balletic creativity is making itself felt in Marin; witness Saturday evening's performance by the youthful and exciting Gaia Company Dance Theater at Tamalpais High School.

"We Just Dropped Here from There" was a philosophic-poetic collage of dance, light show and poetry set to blues, rock, jazz and folk music. This stylish and original presentation added up to a sort of existential odyssey, making use of diverse dance forms. Although based more or less on conventional ballet technique (these dancers are all ballet-trained), the action flowed imperceptibly from ballet to jazz to modern and back in one smooth, harmonious whole.

The program notes, written by the 17-year-old directress-choreographer-dancer, Sheri Gaia of San Rafael, set the episodic tone of this choreographic tryptych. Her poetry was at time cryptic with numerous word-salads, at times transparent with a childlike simplicity. To quote a particularly lovely passage:

"The third try to Get by . . . We —each different and the same . . . Here different from there . . . I think I care . . . Smile . . . Fly . . . And frolic . . . We love."

The Gaia troupe is a well-trained and meticulously rehearsed group of very individual dancers who nevertheless work well together. Miss Gaia, with her striking stage presence, small stature and excellent phrasing, conveys the impression that she never stops moving. Yet, by way of contrast, she possesses a rare ability to instantly strike a line without ever letting you know how she got there.

Remarkably, though Miss Gaia is still in her teens, as a choreographer she already demonstrates a sophisticated comprehension of both classical and contemporary forms, plus a well-developed application of eurythmics in her spoken-word sequences — not to mention a superb sense of humor. It would, indeed, be difficult to name another young dancer in the Bay Area capable of holding together a performing group which produces a coherent and professional-caliber program under even the most informal of circumstances.

Miss Gaia, a student of Pepper Smith of San Francisco, was recently awarded a full advanced-level scholarship to the school of the San Francisco Ballet. It is to be hoped, however, that she will not lose sight of what her own group has yet to achieve. The Gaia Company and its talented young directress could go a long way in the contemporary dance scene.

The company will perform again next Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Tamalpais High School Dance Building. Admission is free but donations are welcome and needed.

Diablo Triangle Zone On Agenda

The Novato City Council will consider rezoning of the Diablo Triangle, a key parcel in the downtown area, at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The planning commission has recommended the area be zoned planned residential in keeping with the city's downtown plan.

It now contains limited agricultural, multiple family and retail commercial zoning, and owners of commercial land have opposed rezoning.

The council also will consider adopting an emergency interim ordinance to prevent development along Novato Creek which might interfere with flood control work.

Unexpected Delay For Flight 859

PRESTWICK, Scotland (UPI) —An Air Canada DC8 jetliner bound from London to Canada flew into a flock of seagulls during a scheduled landing at Prestwick airport Sunday and was taken out of service with a crippled engine.

One seagull was sucked into one of the four engines seconds before flight 859 touched the runway, badly damaging the engine. The pilot made a smooth landing.

District Sued

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—A class action suit has been filed against the Gallup McKinley County School District charging it misused more than $2 million in federal funds meant for the education of Indian children.

MUSIC REVIEW

New St. Mary's Outshines Music

SAN FRANCISCO — Attending the Winifred Baker-conducted Bach B Minor Mass yesterday in the new St. Mary's Cathedral was an awe-inspiring experience.

Packed with more than 2,500 persons, with many standing and even seated on the floor, the cathedral itself was the major source of wonder because of its breathtaking beauty.

A picture of inexpressible grandeur was presented by the 175-voice combined Winifred Baker Chorale from Marin and San Francisco Civic Chorale, four solists and a 23-piece orchestra positioned under the 196-foot spotlighted apex of the soaring roof, from which hung an enormous pyramid of glittering crystal rods. Said to represent the mercy of God descending, it had the effect of an extraordinary halo.

The music was not quite up to the potential of the cathedral, and this was not the fault of conductor or performers.

How the music was heard depended upon where one sat, since seating is in the round with no seat further than 75 feet from the sanctuary.

Walking around the perimeter I found those seated behind the singers, especially to the right, heard little, while those facing them or to the left received the full benefit of the acclaimed acoustics. There the great climaxes and singing of the four excellent soloists were impressive, but without amplification and with a sound-absorbing capacity audience, it would take a chorus twice the size of yesterday's to achieve sonority to match the magnitude of the cathedral.

Of the four soloists Marin soprano Gwen Curatilo's voice of bell-like clarity carried best as it floated with ease and agility through the difficulties of the florid music. The other soloists were mezzo soprano Donna Petersen, tenor Dan Parkerson and bass James Tippey.

Oddly enough the orchestral instruments were heard with great clarity even at the right, and some of the individual work on oboe, violin, horn, trumpet and flute added luster to the performance.

The position of the organ at some distance from the singers caused some difficulties because of time lag, and neither the artistry of Russell nor the potentialities of the great organ could be heard to advantage because he was forced to play it mostly as a continuo or background rather than solo instrument.

Everything considered, it was a memorable day for Marin musicians, since the 75 singers in the Winifred Baker Chorale and many of the instrumentalists were from this county.

Two Women Found Dead —Drownings

The bodies of two Tiburon doctors were found yesterday by the Coast Guard after an all-night search for the two women who had sailed into the Bay in an eight-foot sailboat.

Identified were Dr. Judith A. Dynoske, 27, of 34 Old Landing Road, and Dr. Margaret A. Downey, 46, of 36 Barbaree Way. Both women were podiatrists.

When the two women did not return, the Coast Guard began the search with a helicopter, two 40-foot patrol boats, a hover craft and the 82-foot cutter Point Winslow.

Dr. Dynoske's body was found at 6:44 a.m. near Fort Baker; Dr. Downey's body was located at 12:37 p.m. near Angel Island, according to Coast Guard officials.

Brent Schultz, deputy coroner in San Francisco, termed the deaths accidental due to drowning.

Dr. Dynoske's offices were at 911 Mission Avenue in San Rafael; Dr. Downey was a radiology instructor at the California College of Podiatry in San Francisco.

Both funerals will be held out of state. Services for Dr. Dynoske will be held in West Miflin, Pa. and, for Dr. Downey, in Oregon.

Half Of Inmates' Art Works Are Sold

More than half the 1,200 works of art by San Quentin inmates were sold in the art show and sale Saturday at the College of Marin, prison officials reported today.

According to Associate Warden James W. L. Park, inmates received approximately $14,000 for the works sold. This is double the amount of the first spring art show held last year at the Civic Center, he said.

The show opened 15 minutes ahead of the scheduled 8:30 a.m. opening time because of the large crowd of visitors already in line. Approximately 4,000 attended the spring show last year and the crowd was several thousand larger this year, Park said.

The exact number of items sold and exact amount of money taken in will not be known until a full inventory is taken today, Park said.

Too Slow Car Halted, 2 Arrested

Two 25-year-old Illinois men were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of a variety of drug charges after their auto was stopped on Highway 101 for going too slow in a fast traffic lane, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Jon A. Steiner and Michael Stuart Schuller were booked for investigation of possessing marijuana, dangerous drugs and paraphernalia and being in a place where drugs are used. An officer who stopped the men southbound on the freeway near the Marin County Civic Center about 9:35 p.m. said he noticed a smell of burning marijuana in the car and what appeared to be a marijuana cigarette on the floorboard.

After the pair was arrested, a search of the vehicle revealed three plastic bags containing suspected marijuana, a hypodermic syringe and a brass pipe.

Both men were held to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Radio Taken

Variance Bid Before Planners In Mill Valley

A variance to allow an old furniture store at 38 Miller Avenue to be converted into a cluster of shops will go before the Mill Valley Planning Commission at 8 p.m. today at city hall.

Developer W. W. Kirsch is requesting the variance to allow him to supply only 30 parking spaces, while the city's zoning ordinance requires 118.

A previous proposal to turn the store into a restaurant-bar was rejected by the city council, partly on the grounds of insufficient parking.

Also on the agenda is discussion of several variances which have been granted by planners and overturned by the city council on appeal.

By ALLAN LIVERS

Take equal parts of Fourth-of-July picnic, Sunday-at-the-beach, evening-of-community-theatre, hike-in-the-Sierras. Blend with plenty of people-watching, fresh air and sunshine. Season to taste with lots of good humor and you have a fine afternoon at the 54th annual Mountain Play.

Those who missed the Tamalpais Mountain Play Association's show yesterday in the open-air Sidney B. Cushing Memorial Theatre will get a second chance next Sunday at 2 p.m.

To some extent, it's a kind of happening, to large extent a community experience as basket lunches, babies, octogenarians, long-hairs and straights gather for the enjoyment of seeing a good theatrical classic, wonderful views of natural scenery and each other.

Hours before show time people were picking their spots in the amphitheater, spreading blankets and other padding on those hard stone seats, digging into hampers, stripping off heavier outer garments to add to that tan and generally getting in the mood that lasted until the final stragglers in a crowds of about 3,500 persons trailed out at the end of the afternoon.

Stage manager Dave Munro gave some last minute instructions to the "Villagers." Some touchup was applied to make-up. Marian Hayes Cain, the association's production coordinator, chatted in a relaxed mood as she double-checked to see everyone had been fed.

Much of his assurance is justified. It's an Herculean task to take Synge's classic mixture of the comic, the sardonic and the tender, written originally for the intimacy of the Abby Theatre where it first hit the boards in 1906 (causing riots incidently,) and adapt it to the open air 5000 seat, cloud and mountain backdrop against which it was presented.

Somehow set-designer William Carson, and the cast, aided and abbetted by a couple of ducks, some chickens, a horse and a goat — the latter paraded through the "house" during intermission to the delight of everyone — managed to hack it and the result, while not quite what Synge had in mind 63 years ago, certainly had its merits.

One can't really fool around with alterations on Synges lines, whether a purist or an experimenter, and Jackson wisely left them untouched. He did throw in a couple of excellent pipers, Ken Briggs and Reuben Santos, who opened the show atop Pohli Rock and paraded through the crowd during intermissions.

Of course no review's complete without some sort of criticism. Sooooooo, to dig really deeply: Old Mahon's original entrance from the audience — while a device which sometimes breeds intimacy and empathy — in this case made portions of the audience curious as to whether he was one of the freaks one sees these days., made others feel sympathetic for an outsider who was ill or drunk, and still others somewhat anxious as to whether he was going to upset the show. At any rate few in his vicinity paid the slightest attention to the goings-on of the cast until it became apparent he was one of them.

As the play neared its climax Pegeen began blowing on the hearth with a bellows and "real smoke" started coming from the chimney top. Play again forgotten, most of the audience was saying "Gee, look at the real smoke. Isn't that great!"

Those are minor items but they'll give the cast an opportunity to beef about how the viewers just don't understand true artistry!

The cast is well balanced — no small achievement in itself — and comes from Novato to Daly City, plus points in between. They've been working without pay since February and have a group accomplishment of which they justly may be proud.

QUEEN OF THE RODEO

Bambi Anderson, 15-year-old Sinaloa Junior High School student, riding Val-a-bar, was selected Saturday to be queen of the Western Weekend Rodeo in Novato June 20. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Anderson of 680 McClay Road, Novato. Selected to be princesses were Donna Bellucci, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bellucci, and Laurie Stewardson, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Stewardson.

Salary Proposal On School Agenda

The Sausalito School District's certificated employees council will present its salary recommendations for 1971-72 to the Sausalito School District board at 7:30 p.m. today in Bayside School.

The board will also hear a report for Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg on employee and student absences on May 19, Malcolm X's birthday.

Five Girls Report Indecent Exposure

Five girls ranging in age from 10 to 16 reported to Novato police yesterday that a juvenile exposed himself outside Novato High School between 4:30 and 4:45 p.m.

The suspect was described as being from 13 to 15 years old, about five feet six inches tall, wearing a dark plaid shirt and blue pants, officers said.

Charges On Tam Special Program Due Hearing

What appears to be a showdown between parents of mentally retarded students and Tamalpais High School District officials charged with operating a "special education program" will come before the district board tonight. It will meet at 8 p.m. at the Redwood High School faculty lounge.

According to some parents, who have grouped themselves under the banner of Citizens Association for Special Education (CASE), the controversy is two-pronged.

It arises, they say, from the district's reluctance to upgrade a badly out-of-state program and deficiencies in the teaching staff itself.

On the other hand, officials directly responsible for the program say parents have refused to work with teachers in making program changes but that teachers nevertheless have "worked diligently" to improve the program in areas of parent concern.

"It is the opinion of the staff that the charges of incompetence leveled against staff members are based mainly on personal issues,' says Dr. Janet M. Lyon, director of special education.

The issues first came before district trustees last summer when parents charged their children were being "treated as outcasts" by some teachers and students at Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley where the program is located.

The district board then referred the matter to Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins who assured the board he would resolve the matter at staff level.

Carlos's report was submitted Dec. 30 and contained many recommendations — most of them still awaiting action — for bringing the program not only up to state standards but up to standards which have generally been practiced elsewhere in the state for years.

Supt. Hawkins last week told the board that "the consultant concluded that the program was an excellent one."

The board, which was scheduled to discuss the program with parents, declined such discussion last week saying it would have to be done in closed session because charges against two teachers were inseparable from the program itself.

It set a closed session for tonight to delve into the charges.

The board subsequently reversed itself, however, and said the charges and the program would have to be handled separately.

To be discussed tonight in open session are parent charges that the program is years behind times, reflects a philosophy that mentally retarded students can't learn, and has failed to comply with state laws, regulations and recommendations.

Charges against two of the program's three teachers, will be heard in closed session.

Those charges, according to material supplied by the district, include frequent absense from the classrooms, little concern for the students and in one case, ineptitude.

Education Board To Act On Hiring New Principal

The San Rafael Board of Education tomorrow will act on the appointment of Dr. Peter Palches to succeed Dr. Alan Ellsberg as principal of San Rafael High School.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the Administration Building.

Palches, 38, is currently director of planning for Marina High School in San Mateo. He is a former high school English, journalism, and photography teacher, and was a research assistant at Stanford University's Center for Research and Development in Teaching from 1966-68.

An Army veteran, Palches received his doctorate in education from Stanford last year. He is married and has two daughters.

Ellsberg was principal of San Rafael High School since 1966.

Board members are scheduled to discuss preliminary budgets, $5,460,845 in the elementary district and $5,494,000 in the high school district, which don't carry any raise in the salary schedules.

Also scheduled is a switch in administrative assignments with Hanlon Tharp, principal of Davidson Junior High School, to be assigned principal of Gallinas and MacPhail elementary schools, and Virgil Birdsall, principal at the two schools, to become principal at Davidson.

$150 Fine For Pot Possession

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Municipal Court also placed Butler on probation for six months.

Butler was originally charged with felony possession of the drug as well as indecent exposure after a woman told San Rafael police a man had exposed himself to her on Lucas Valley Road.

Butler pleaded guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing the drug April 14 and the indecent exposure change was dismissed.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Spontaneous Recoveries Might Discourage A Strike By Doctors

PHYSICIANS may never go on strike because too many of their patients might get well without their help. Many disorders improve spontaneously. Cold sufferers might be uncomfortable for a few days, but they would soon appreciate the old saying about the respiratory disorder — "seven days with a doctor and a week without." Those riddled with anxieties and frustrations might shake in their boots for a week or two but their reward might be a new lease on life when they discover that many of their fears never materialized and that they can manage without tranquilizers. The same can be said for those with headaches, indigestion, backache, hemorrhoids and other self-limiting diseases.

BUT MEDICAL CARE is indispensable for ailments that might be fatal, incapacitating or disabling. One form of treatment — surgery — also is needed apropos the saying, "If you can't cure it, cut it out."

Dozens of emergencies require prompt, skilled care, and for these we could not do without our physicians. Accidents kill 115,000 in this country annually but 10 times this number are disabled and 100 times as many are in need of medical care.

A WOMAN in labor waits for no man. Nature knows best provided there are no complications. If there are, she wants a well trained doctor. A prolonged strike is most unlikely but should it occur those with heart attacks and strokes might be forced to return to treatments popular at the turn of the century.

Thirty years ago, 90 per cent of our modern medicines were unknown. Nurses, pharmacists and corpsmen could prescribe many drugs if they were willing to assume the responsibility for adverse reactions and indifidual idiosyncrasies. In time, everyone would be forced to depend upon self diagnosis which has many objections but an approach that is not necessarily fatal. After all, medical school teachers often tell their students, "Listen to the patient; he will tell you what is wrong with him."

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

SECOND WIND

T. C. writes: What is the explanation of the second wind in an athletic contest?

REPLY

The second wind is not too well understood but some believe that shortness of breath is traceable to a chemical reflex due to the production of lactic acid in the exercising limbs. Apparently, lactic acid accumulates in the last few minutes of activity and is absorbed into the blood, where it acts as a stimulant. The second wind comes after equilibrium has been established, at which time there is sufficient oxygen to supply energy. In addition, less lactic acids forms, the respiratory system loses its stimulating influence, and normal respiration returns.

HEART ATTACK

K. E. writes: When a person has heart attack does he lose consciousness?

REPLY

Many lose consciousness when the heart stops or beats erratically and may succumb unless the organ is stimulated with electrical shock or thumping the chest wall. Now and then it begins to beat spontaneously. But the majority develop chest pain without losing consciousness.

NERVOUS STOMACH

C. I. writes: What is done for gastric neurosis?

REPLY

Eliminate the neurosis and the stomach will cure itself. Tension from worry, overwork, frustration, and lack of sleep are common causes for this symptom.

Today is Monday, May 24, the 144th day of 1971.

The moon is new. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Gemini.

Queen Victoria of England was born May 24, 1819.

On this day in history:

In 1883 the Brooklyn Bridge linking the boroughs of Brooklyn and Manhattan was opened to the public for the first time.

In 1941 the "H.M.S. Hood" of the British navy, the world's largest warship at the time, was sunk by the German battlewagon "Bismarck" between Greenland and Iceland.

In 1962 Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm Scott Carpenter of the U.S. Navy became the second American to go into orbit. He circled the earth three times.

Moss Hits Attack On Broadcasters

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, accuses the administration of attacking broadcasters because it is "paranoid with fear, suspicion and loathing of a free and undomesticated press."

Moss in a Senate speech criticized Nixon administration officials for their attacks upon the CBS news documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon."

A Beautiful Swindle Lives On In Memory For 20 Years

Today's hand was given to me by a perfect stranger in an elevator of the Drake Hotel in New York. Now, the Drake is a quiet, well-bred place, and ordinarily it's a big deal if a stranger even nods to you, but the man said he'd known this hand for 20 years, had recognized me from the picture on the jacket of one of my books and wasn't going to wait another 20 years to unburden himself. So here it is:

BOY WONDER

"Johnny Rau was declarer," the stranger related. "You know him, of course?" I nodded. A boy wonder in the early '30s, Rau is still a first-class player.

"Rau played low from dummy at the first trick and lost to the king of spades. Back came the three of spades to dummy's ace. Now Rau didn't look happy. He needed four diamond tricks, so he had to find the king on side with the diamonds divided equally. He said later that the odds were 5-to-1 against him."

EXTRA CHANCE

"Rau saw one extra chance. He couldn't lose anything by testing the clubs first, so he led a low club from dummy at the third trick.

"My friend, Sidney Satenstein, played the king of clubs, and Rau looked like a man who'd been reprieved from the electric chair. Now he didn't need the diamonds."

I nodded again, just as the elevator went past my floor. (Few of my readers realize what sacrifices I make for them.)

TRIES FINESSE

"So Rau took the ace of clubs and led the nine of clubs for a finesse. Satenstein fished through his hand and found the jack of clubs. He led another spade and Rau was down one. If Rau had played the diamonds, he'd have made the contract."

The stranger paused a moment and added: "This hand has kept me awake for 20 years. Now that I've passed it on, I'll be able to sleep at night."

I found it kep me awake, too, for a few nights, but I'll sleep like a baby after it has appeared in the column.

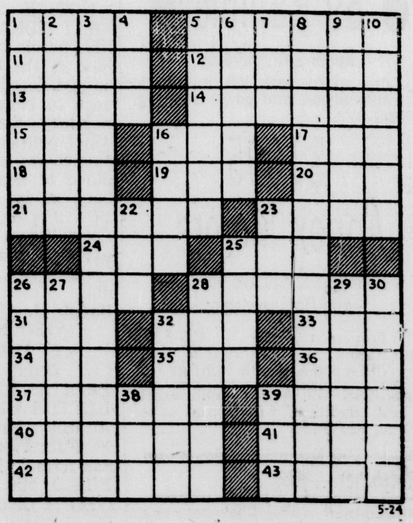
Saturday's Answer



Marin's Miracle Drive To Championship

By DAVID EINSTEIN

Marin Catholic High School baseball coach Gary Hughes was counting his blessings Friday night, but he was also counting something more substantial. Like the $470 people paid to see his Wildcats win the Marin County Athletic League pennant.

Nearly 2,000 fans jammed San Rafael's Albert Park as Marin Catholic defeated Terra Linda, 7-4, thereby overtaking the staggering Novato Hornets for the championship. It was probably the largest crowd ever to watch a regular season MCAL game, and it proved without a doubt that night baseball, which Hughes brought to Marin this year, can be successful at the high school level.

As for his blessings, Hughes remarked afterward, "It's amazing how everything just fell into place. The tremendous amount of things that had to happen and did to allow us to get in."

He pointed out that with barely half the season over, his team was 4-3-1 while Novato was running away from the pace at 7-1. Then, however, what had to happen began. Novato went belly up, losing three of its last four, while Marin Catholic won its last six in a row.

The whiz-kid finish was even more remarkable because only one player in the lineup is a senior. That's Tom Olson, the winning pitcher in the final four league games. He wasn't at his best Friday night, but still went the distance. "I would have gone with him till the cows came home," Hughes said of the four-year varsity veteran.

With the MCAL title comes the right to represent the league in the annual Redwood Tournament of Champions, which opens Thursday at Albert. The Wildcats have been there twice, in 1967, and the following year, when they became the only Marin team ever to win it.

This year, if only because of their youth, they wear the underdog label, but don't count them out. Before the title game Friday night, Hughes told the team, "Everybody's talking about how good we'll be next year. As far as I'm concerned, next year starts tonight."

RULES COMPROMISE FOR ALL-STAR GAME

HOUSTON (UPI) — Friday's first all-star basketball game between the National Basketball Association and the American Basketball Association will be played with rules borrowed from both leagues.

Three-point shots of the ABA will be allowed during the first half but NBA scoring rules will be followed in the second half.

The NBA's less colorful ball will be used but the scoring clock will be set for 30 ABA regulation seconds instead of the 24-second clock used in the NBA.

Athletics Take Two Of Three

OAKLAND (UPI)—Minnesota manage Bill Rigney brought his Twins to Oakland for a three-game series, promptly whipped the A's in the first game, and then laughed at the suggestion that the A's were running away with the American League West race. Now that Rigney has seen Vida Blue, he's not laughing.

Blue, the A's hard-throwing young lefthander who leads the American League in strikeouts, became the first 10-game winner in both leagues Sunday when he stopped the Twins, 3-1, on just five singles.

For the Twins, it was their second straight loss to the A's after taking the series opener, 10-1. Jim Hunter hurled a two-hitter in the second game for a 5-1 victory.

And what may worry Rigney and other A.L. managers more, Blue served notice after the game that he plans to win a few more this season.

"You know that don't excite me, man," the 21-year-old Blue said when asked if he was excited about becoming the season's first 10-game winner.

"Winning 10 games doesn't make me king for a day," he said. "I've still got to think about my 11th, 12th, 13th and all the rest of them."

"When I go four-for-four that's when I'll be excited, but that hasn't happened yet," he said.

Blue did collect one hit in Sunday's game, but the damage he did was on the mound, where he fanned nine, and the A's increased their lead in the A.L. West to 7 1-2 games.

All the help Blue needed at the plate came from first baseman Mike Epstein, who slapped a two-run homer in the fourth inning, his second since coming to the A's from Washington and his third of the year. Reggie Jackson had blooped a two-out double before Epstein's homer.

Oakland's other run came in the sixth inning on a walk to Jackson, a single by Sal Bando and a sacrifice fly by Rick Monday.

Giants End Jinx

HOUSTON (UPI)—With the help of Ron Bryant, Bobby Bonds, Jerry Johnson and Houston's Jim Wynn, the San Francisco Giants finally broke the Astrodome jinx.

Bryant pitched eight strong innings, Johnson tossed a quick inning of relief to shut off a mild Houston threat in the ninth and Bonds drove in three runs with three hits Sunday as the Giants socked the Astros, 7-4.

Centerfielder Wynn contribued to the victory by misplaying a Bonds single that turned into a triple, bobbling a single that allowed a run to score and popping up to the infield in the fifth when the Astros had a chance for a rally.

The win snapped an eight-game Giants losing streak in the Astrodome and prevented Houston from sweeping the three-game series. Before Sunday's game, San Francisco had won only three of its last 21 games in the temperature-controlled dome.

The Giants are off today before opening a three-game series with Los Angeles, where they have a perfect opportunity to increase their nine-game National League West lead over the second place Dodgers.

Southpaw Bryant scattered 12 hits in winning his fifth game against one loss before tiring in the ninth after Joe Morgan led off with a single. Johnson, who now has appeared in 20 of the Giants' 43 games, came into retire the side on three pitches.

Bond's triple, a line-drive that bounced over the head of Wynn in the second, drove in Bryant, who had doubled in Alan Gallagher with the Giants' first run.

Bonds' single, which was misplayed by Wynn, scored San Francisco's final two runs.

Marin Lands 5 In Meet

Five Marin County Athletic League track and field stars, four of them from Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley, have qualified for the California State Championships.

The four Indians, Vian Collier, Mike Arago, Al Schlette and Gerald Robertson, flashed the brilliance that brought Tam the MCAL crown as they finished among the top four in different events Saturday, at the North Coast Section finals in Santa Rosa.

Chakra Chappell of Novato's San Marin High was the other MCAL star to earn a berth in the state meet, to be held June 4-5 in Los Angeles.

Three of the MCAL qualifiers posted the best marks of their careers, but the only MCAL record to be eclipsed was in the triple jump, where Robertson soared 44-7. The jump was only good enough for fourth place, however. Collier did the best of any Marin runner, finishing second in the mile with a time of 4:19.5.

Chappell was within a 10th of a second of the MCAL 880 mark and nearly two seconds better than his previous best as he finished fourth in 1:54.5. And Schlette improved by five inches on his career best long jump with a 22-6½ performance, also good for fourth.

Arago, the second fastest two-miler in MCAL history, ran for him a poor race, but managed to take fourth in 9:22.9.

PRO GOLF RARITY

An Over-Par Win

"I had just come off the 11th hole (on Saturday) with a double bogey and I was six over par for the tournament," he said. "And, now here I am a winner. It just doesn't seem possible."

But anything was possible for a golfer who could nibble away at the beastly Colonial Country Club's 7,142-yard, par 35-35—70 course on about as windy a Sunday as they dream up in Texas these days.

Littler survived the winds and the narrow fairways to fire a one-under-par 69 that was good enough for a three-over-par 283 and a one-stroke victory in the 26th Colonial National Invitation. (List of golfers and final scores on page 27.)

The former U.S. Open champion sacked up $25,000 for his second win of the year. Bert Yancey, who closed with a 70, was one stroke back at 284 and won $14,300.

Third-round leader Julius Boros faded to a 76 and wound up tied for third with Fred Marti, George Knudson and Orville Moody. Marti shot a 74, and Knudson a 73. Moody was one of the day's fortunate souls, shooting a 69 and moved past 25 other golfers in the process.

Littler's winning score of three-over-par was the highest championship total in relation to par since the 1963 U.S. Open when Boros, Arnold Palmer and Jacky Cupit all shot 13-over 293s to tie. Boros subsequently won the 18-hole playoff.

"Well, answers Littler, "every hole is a potential bogey or worse, and in conditions like this with the wind there are no make-up holes.

"It can be a frustrating course if you are hitting the ball poorly. Some courses you can get away with scraping the ball around. But not here."

Littler started the day five shots behind Boros, but the wind soon got to the leader.

Dave Stockton moved into the temporary lead, but he triple bogeyed the third hole and double-bogeyed the sixth and he was out of it for the day and wound up seven over par.

George Knudson moved into the lead, and held it until late on the back nine, but then Littler made his move.

ALL IS GO FOR SATURDAY

Fastest Lineup For Indy

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —A starting lineup 4.5 miles an hour faster than last year and averaging better than the swiftest qualifier only a year ago, was set today for Saturday's million-dollar 500-mile Speedway auto race, with the only certainty that more records will tumble.

The 33-car lineup, averaging 171.665 miles per hour, was firmed up late Sunday, concluding two weekends of time trials on their usually hectic note, but only three drivers made successful qualification runs sunday as time ran out.

Twenty-one cars were qualified faster than the 170.221 m.p.h. that won the 1970 pole for Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., who also won the race.

Peter Revson of New York won the pole spot this year at a record clip of 178.696.

Veterans Mel Kenyon, Lebanon, Ind., Art Pollard, Medford, Ore., and Bob Harkey, Indianapolis, were last three speedsters to join the field in the 11th and last row on race day—Pollard 24 hours after he was "bumped" by a faster machine.

Kenyon eliminated a car qualified by Carl Williams, Grandview, Mo., at 170.205; Pollard ousted Jim McElreath, Arlington, Tex., at 169.500, and Harkey bumped Dick Simon, Salt Lake City, at 169.197, making him the slowest in the field.

McElreath, a former Speedway "rookie of the year" and winner of the inaurgal "California 500" last year, was bumped twice. His original car was ousted Saturday.

San Rafael Profs Walk Off With Prize

San Rafael High School may be the walking capital of the world.

Tom Dooley, Goetz Klopfer and Bill Ranney, all teachers at SRHS, finished first, second and seventh respectively yesterday in the National Senior Amateur Athletic Union 20-kilometer walk through Golden Gate Park in San Francisco.

All three were representing the Athens Track Club, and Dooley and Klopfer won the right to represent this country in the U.S. — Russian World Meet in Berkeley, July 2-3, and the Pan Amarican games in Columbia in August.

Dooley, a 26-year-old physical education teacher, covered the 12 miles, 756 yards in one hour, 32 minutes and 18 seconds. Klopfer finished 20 seconds later, and Ranney was clocked in 1:35.42.

Their combined performance gave Athens the club award over the New York Athletic Club. Athens has won national championships in the Olympic distance walks, and 20 and 50 kilomters, every year since 1968.

San Rafael High also claims a great student walker, Jerry Lansing. He won the five-mile walk earlier this month at an AAU- sanctioned walkathon at San Francisco State. His time of 40.32 makes him the fastest high school walker in the country, and gives him a chance to try out for the 1972 Olympics.

Palacio, Scott Triumph

Former California State amateur champion Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael and guest Homer Scott of the Meadow Club near Fairfax teamed up to win low gross honors Friday and Saturday in the 10th annual Marin Country Club Invitational Golf Tournament in Novato.

Fighting through stiff winds Friday and taking advantage of ideal weather conditions Saturday, the pair had a two-day, 36-hole best ball aggregate of 140 strokes. Runners-up for the low gross championship were Lee Lemquhl of Novato and Roy Levin of Sacramento with a 143.

Palacio, 55, one of Marin County's best golfers with the 1936 state title and countless other championships to his credit, fired a brilliant five-under-par 67 on his own ball Saturday for the best individual round of the popular tournament, and he had a penalty stroke to mar an even better score.

Levin shot a 68 on Saturday.

Low net championship went to Marin C.C. member R.J. Moran and guest Roger Bohnne of Mill Valley who had a 24-under-par 120 for the 36 holes. Bohnne is beginning to like the Marin course as two weeks ago, in a realtors' tournament, he shot a hole-in-one there. Had he waited until Friday or Saturday he would have won a new car offered for anyone shooting an ace.

Runners-up for low net honors at 122 were member Jim Carroll and Dante Ravetti of the San Francisco Olympic Club.

All scores were better Saturday than they were Friday when the wind velocity was estimated to be 35 to 40 miles per hour, according to assistant professional Wayne Webster.

First day low gross honors went to Dennis Rose of Novato and Jack Ramey of Modesto. Second day low gross was by Lloyd Ferguson of Fairfax and Ray Healy of the Olympic Club.

In the daily low net derby, first day honors went to Warren Ahr of Novato and Norman Bostock of San Mateo while Norval MacDonald of Novato and Ray Aguirre of the Rohnert Park Golf Club took Saturday's honors.

Blue notched his 10th complete game, his fifth shutout and increased his league strikeout leadership to 95. He also lowered his earned run average of 1.03 over 93 2-3 innings.

The A's take the day off today, then complete their home stand with a two-game series against the California Angels beginning Tuesday night. Chuck Dobson (3-0) will be on the mound for the A's Tuesday night against the Angels' Clyde Wright (4-3).

UCLA Trackmen Surprise Coach

SEATTLE (UPI) — UCLA track coach Jim Bush had it all figured out after the early finals—his Bruins were going to lose the Pacific-8 Conference track and field championship to Oregon by 20 points.

But the Bruins got the fastest 440 in the world this year from Wayne Collett and piled up late points in the field events to wipe out a large Duck lead and win the conference title over the weekend.

It was the third Pac-8 crown in three years for UCLA and Bush said the meet in Husky Stadium was "the real American track and field championship."

"My athletes promised to do the job and did," Bush said Saturday. "I had it doped for an Oregon victory after Friday, 146-125 1-2. But my athletes were great."

Then he added: "I like this place," which is good for the Bruins because the NCAA Track and Field Championships will be held in the same stadium June 17-19.

Bush's Bruins got vital points in the pole vault, triple jump and high jump to total 126 for the meet to 117 for Oregon.

Collett and John Smith avenged an earlier loss this season to USC's Edesel Garrison by placing 1-2 in the 440. Collett clocked 45.3 with Smith a fraction behind at 45.5 and Garrison well back in third at 46.8.

Southern California placed third in the two-day meet with 102 points followed by California, 77; Washington, 45; Stanford, 36; Oregon State, 29; and Washington State, 26.

Oregon's Steve Prefontaine scored a tough double in the mile and three-mile. He grabbed the shorter race in 4:01.5 as the Ducks finished 12-3. And Prefontaine ran on what he called "pure guts" in the three-mile to edge Stanford's Don Kardong with a strong final lap and a time of 13:17.9.

The only other double winner was USC's Willie Deckard in the 100 and 220. He was third in 9.7 into a headwind in the shorter race and had a 20.9 clocking in the 220.

Despite Deckard's wins, UCLA piled up 63 points in the sprint races, including the 100, 220, and two relays.

The most surprising win of the day came in the tole vault where Washington's Kirk Bryde cleared 17-4, which was 10 inches higher than he had ever gone before. He credited the win to a new pole that flipped him over every height on the first try until he reached 17-7.

UCLA's James Butts took a dramatic win in the triple jump when he leaped 54-2 1-2 on his final try of the day to pass Bob Reader of Oregon State by 4 inches. His distance was windaided however and Reader's mark of 53-10 1-2 will be recognized as a conference record.

Larry Hollins of USC took the high jump at 7-0 1-4 and his Trojan teammate Joe Antunovich repeated as the conference discus champ at 190-10.

UCLA, with Collett holding off Garrison at the tape, won the 440-relay in 39.9 and the Bruins also won the mile relay in 3:08.3.

California freshman Rick Brown took the 880 with a lifetime best of 1:49.1 and the hurdles winners were Lance Babb of USC in the highs at 13.8 and Washington's Jim Seymour in the intermediates at 50.9.

Nine-Year Track Mark Is Broken

Steve Johnson of Santa Venetia eclipsed a nine-year-old record in the 100-yard dash, and Liz Sakellariou and Sandra Johnson broke two records apiece Saturday in the Marin County Track and Field Finals for seventh and eighth graders at College of Marin.

Altogether, 17 records went down the drain as boys and girls from 17 junior high schools competed in four classes. Team scores were not kept.

Johnson, competing in class A, ran the 100 in 10.4, smashing by three 10ths of a second the record set in 1962 by Dean Lazzarini. The only other mark to fall in class A was in the 660 yard run, where Rich Neal of Davidson clocked a 1:33.2. The old record was 1:33.6.

Miss Sakellariou, from Neil Cummins, and Miss Johnson, from Miller Creek, broke the records for the 50 and 100 yard dashes in the seventh and eighth grade girls' races respectively.

Ray Sadecki Has Learned To Be A Patient Pitcher

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

If there's one thing Ray Sadecki has learned during his 14 years in professional baseball, it would have to be patience.

It takes a good deal of patience for a man, particularly one who once was the ace of a world championship team, to sit on a bench and wait for a call. It takes something else to make good use of the infrequent opportunities.

Sadecki, who won 20 games for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals in 1964 received a chance for his second start of the season Sunday and he allowed hard-hitting Atlanta only five hits as the New York Mets downed the Braves, 4-0. Sadecki walked only one batter and struck out six as a crowd of 50,999 watched the contest at Shea Stadium.

"I've only pitched 15 2-3 innings," Sadecki said after his fine triumph. "But I understand the situation on this club and I can't get too upset about not playing more. We have several good strong starters and only a few off days in the schedule, so it's tough to get anyone else in the rotation.

"It makes me feel real good to do the job. With a staff as strong and as deep as ours, you tell me who they're going to sit down. After you've pitched around and have a chance to analyze things, it's easier to accept being a relief pitcher. This would be a terrible job with a second-division club, but with a winner it's not too bad."

Thanks to Sadecki's second victory in as many decisions, the Mets maintained their slim edge on first place in the National League's East Division, five percentage points in front of the Cardinals, who whipped the San Diego Padres, 6-1.

The San Francisco Giants, meantime, stretched their West Division lead to nine full games as they beat the Houston Astros, 7-4. In other games, the Cincinnati Reds nipped the Philadelphia Phils, 4-3, the Los Angeles Dodgers tripped the Chicago Cubs, 4-3, and the Montreal Expos beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2.

In the American League, Baltimore and Boston split a doubleheader, the Orioles taking the opener, 12-3, and the Red Sox the nightcap, 2-1; Detroit took a doubleheader from Washington, 5-0 and 11-0, Milwaukee defeated Kansas City, 4-0, Oakland beat Minnesota, 3-1, California routed Chicago, 10-5, and the New York Yankees beat Cleveland, 6-3, in the first game of a doubleheader with the Indians taking the second game, 2-1.

The Mets jumped off to an early 3-0 lead over Atlanta and Tommie Agee added the icing with a fifth-inning homer as New York completed a sweep of the three-game series. Mike McQueen (2-1) was the loser.

Reggie Cleveland celebrated his 23rd birthday with his first two hits of the season, including a run-scoring double, as he pitched the Cardinals to victory over San Diego. Cleveland, now 4-2, struck out nine and allowed seven hits.

Cincinnati used a two-run homer by Tony Perez and a costly error by leftfielder Joe Lis to score four runs in the first inning en route to victory. Don Gullett allowed homers to Willie Montanez and Deron Johnson of Philadelphia in the first inning, but went on to claim his fifth victory in seven decisions with eighth-inning relief from Clay Carroll.

Jim Lefebvre hit a two-run homer with none out in the ninth inning to lift the Dodgers over Chicago and end Ferguson Jenkins' seven-game winning streak. Jim Hickman drove in two runs for the Cubs with a homer and a single.

Ernie McAnally won his first major league game for Montreal after four losses, although he had to be relieved in the ninth inning by Mike Marshall when Pittsburgh scored both its runs. Bob Bailey hit a three-run homer for the Expos in the eighth.

Another Title For Merritt

PLEASANT HILL, Calif. (UPI)—Merritt College has won its third consecutive Northern California junior college track and field championship and will travel to Modesto Saturday in an effort to win its third straight state JC track title.

Merritt outscored Fresno, 76-69, in the Northern California meet Saturday by winning the 440 and mile relays and winning the shot put and 100.

THIS DAY IN SPORTS

UCLA Over USC For Net Title

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)—If the Pacific-8 Conference tennis championships were any indication, UCLA should repeat as NCAA champs again this spring.

The powerful Bruins had little trouble Saturday in downing cross-town rival Southern California 7-3. The Bruins dropped only one singles match and one in the doubles competition to the Trojans.

All the UCLA wins came in straight sets as they took the Pac-8 crown.

Many Tennis Stars Pass French Open

PARIS (UPI)—The $95,000 French International Open Tennis Championship —one of the grand slam events of world tennis—began today without many of the potential grand slammers around.

World-ranked pros like Rod Laver, John Newcombe, Tony Roche, Fred Stolle and others, decided to give the Roland Garros hard courts a miss this year —once again.

They considered the French do not offer enough money and, in any event, prefer not to wear themselves out before Wimbledon. Roy Emerson, Ken Rosewall and Cliff Drysdale of South Africa were also elsewhere as the curtain went up.

However, on hand to challenge defending champion Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia for the title and the $8,700 first prize money were a number of favored Americans, including Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., who missed the event last year because of an injury. Smith won the recent Paris International open tournament on the same court.

Arthur Ashe, of Gum Springs, Va., and Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., beaten in the semifinals last year, were among the top contenders.

By DON CARTER

Can a bowler do well without any backswing? Of course not. It is impossible to deliver a bowling ball without letting it swing alongside your body. The idea, however, is to get tenpinners to reduce the size of their swing and thereby eliminate many of the problems caused by a looping motion behind the body.

49er Film Highlights Boosters Meeting

The Marin Catholic High School boosters' club will meet tomorrow night at St. Sebastian Hall, next to the campus in Kentfield, athletic director Gary Hughes announced today.

The meeting will be free of charge and will include showing of the San Francisco 49ers' highlight film, "Welcome No More." Len Rohde of the 49ers will provide a commentary.

GETTING THEIR KICKS

Booting Footballs On A Spring Day

Saturday was just perfect for all sorts of springtime activities — like fishing, picnicking, boating and kicking footballs.

Kicking footballs? More than 3,000 kicks, in fact, toward 11 different goal posts. The place was Novato High School and the occasion was Gordon Tovani's third annual place-kicking clinic.

Field goal units from 22 high schools representing towns throughout California took part in the affair, which included agility drills, a movie, and special long-kicking events. The units, which consisted of centers, holders, kickers and coaches, wore game shirts and pants and competed for trophies and awards.

Although he didn't get a full turnout of the 29 teams that had signed up for the clinic, Tovani, one-time Oakland Raider kicker who now lives in San Rafael, was pleased.

"All of the coaches I talked to said they wanted to come back next year," he said. "Some of them said they'd be interested in putting on this kind of event in their own areas."

Several experts on place-kicking besides Tovani were present at the clinic, including former Raider stars Mike Mercer, and Wayne Hawkins, and 1970 Stanford kicker Steve Horowitz. He signed a contract last week to try out for the Miami Dolphins of the National Football League.

In the drill competition, where timing and accuracy were measured, Drake High of San Anselmo repeated as overall winner, followed closely by an outfit from Tracy. And Drake kicker John Loane also tied for second in the longest field goal event with a 53-yarder.

The longest shot, a 55-yarder, was booted by Odvaard Lyssand of Redwood City. He is the younger brother of Knute Lyssand, who won the first competition in 1969.

The other special award, for longest kickoff, went to Dan Francis of Danville, who rooted one 66 yards. Ron Vandermeer of Tracy, whose unit took second in the drills, had a 65-yard kickoff, and Urbano Boucisquez of San Marin High in Novato had a 64-yarder.

Boucisquez, who won the longest field goal event last year, set a California Interscholastic Federation record in the 1970 season with three field goals in one game. And two of them were better than 40 yards.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. We are retired and hold 100 shares of Dan River and five other issues. Should we hold this stock or sell and increase some other holding? — M.P.

A. Textile manufacturers have been hard hit in the last year by general economic sluggishness, foreign competition and consumer resistance in the "hemline" battle. Dan River has reported deficits in four of the last five quarters. For the most recent period — the March quarter — sales gained 7 per cent but a deficit of 11 cents a share was reported.

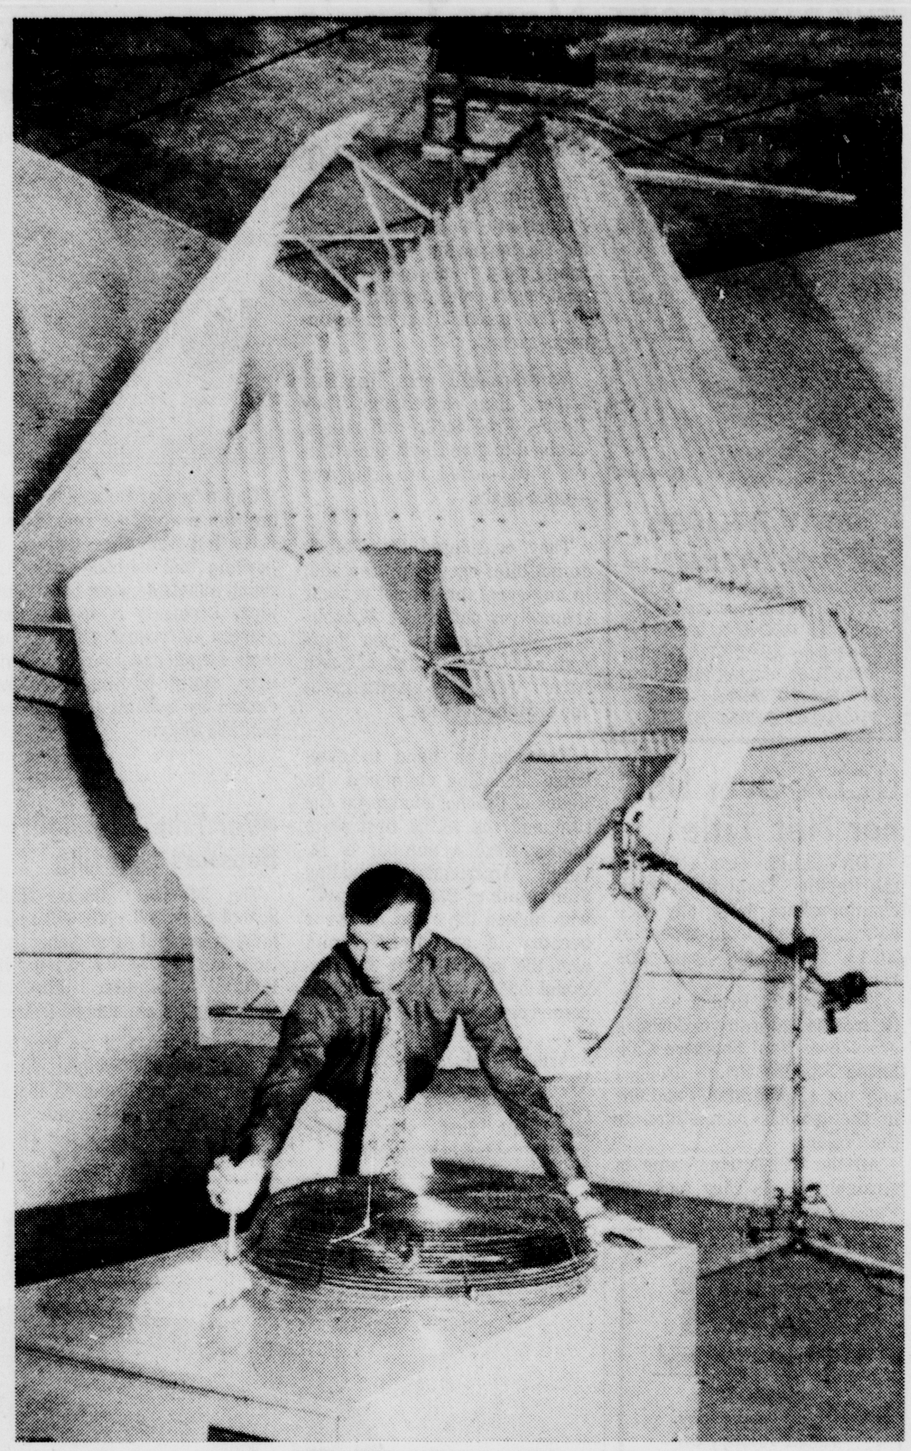
Knitted textiles have enjoyed strong demand and last year Dan River's sales in this area were up 70 per cent. Corduroy sales were also strong. Carpet, lighter weight fabrics, sheeting and yarns, which account for 73 per cent of sales, were very slow to move. However, turnover of these products is expected to pick up and should enable Dan River to show a profit for the year. I look for a good level of recovery in this group and would not advise disposing of these shares at this time.

Q. What is "Over-the-Counter" trading? — H.K.

A. This stock market handles transactions in securities not listed on any of the other exchanges, as well as executing orders on some listed issues. Approximately 25,000 registered issues are traded here annually.

Unlike the New York Stock Exchange, which operates on a double auction basis, the OTC market functions on a negotiation basis. Your broker may act as dealer in transacting your orders, in which case his profit is the spread between bid and ask. If he acts as broker or agent you will pay the customary commission.

Brokers may be market makers in a particular security, and thus are expected to be able to buy and sell round lots at firm prices. The "pink sheets," printed daily, contain price listings of transactions by these market makers.



TESTS FOR SOUND

False Advertising In Canada Studied

OTTAWA (UPI) —Out of the thousand-odd complaints of false and misleading advertising received by the Canadian Federal Consumer Affairs Department during the past year, three charges resulted in convictions.

A report by the combined investigation branch said complaints were received involving 650 separate advertisements. Of these, 18 were the subject of prosecutions and 14 were still before the courts when the report was prepared.

Chrysler Reports Sales Up In May

DETROIT (BW) — Chrysler-Plymouth dealers sold 16,757 passenger cars in the first 10 selling days of May — an increase of 9 per cent over the 15,331 cars sold in the May 1-10 period of 1970.

Plastic Replacing More Metal Parts

NEW YORK (UPI)—Plastics are clambering to share the driver's seat with metals in the fabrication of American automobiles, and by 1975 probably will make up half the parts of the average American car, predicts an auto color expert.

The plastic finish will be just as fine as the metal one, although it will require more color, says Chemetron Corporation's Rene Willis. Color pigments used today by automobile paint manufacturers can be adapted for finishes on plastic autos.

TRY DATA BANK

Millions Are Available Yearly For Scholarships To College

NEW YORK (UPI)—Many studnts in the process of graduating from high school and their families are scrounging around today for money to pay college expenses looming ahead.

For some June graduates the computer may have an answer, or partial answer, to that financial problem.

Have you lived on an Indian reservation for at least six weeks? Or, is your last name Murphy, Anderson or Leavenworth?

If so you may be eligible for part or full financil aid, details of which can be found in the computer data bank maintained by Scholarship Search, a New York company. Banks around the country are signing up with this company as a public service gesture and also to ease the pressure for low interest college loans in a time of tight money.

Millions of dollars in scholarships, grants and loans are available each year through various private and government organizations. Yet many scholarships go unused because students and their counselors do not know they exist since some are awarded on the basis of where you live, ethnic origins, vocational preferences, social or religious affiliations and the like.

Two years ago three young New York men —Steve Schlessinger, Leonard Sauson and Charles Beaghan — decided to program a computer to ferret out scholarship information. Six months ago they went to David North & Associates, Inc., a management consultant firm in New York, to see how to set a broad base for the operation.

David North suggested banks.

Since May 1, 35 banks with more than 600 branches around th country have signed up with the service. Seventy other applications are pending and 400 are expected to be in the scholarship research business by midsummer. American Fletcher National Bank of Indianapolis had 2,000 applications in the first 10 days, according to North. The Western Pennslvania National Bank of Pittsburgh ran out of application forms just handling its own employees.

The applicant goes to a bank with such a service and fills out a five page questionnaire. He gets back a computerized printout suggesting scholarship or other college financial aid for which he may be eligible and details on how, when and where to apply for it. For a fee of $20 each applicant receives a minimum of 10 "leads" to financial aid. No charge is made if the computer fails to provide at least 10 scholarship or grant items.

Grants ranging from $100 to full tuition, board and room are in this data bank. Donors include unions, fraternal organizations, foundations, local, state and federal agencies, military auxiliary organizations, industrial groups, corporations and educational institutions.

Financial need is not a deterrent in qualifying.

For example, an American Indian living in New York state and desiring a career in agriculture can apply to Cornell University for a tuition grant. Any student with the surname "Leavenworth" can apply to Yale for a $900 annual tuition grant thanks to a fund established by a Yale graduate interested in perpetuating this family name.

"The response has been extraordinary," said North. "We've had letters from descendants of Pocahontas and General Custer, members of the Daughters of the American Revolution, an Eskimo from Point Barrow, Alaska, and a student in Uganda, Africa."

Wall Street Prices In Decline

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prices declined through the first two hours on Wall Street today, but, turnover was light.

One analyst noted little interest either in buying or selling stocks, and said the list was "backing and filling trying to decide which way to go." Harry Laubscher of Walston & Co. looked for an increase in the prime bank interest rates within the next couple of weeks, which he said would have an adverse impact on the stock market.

Prices also backpedaled in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange. Lowers topped winners by around 150 issues.

Among the most active Amex issues were Harvey Hubbel "B" down slightly on over 50,000 shares, Ling-Temco warrants also fractionally lower on a volume of 24,000, and McCrory warrants "new" about steady on a turnover of 20,000.

On the Big Board, stocks on the most active list including Ling-temco down 1 1-2, Brainiff Airways off 3-4, Commercial Solvents 1 1-8 lower, American Brands off 3-4, American Telephone unchanged, and Natomas up 1 7-8

Steels were steady to weak, while chemicals and airlines were fractionally mixed.

Innovation Told In Offshore Oil Search

NEW YORK (UPI)—Marine surveying to find offshore oil deposits has taken a new twist. Seismic Computing Corp. in Houston, Tex., has placed in service a "Piggy-Back" combination that mates a 165-feet-long mother ship with a 52-foot-barge that can conduct seismic surveying in close-to-shore waters only two feet deep.

On arriving near shallow water the self-propelled barge is launched by winches to begin surveying while the larger ship works in deeper water. A computer aboard the mother vessel checks "Baby's" location.

Bell Electric Reports Losses

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Bel Electronic Corp. has reported a net loss from continuing operations of $179,000, equal to four cents per share for the nine months ended March 31.

The company also reported a loss from non-continuing operations of $435,000, or 11 cents per share and an extraordinary charge of $800,000 or 20 cents per share.

Theodore Williams, president, said the loss from continuing operations primarily reflected a $500,000 after tax write-down of receivables and inventories.
